Pole Chosen as New Pope

Times News Services

VATICAN CITY — Polish Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, 58, was elected the first non-Italian pope in 455 years today and took the name John Paul II.

He is one the youngest popes of modern times.

The last non-Italian pope was a Dutchman, Adrian VI, who died in 1523.

As soon as Vatican Radio announced a pope had been chosen, people began filling St. Peter's Square to await the new pontiff to make his traditional appearance at the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica to bless the crowd.

The new pontiff succeeds Pope John Paul I, who died Sept. 28.

Cardinal Wojtyla, archbishop of Krakow, is the 263rd successor to the throne of St. Peter.

White smoke, the traditional signal that a new pontiff is chosen, billowed into the night from the Sistine Chapel at 6:18 p.m. local time (10:18 a.m. PDT). "It is official, the Pope is elected," the Vatican radio said.

John Paul II

The 111 cardinal-electors made their decision on the second day of voting in their secret Sistine Chapel conclave. It came on what was apparently the seventh or eighth ballot.

Some time after the smoke appeared, the windows of the sealed-off conclave area burst open and dozens of prelates waving white handkerchiefs stepped out to the applause of about 50,000 persons in St. Peter's Square.

All eyes in the square remained glued to St. Peter's Basilica as crowds gathered for the announcement of the name of the new pontiff.

The new Pope, born in Wadowice, Poland, on May 18, 1920, was elevated to cardinal by Pope Paul VI eleven years ago and is a member of several Vatican congregations.

He was born the son of a chemical factory worker and has a good working relationship with the Communist government of Poland.

RAIDS SNIP HEROIN CONNECTION

CALGARY (CP) — RCMP said Sunday the arrest of seven persons and the seizure of 2½ pounds of heroin destroyed one of the largest heroin organizations operating in Western Canada in recent years.

Seizure of the heroin, with an estimated street value of $6.4 million, and the arrests were made when 60 RCMP officers conducted simultaneous raids in Edmonton, Calgary, Banff, Alta., and Vancouver.

CUPW Playing A Waiting Game

Representatives of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers met again with Acting Labor Minister Andre Ouellet in Ottawa today prior to announcing a decision on a national strike.

While the talks continued inside postal workers at nine centres remained off the job.

CUPW president Jean-Claude Parrot said the 23,000-member union would wait until after the Ouellet meeting before deciding whether to have a country-wide walkout.

Parrot said members of the 23,000-member union voted 78.5 per cent in favor of strike action to back contract demands.

The national union executive board met during the weekend to decide whether to accept a new proposal for mediating the dispute or to call a national strike.

Postmaster-General Gilles LaMontagne on Friday threatened to introduce a bill ordering union members already on strike back to work and prohibiting other locals from going out.

In Toronto on Sunday, Parrot said the union will defy the legislation if it imposes terms undercutting existing contract conditions.

"I intend to come out publicly and ask you to disobey the law," Parrot told postal workers.

"It's not that I'd like to go to jail, but I can tell you now I would never recommend the membership to go back to work."

The government was to introduce the legislation in the House of Commons later today if the union decides to strike.

CUPW members in Montreal, Sherbrooke, Que., Halifax, Charlottetown, Summerside, P.E.I., the Ontario cities of Barrie, Sudbury, and Windsor and some members in Calgary are already out on strike.

Parrot said he cannot predict in advance how members will react to a back-to-work bill.

Despite Salvage Threat To Birds

MILFORD HAVEN, Wales (AP) — Despite clean-up operations, a million gallons of oil spilled from a Greek tanker off the Welsh coast is still a "major threat" to seabirds and to one of Europe's finest bird sanctuaries.

A flotilla of British ships sprayed detergents Sunday on a 16- by 9½-kilometre slick from the listing Greek tanker Christos Ritas.

High winds caused some patches of oil to break away.

The 58,829-ton tanker was gashed while on its way to Belfast from Rotterdam. The British trade department has begun an investigation into how the Piraeus-registered ship strayed so close to land and then waited many hours before sending out a distress call.

Murder Charge Laid In Girl's Stabbing

A young Victoria man appeared in provincial court today charged with first degree murder in the stabbing death of 18-year-old Susan Marie Calve.

The girl's nude body was found Saturday evening behind the Cedar Hill Community Centre.

Sidney Blair Rhodes, 21, of 1629 Burton Ave., entered no plea and was remanded one week to set a date for a preliminary hearing.

Police are still searching for the murder weapon and today issued a plea to the public to help locate an open-bladed knife they believe was dropped in the area where Susan was killed.

Saanich police inspector Robin Stewart today praised the public for assistance given in the case and appealed for more help in finding the murder weapon.

Stewart said armed forces personnel carrying metal detectors have been combing the area where Susan was found but so far have come up with nothing.

"We feel someone may have picked that knife up," said Stewart.

He urged anyone who has found a knife in the area to immediately call Saanich detectives at 388-4321.

THEY'RE ALL READY FOR THE BIG BANG

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — About 70 persons who believe the Soviet Union will launch a nuclear war this month have settled into a remote "doomsday city," complete with bunkers, to wait out the attack.

The fugitives paid $575 each for what they believe will be a chance at survival after a nuclear attack.

Their village and bunker complex, sustained by provisions intended to last for a year, was sponsored by 41-year-old Melbourne businessman John Strong, whose 1973 book, The Doomsday Globe, predicted an imminent nuclear attack.

Strong's calculations are founded on parts of the Bible and his own computations based on the size of the great pyramids in Egypt.

Crash Kills Three Men

Three Victoria-area men were killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding plunged off a gravel road bridge into a creek about one kilometre west of Youbou, a small community on the north shore of Cowichan Lake.

Dead are William John Webb, 31, of 3411 St. Matthew Road, Wayne Burnell Kirkham, 29, of 2450 Sooke Road and Peter William Isaacson, 32, of 841 Leslie Drive.

Lake Cowichan RCMP said all three were in the front seat of the 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo driven by Webb which crashed upside down, almost totally submerged in Cottonwood Creek, shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday.

A police spokesman said the car was apparently being driven too fast for the road conditions and went out of control while negotiating a sharp left-hand curve immediately before the bridge.

It struck the right bridge rail, bounced back and hurtled over the left bridge rail into the creek 16 feet below.

The vehicle with its headlights still blazing was found soon after by an employee of the Franklin River logging camp.

Fishy Story of Indian Mafia Ties

RICHMOND (CP) — Native Indians who sell fish they net in the Fraser River are being taken advantage of by organized crime, says Bill Otway, executive director of the British Columbia Wildlife Federation.

Otway made the statement during a workshop at the B.C. Progressive Conservative party's annual convention.

Native Indians are allowed to fish the Fraser run for their own consumption, but it is illegal for them to sell what they catch.

Otway told about 25 persons at the workshop that organized crime is buying the salmon from the Indians at $4 a fish, and selling it at $4 a pound throughout B.C., the Prairie provinces, and Ontario.

He said fisheries officials estimated that one man who was caught selling fish bought from Indians had a potential profit of $375,000 for five weeks work.

Otway said that in the past five to seven years, the number of net permits for Indians on the Fraser between Mission and Kamloops has increased to about 1,500 from about 250, "and the Indian population hasn't increased like that.

"We do not quarrel with any Canadian who has need using these resources for basic sustenance," he said, "but we do quarrel with special privileges granted to any special interest group, particularly when those privileges usurp the management role assigned to our respective agencies."

Indian bands might do well at governing the fish resource, he said, "but they may do badly — and there is tremendous economic pressure on them to do badly" because the illegal fish trade is so profitable.

In addition, he said, if management is allocated to one segment of society, then commercial or sport fishermen have the right to demand control of the fishery, and "this is just as bad, this is chaos."

WE'RE STILL OUT OF PUFF

Hey! We made it through the weekend! That means we haven't had a cigarette since midnight last Tuesday!

We — the Times newsroom employees who declared publicly they're quitting smoking in conjunction with Dave Cotter's excellent series on how to kick the nicotine habit — are beginning to believe we really can make it all the way.

None of us has so far sneaked even a puff and we really hope that all you folk out there who've joined the quit campaign are remaining steadfast too.

The fact we've managed to tough it out over a weekend at home, with no work or peer pressure to keep us honest, shows it can be done.

Meanwhile, more and more people are writing in to say they're joining our quit campaign.

Janny Patterson, of 3287 Quadra, told us she quit cigarettes in April for four months and started up again in August. She later quit for another two weeks and again weakened.

"This time I quit, damn it !" Janny wrote.

Mrs. Kay Longbottom wrote in to offer her husband Arthur as a quit candidate.

"I'd like you to print my husband's name — not to put him on the spot — but to let him know how pleased and proud his family is of him (for quitting)," she wrote.

The latest quitters:

Fernie Guilbault, 1097 Maple Road, Sidney.

Mrs. R.G. Lemieux, 7874 West Coast Road, Sooke.

Sandra Luckhurst, 836 Blakeney Place, Victoria.

Arlee and Audrey Malkewich, of 937 Mesher Place, Victoria.

Laura Shannon, ("I waited so long before sending it because it's such as final commitment,") of 746 Selkirk Avenue.

Jayne Russell and Janice Wilson, of 3107 Harriet Road, Victoria.

Fred and Cindy, of 3084 Metchosin Road, also quit and announced "not only will we be healthier, we have an extra $4 a day !!!"

Then there was the little note from Ellen and Terry Romance, of 975 Fairfield.

"You're right regarding the poor concentration as a symptom of withdrawal from smoking. It took 10 minutes to write this," said their quit note.

Fay Pelmore, of 3987 Gordon Head Road, dropped a line to say she was quitting and added: "Thanks for being so convincing."

Carol and Cliff King, who live at 176 Virago, said they too are quitting and J.E. Warren, of 1111 Darcy Lane, somewhat ruefully joined the quit campaign with the words "poor old J.E. finally quits."

Pangs Ease On Day Six

"If all boys could be made to know that with every breath of cigarette smoke they inhale imbecility and exhale manhood . . . it ought to deter them some." — Hudson Maxim

This is your sixth day. You're better equipped to enjoy it because in a mere week you've noticed: Reduction or disappearance of your cough, awakening of your taste buds and your sense of smell, greater ease in breathing, improved circulation.

These should somewhat offset your withdrawal pangs. Remember to remember the real taste and smell and danger of what you've renounced.

This week you must beware of excessive cockiness. Having survived a hard week, you may wish to show your contempt for the habit by taking one small puff. You may just want to see what it tastes like or to prove you can do it. Don't. It's a trick. Table all discussion. Remember your key phrase and focus on your image. Review your list and add these facts to it:

Research indicates that traffic accidents are four times as frequent for drivers who smoke.

Cancer of the larnyx is six times as frequent and cancer of the esophagus four times as frequent in male cigarette smokers between 45 and 64 years old.

Smokers are sick in bed nearly 88 million more days each year than non-smokers.

This week let's examine an interesting paradox and in doing so broaden our strategy.

Most how-to-stop books advise the quitter to use mouthwash frequently and to take extra care to be physically clean. Trips and new clothes are also advised.

The advice is sensible. It is important to cultivate right off a positive physical self-image. It is useful reinforcement.

Mouthwash and mints are useful for more than keeping the breath sweet. They leave a tingling sensation in the throat which helps stifle the urge to smoke. Try some.

What is it that sparks the hunger for trips and new clothes that most new quitters feel?

It works like this: The smoker is unaware of the extent his senses have been deadened. Suddenly he quits and the very act of breathing is like a blast of spring air after a week in a steambath.

I recall the pleasure I took in eating new foods and walking new streets and meeting new people.

Change was in the air and the world seemed new. I bought new clothes, got a new apartment, visited new places.

Soon enough, however, this led to high anxiety.

Why hadn't I done all this sooner?

Consi[illegible] or a new job. But be cau[illegible] and take time for reflection.

The hunger for new things may simply be a healthy reaction to withdrawal. Or it may be rooted in a hunger for some more basic changes in your life.

Whichever, be thankful for the insight and don't regret the past. Even the wisest fall into ruts.

The difference is, they move on. Regard any hunger for change as an added bonus. If you hadn't quit you might never have known.

But remember: Give time time. Don't be pushed or depressed into trying to change too much at once. The tension will only make you want to you-know-what.

Think about change for the rest of this week. Next week you'll see how you can profit from the hunger and how you can tell whether change is needed.

And if the struggle gets to you this week, relax and endure it. Ask yourself this question: Would you like to go through this again? Give it one more Monday.

Banks' Rates To 11%

Times News Services

Canadian chartered banks today announced they were raising their prime lending rates to 11 per cent from 10¼ per cent.

The banks also increased the rate on non-chequing savings accounts to 8½ per cent, up three-quarters of one per cent, effective Nov. 1.

The move followed the increase Friday in the central bank rate to 10¼ from 9½.

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons today the increase in the bank rate aims at keeping capital in this country as well as attracting foreign money here.

[illegible] interest rates are usually higher than those in the U.S. in order to attract foreign investment. But critics of the move said in the Commons the increase will also dampen domestic investment and hurt the economy.

The Canadian dollar gained against its American counterpart as currency markets opened today. In New York at noon, the dollar was up 7-50 at 84.66 cents U.S.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien announced today he will review the interest yield on this year's Canada Savings Bonds in light of the increase in interest rate.

Byelections Likely to Answer Questions for Party Leaders

Canadian Press

Canadians bring the 264-seat Commons back to strength today with byelection votes that could affect the political future of the country's four federal party leaders.

Ballots are being cast in a record 15 ridings reaching from Newfoundland to British Columbia and the four leaders — Prime Minister Trudeau, Opposition Leader Joe Clark, NDP Leader Ed Broadbent and Social Credit Leader Lorne Reznowski — all have something different at stake.

For Trudeau, the byelections are expected to reflect the public mood towards him and his government as he enters the final months of his current five-year mandate.

A poor showing could increase pressure in the Liberal party for a new leader, despite the prime minister's determination to carry on until Quebec votes on the question of provincial independence.

For Clark, the votes could provide an important psychological boost for a party that has been out of power for the last 15 years.

On the other hand, if he fails to take the nine or 10 seats his party expects to capture, his leadership also could be called into question.

For Broadbent, the byelections could signal a polarization among voters that could have potentially lethal effects for his tiny third party during the next general election.

A spokesman for the NDP leader said Sunday that the party has hopes in four or five of the seats. But it would be satisfied as long as it increases its popular vote.

In the 1974 election, the NDP took only one of the 15 ridings now being contested in the byelections — Broadview, one of five seats up for grabs in the Toronto area.

Reznowski, elected earlier this year to replace the late Andre Fortin as Social Credit party leader, is making his first attempt at federal office in the empty Manitoba riding of St. Boniface.

Despite the record number of ridings involved, today's votes represent little more than an opinion poll.

Trudeau could lose all 15 seats and still retain his Commons majority.

All leaders have campaigned hard for byelection votes as they look toward the general election that will be held sometime during the first six months next year.

As the campaign ended, the three major party leaders traded insults and opinions about government secrecy.

Clark hit Trudeau for the prime minister's determination to keep certain dealings between his cabinet and the RCMP secret, in the face of court or arguments by a royal commission into RCMP wrong-doing.

"The Trudeau government has an obligation to stop trying to muzzle royal commissions," Clark said in a campaign-ending weekend appearance at Richmond, B.C.

"Trudeau should stop acting like the Richard Nixon of the North."

Broadbent agreed. In a Toronto appearance, he said the RCMP royal commission headed by Judge David McDonald had rightly insisted that it must decide for itself what evidence should be made public.

While political leaders battled at one level, the 63 candidates seeking the 15 seats took on each other.

Most said they would prefer to be running in a general election, rather than in byelection contests that will guarantee them no more than 10 months work as MPs.

Trudeau was forced to go through with the byelections after he decided against a federal election this year.

Cost of the byelections to taxpayers has been estimated by the chief electoral officer at $3 million.

TROOPS ON ALERT

TEHRAN (Reuter) — Martial law forces put on a major show of strength today as most shops stayed shut in mourning for riot victims.

Truckloads of troops were standing by in potential trouble spots to head off any demonstrations or violence during a day of national mourning called by Moslem clergy and political opponents of the government for hundreds of persons killed in clashes with troops September 8 when martial law was declared.

ICBC Offers Merit Bonuses

The Insurance Corporation of B.C. is offering its 2,200 unionized employees — who are due to take a strike vote this week — "meritorious performance" bonuses of up to $1,000 a year.

The offer is contained in a memorandum sent by ICBC president Robbie Sherrell to members of the Office and Technical Employees Union.

The memo was to inform the employees of the company's position on collective bargaining issues in talks for the new contract.

The memo said in part :"Every employee who is a member of the bargaining unit will be eligible for a bonus once each year.

"An employee will be eligible for a bonus of up to $1,000 as a result of outstanding individual or team accomplishment."

Union spokesman Fred Trotter described the bonus plan as "unusual" but would not comment further.

ICBC wants a two-year contract while the union wants a one-year agreement.

The government-owned insurance firm has offered a general increase of five per cent in salaries to a maximum of $1,000 a year while the union is seeking 9.5 per cent in a one-year pact.

SOVIETS END ROCKET TESTING

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet Union says it has completed the launching of carrier rockets into an area of the North Pacific north of Midway Island and the area now is reopened to ships and aircraft.

The tests were originally to last until Oct. 31.

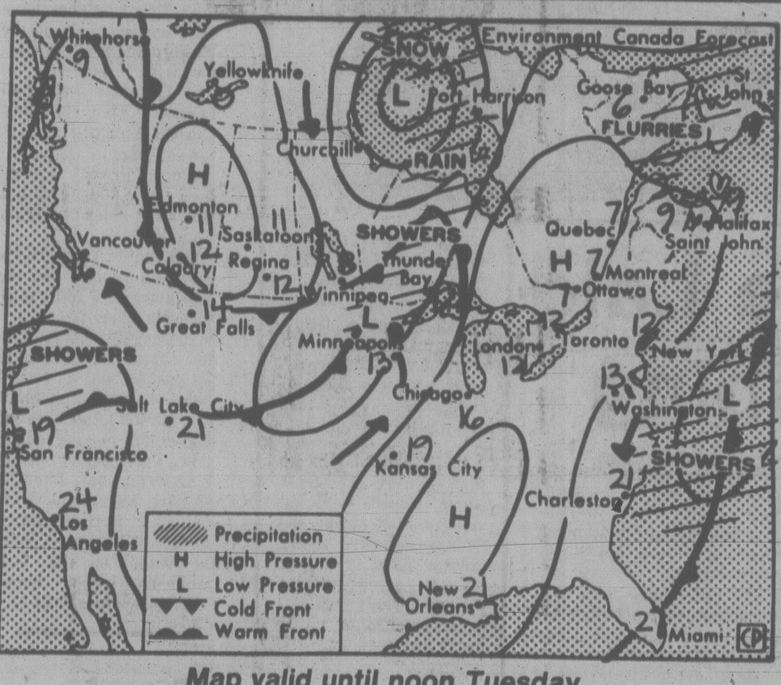

Map valid until noon Tuesday

The ridge of high pressure over the province has been depressed somewhat. This will allow a weak frontal system to cross southern B.C. today accompanied by some cloud and isolated showers. Another frontal disturbance from the Pacific will move over the north coast today and bring occasional rain. Behind these systems the ridge will rebuild again resulting in mainly sunny conditions for Tuesday.

Alaska Pipeline Okayed

WASHINGTON (CP) — One of the biggest projects in Canadian history, the long-awaited $10-billion Alaska Highway gas pipeline, got its final approval from the U.S. Congress during the weekend as part of an energy program which also hands President Carter a major political victory.

Now awaiting Carter's signature, the energy package includes pricing provisions for Alaska natural gas to be moved to the lower 48 states through a proposed pipeline through Canada that will create jobs for thousands of workers.

The Canadian Parliament has already passed legislation, approving the 1,085-mile Canadian portion of the line and establishing a single monitoring agency to oversee construction of the project. Three Canadian companies have submitted bids for the 56-inch pipe to be used in the Canadian section.

CNCP Telecommunications

Notice to CNCP Telecommunications Subscribers

On October 13, 1978 CNCP Telecommunications filed an application with the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) for changes in rates for Telex/Data Telex, Broadband, Private Wire, Broadcast, Special Assembly, Infoswitch and Public Message services. If approved, these changes would produce a revenue increase of approximately 4.4% or $9,600,000 on an annual basis. The proposed changes in rates, which are scheduled to come into effect April 1, 1979, are as follows:

1. Telex/Data Telex Service: Increase of 4% in tolls, increases in basic equipment rental of $6.00 for the keyboard send/receive units and $5.00 for automatic send/receive units, miscellaneous equipment increases of 10% except acoustic cover which remains unchanged, increases in Canada-USA Telex/TWX usage charge of 20%, and increases of 20% on TCIS flat calling, port charge and outstation charge. The service charge on Intra-Canada Tel-Tex will increase by 25 cents.

2. Broadband Exchange Service: Toll increases ranging from 3% to 29% on service up to and including 2,400 bps, 10% increase on station connections and 30% increase on station connection installation charges.

3. Private Wire Service: Increases averaging 16% (range is from no increase to an increase of 29%) on Infodat circuitry, increases averaging 10% (range is from a decrease of 28% to an increase of 36%) on Infodat access and increases averaging 10% on non-recurring installation charges. For voice grade circuits, increases averaging 23% (range is 8% to 28%) in Quebec and Ontario, decreases averaging 2% in Northwest Canada, and increases averaging 12% (range is 2% to 72%) on interprovincial circuits. For teletype grade circuits and loops, increases averaging 4% (range is from a decrease of 30% to an increase of 88%) in Quebec and Ontario, decreases averaging 16% in Northwest Canada, increases averaging 2% (range is from a decrease of 25% to an increase of 88%) in the remaining provinces except British Columbia, and decreases averaging 8% (range is from a decrease of 16% to an increase of 86%) on interprovincial circuits. Increases of 28% for SS-1 signalling and increases of 22% on installation charges.

4. Broadcast Service: Increases of 10% are proposed for local channel charges, station connection charges, circuit charges and installation charges for occasional and monthly service.

5. Special Assembly Services: Increases of 15% on equipment are proposed. Installation charges associated with equipment are to be increased to the level proposed for similar equipment in Private Wire Service not exceeding 30%. A 33% increase is proposed for certain loops.

6. Infoswitch: Increases of 10% on installation charges for asynchronous connections are proposed.

7. Public Message Service: The Duebill Surcharge of 70 cents per telegram will be eliminated. The three zone rate structure will be reduced to two zones. Increases of 85 cents (existing Zone 1), $1.15 (existing Zone 2) and 35 cents (existing Zone 3) are proposed in the basic rate for Full Rate messages. Extra word charges are to be increased by 2 cents. The Night Letter basic rate is to increase by 90 cents, $1.15 and 40 cents for existing Zones 1 to 3 respectively. The extra word charge is to increase by 10 cents per 25 word block. Money Transfer message charges are to increase by 95 cents, $1.25 and 45 cents for existing Zones 1 to 3 respectively. Press message rates are to increase from the present 3/4 of the standard rate to full rate. Supplementary service charges are to increase by 12.5% to 14.5%.

Where the Application May Be Seen

A detailed schedule of the proposed changes is provided in Part A of the application which is available for public inspection during normal business hours at all CNCP sales offices and at the offices of the CRTC, Central Building, Les Terrasses de la Chaudière, 1 Promenade du Portage, Hull, Quebec.

How you May Comment or Intervene

You may comment or intervene in one of two ways:

1) By sending a letter to the Commission

If you have a comment or matter which you feel the Commission should take into account in reviewing the application, you can write directly to the Commission. Your comments should set out clearly the relevant facts and you should state whether you support or oppose the application or have any other position. Send your comments so they will be received by December 15, 1978 to:

J. G. Patenaude,
Acting Secretary General,
Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission,
Ottawa, Ontario. K1A 0N2

A copy of your letter should also be sent to:

H. J. G. Pye, Q.C.,
General Solicitor,

Railway Company,
935 Lagauchetière Street West,
Montreal, Quebec H3C 3N3

G. P. Miller, Q.C.,
General Solicitor,
Canadian Pacific Limited,
Room 234, Windsor Station,
Montreal, Quebec H3C 3E4

2) By appearing at the Commission hearing

The Commission will be holding a public hearing into the application which is tentatively scheduled to take place in Ottawa, Ontario commencing January 16, 1979 provided the application file has been completed to the satisfaction of the Commission. The first part of the hearing will be devoted to hearing representations from subscribers. If you would like an opportunity to appear and expand on your letter of comment, or make further submissions, you should follow the procedure described above for sending comments to the Commission, making sure to include a statement of your desire to appear.

Following these representations, the second [illegible] hearing will be devoted to a detailed review of the applicants' evidence. Participation in this part of the hearing, which generally requires being present on a daily basis, involves presentation of evidence by both the applicants and interveners, often through expert witnesses, and includes cross-examination. If you wish to participate at this stage, you should file a Notice of Intention to Participate with the Commission with a copy to the applicants on or before November 15, 1978. This will entitle you to a complete copy of the application and to submit written interrogatories to the applicants with a copy to the Commission, up to November 15, 1978.

Town Joy Becomes Grief. . .

HOUSTON (CP) — Relief and elation at finding two five-year-old boys lost in dense bush changed to grief and tragedy Sunday when one died in hospital.

Jamie Baxter died four hours after being found, crushing the hopes of hundreds of volunteers who searched the cold and wet bush near this west-central British Columbia community since the boys were reported missing last Wednesday.

His companion, David Crocker, was found Saturday and was reported in good condition Sunday night.

Robert Evans, hospital administrator in the nearby town of Smithers, said four doctors worked strenuously for more than three hours in an effort to save the Baxter boy's life.

Evans said that Jamie went through an ordeal so severe that it could not have been understood by a five-year-old.

But the four hours after the boy was found alive were ones of elation for this community of 4,000, where many normal events came to a halt while the search was underway.

"It's just elation all the way through," Smithers Mayor Basil Studer said early Sunday afternoon. "There are tears running freely from everyone's eyes."

After Jamie died, Studer said: "It was a high and then a low. But it's even a miracle to have one alive."

The official cause of Jamie's death was not released but Harry Vanderberg, who found the boy lying on rocks, said his hands and face were blue and his clothes were soaking wet when discovered.

Smithers coroner Dr. Peter Judd said an inquest will be held but no date was set.

The two boys wandered away from the Crocker home on a rural road 18 kilometres south of here while the two mothers were visiting Wednesday afternoon.

Up to 400 persons a day were combing the dense, hilly bush that is broken by marshes. They were aided by two helicopters and volunteers who provided food.

Refinery Fire Arson Charge

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — A Texaco Canada Ltd. employee was charged with arson Sunday by the Ontario fire marshal's office in connection with a fuel-tank fire two weeks ago that burned for 11 hours at the company's storage depot.

Peel regional police said Thomas Albert Coxhead, 24, of Mississauga was to appear in provincial court in Brampton today.

The fire, the second refinery blaze in four months in the Mississauga area, drove about 1,000 people from their homes for several hours. No one was injured.

In June, a fire at a Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. plant was confined to the main pipeline and did not reach the storage tanks.

New Ball Game in Quebec

The importance of Premier Rene Levesque's new position on the Parti Quebecois government referendum lies not in what that position precisely means or does not mean, but in the fact that it is new. Levesque's disclosure that the much touted and feared vote would seek nothing more than a mandate to discuss, and not a mandate for independence, marks a significant step into an admittedly fuzzy area involving Confederation, separation, association and, above all, negotiation. The fact that Levesque is willing to take that step should not be taken lightly.

When the Parti Quebecois was elected on Nov. 15, 1976, many Canadians took it to mean the Levesque government had an automatic mandate to issue a unilateral declaration of independence from Canada. Levesque, knowing that the misdeeds and mismanagement of Robert Bourassa's Liberal government — and not a separatist fever — were the prime reasons for his victory, had no such illusions and announced a referendum would be held. It seemed clear at that time that such a referendum would seek support for the outright independence most Canadians have come to believe is the raison d'etre of the PQ. Then the talk turned to phrases like "special status" and "sovereignty-association," representing something short of absolute separation, but beyond the scope of Confederation as we know it.

Gradually, the parameters have shifted. Now all Levesque seeks from the people of Quebec is the right to talk to Ottawa and the rest of the provinces. Even if those talks fail, he has admitted, the PQ would still lack the mandate to push for independence. So at this point we should have no need for petty jealousies or regional conceits that might prevent us from finding out once and for all what Quebec wants and what, in the final analysis, it is willing to accept.

Based upon Levesque's own varying statements over the years, Quebec Liberal leader Claude Ryan may be right when he accuses the premier of "colossal duplicity" and suggests that there is no need for negotiations if Quebec remains within Confederation and that any talks with an independent Quebec would have to start from scratch. But this hard and fast reasoning is not necessarily in the best interests of Canada.

We have seen Levesque change his stance. We can see now that he is continuing to change. Now that Quebec has moved into the grey area and is talking negotiation rather than separation, it is no time for the rest of the country to treat the question as black or white. It is no time for power politics from Ottawa or self-righteousness from the provinces. In less than two years we have gone from outright separation to a proposal for discussions. In most books, that is progress.

President for Malaspina

It's hard to believe the claims of Malaspina College in Nanaimo that it had to go all the way to Kansas to find a new president.

The search committee does not appear to have searched very hard in Canada for a qualified person. According to the faculty association, the committee advertised through Canada Manpower for a new president at a salary of $35,000 — when the salary range is actually $40,000 to $50,000.

There has been no satisfactory explanation of this curious fact from the people who hired Jack Nutt away from Highland College in Kansas. It certainly explains why so few Canadians with the proper credentials and experience stirred themselves to apply.

It also suggests a little duplicity on the part of the search committee. Had the members already made up their minds on one person before the search properly got underway? Such practices are not unknown in business and public institutions. Closely tailoring the terms of employment and necessary qualifications to fit just the desired favorite is not uncommon.

Whether this was done at Malaspina College, we do not know, but the inconsistencies in advertising the post certainly leave the search committee open to strong suspicions. The fact that two other community colleges in B.C. hired new presidents this year — both of them Canadians — further reinforces these suspicions.

The immigration department has said it will not allow Nutt to take up the job because it is not satisfied that an adequate search was made for Canadians who might be qualified for the job.

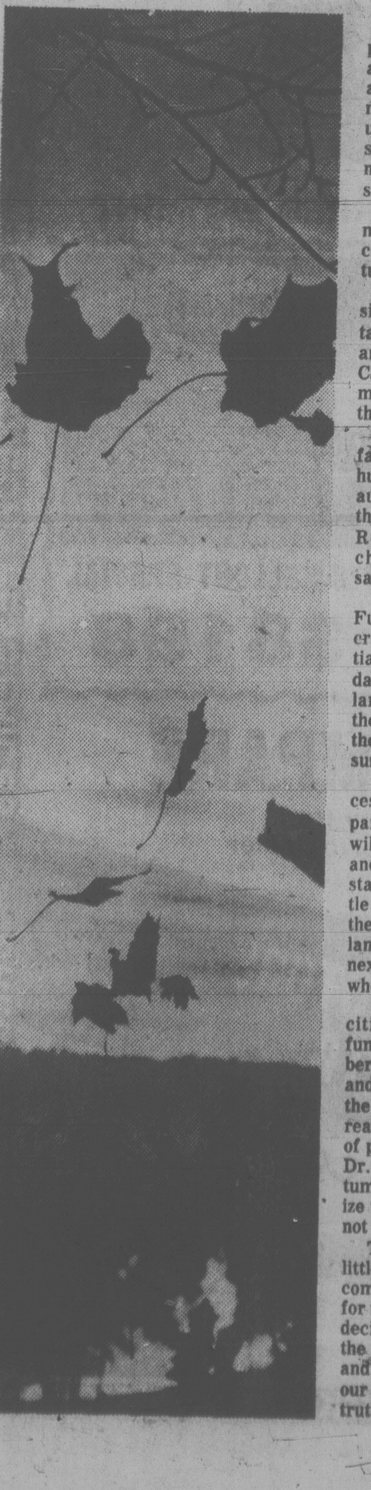
That seems to be an unequivocal, pro-Canadian stand: But we recall a similar incident earlier this year which unfolded in much the same fashion, involving the search for a new president of ICBC. The company chose Oklahoman Robbie Sherrell.

Manpower and immigration officials said the same things, but provincial politicians twisted a few wrists in Ottawa and got him a special permit for the position.

We hope the same does not happen a second time.

BRUCE HUTCHISON

It's the Canadian Season



For reasons known to them only, the people of Canada have always claimed a special intimacy with autumn, almost a legal ownership, and declared it on the nation's flag. The red maple leaf is unmistakably Canadian (though we share that foliage with our American neighbors in a few favored spots just south of the line.)

Now in October, the last autumnal month, our folk memory of a violent climate, and certain unlikely adventures, goes back a long way.

It goes back through the 370 autumns since Champlain built his clumsy habitation beside the dark cliff of Quebec and, with 27 companions faced his first Canadian winter, only eight of those men alive the next spring and "half of them ailing."

Then the many autumns of war and famine, the autumns when the Loyalists hungered in their log cabins, the prairie autumns of sod huts and niggard crops, the autumns of lonely forts beyond the Rockies — a strange story always changing but always somehow the same.

The same October mists roll into Fundy and Juan de Fuca, the same crimson tide spills across the Laurentian forest, the same golden coinage dangles briefly from the western poplars, the southward-flying geese print the same letter, the bold capital V, of their ancient calligraphy against the sunset and the dawn.

Every Canadian feels the vast process, the organic shift and hurried preparations of autumn, knowing that it will soon be gone. Squirrels hoard nuts, and rock rabbits make their tiny hatstacks, for the months of scarcity. Cattle and game begin to drift down from the high ranges to the warmer bottom lands. Salmon have liad their eggs for next year's hatching and died exactly where they were hatched in their time.

Human creatures, snug in their cities, sniff the season, despite the fumes of crowded traffic, and remember, with shock, the cost of furnace oil and Christmas holidays in Hawaii. Even the politicians of Ottawa, isolated from reality, warmed by the artificial sparks of parliamentary friction but chilled by Dr. Gallup's poll and stifling in autumn's economic mists, suddenly realize that if winter comes an election will not be far behind.

These passing disturbances tell us little of the autumn process. It is too complex for the mind to grasp, too deep for the naked eye to see. Leaves fall, the deciduous trees are bare and skeletal, the conifers drop their surplus needles and pregnant cones, no birds sing and our half-continent seems to sleep. But in truth it never sleeps.

Below the visible surface the roots are hard at working gathering chemicals for later use. The bacteria are turning dead matter into the nutriment of growth. The gardener of the mild, unseasonable Pacific rim, digging in the autumn soil, finds the bulbs of snowdrop, crocus and daffodil already thrusting out their white exploratory tips as the cells multiply in exponential abundance.

Here is a curious allegory for Canadians to ponder. They learn instantly all the news of the day. They understand, or think they understand, everything of importance. And yet the vital motions of our time, the unsuspected forces that will erupt tomorrow, are hidden, like the root, the bacterium and the bulb, with nature's other secrets.

That is why the art of politics and the science of economics are seldom reliable. They cannot guess what lies below the surface or foresee the spasm and fitful fevers of socety under its thin external rind.

Understood or not, things visible and invisible keep moving fast at this season. On some mountain crag a drip of water hardens into a minute icicle. On some upland lake a solid film spreads outward from the shore. Presently frost everywhere will announce the great Canadian cold and lifeless crystals appearing in precise symmetrical patterns, will take on a kind of mimic life.

No doubt such things happen outside Canada. We can afford to grant foreigners a semblance of our native riches, a sample, now and then of real weather. We can even admit that Keats, in his famous ode, had vague intimations of the process, Tennyson had grasped a fragment of it when, looking on the happy harvest fields, he shed idle tears for the days that were no more.

But there is a fatal flaw in England's placid, poetic autumn. For the season can never be fully sensed in civilized surroundings, only in a wildnerness, a country where humans are dwarfed by size, distance and loneliness, where the great cold warns them of their pitiable insecurity on the face of planetary cinder speck.

All this we have known in Canada through almost four centuries. October's edict is as legible to us, its message as poignant, as the sky writing of the geese. We have no Keats, no ode, no Tennyson and we shed no tears. We may not know much about our public business and often make a pretty bad mess of it, but we know and must obey our stern seasonal mandate. We know that winter is surely coming; and also spring.

First in '49

We heard it first in 1949, when Pierre E. Trudeau said: "In the present state of society, in fact, it is the possibility of the strike which enables workers to negotiate with their employer on terms of approximate equality. It is wrong to think that the unions are in themselves able to secure this equality. If the right to strike is suppressed, or seriously limited, the trade union movement becomes nothing more than one institution among many in the service of capitalism: a convenient organization for disciplining the workers, occupying their leisure time, and ensuring their profitability business."

It is ironic that the Trudeau government is attempting to do just this. It is bill C-28, which would severely limit collective bargaining for federal public servants and their unions. At the time the bill was introduced the Canadian Union of Postal Workers was intensely involved in collective bargaining, and an important issue in their negotiotiations was the demands for a reduced work week.

It is the CUPW's argument that a reduced work week is without a doubt the most important mechanism by which the problems of redundancy due to mechanization can be resolved. Bill C-28 had caused an outcry from all workers, therefore, in a time where the Trudeau government must have contemplated an election for 1978, they abandoned Bill C-28 as a priority, and invoked a sister bill-Bill C-45.

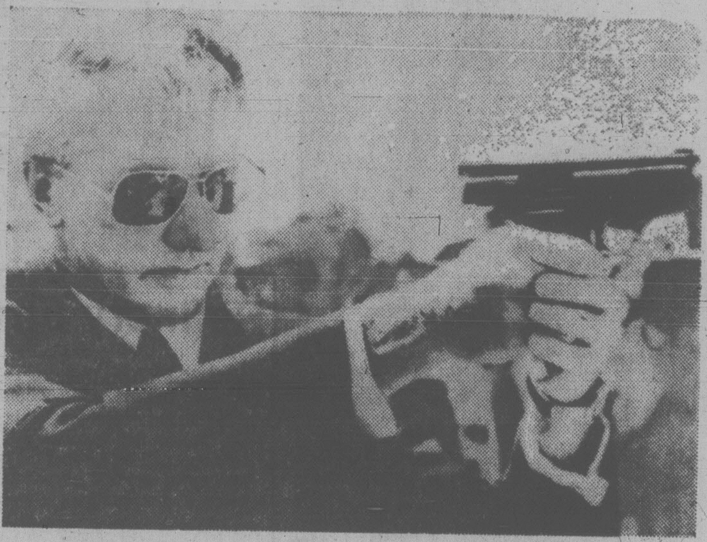
Succintly, it is my view this government is 'practising the politics of confrontation, instead of working toward a solution for the problems of unemployment and inflation. While Prime Minister Trudeau and company keep everyone guessing with what they are going to do with their restrictive legislation, I know one thing for sure — we heard it first in 1949. — Rory Rickwood, Inside Postal Worker, 1753 Newton Street.

A Con Job

Bill Bennett's tour of B.C. trying to con the people into his sack of goodies (mostly asphalt and hardtop) would seem, from radio and television coverage, to have been something of a flop!

People, not being all fools, know that these bribes and the money for them is their money systematically filched from them by increases in taxes, fares etc. and decreases in human welfare funds.

Everytime the millionaires come to your door, offering goodies to get your vote, please remember that you would have had all this and more now, under the NDP who would have used your money for you and not to line an election poke. — P. Simpson, 2536 Forbes Street.



Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith takes target practice.

How Low?

How low can the U.S. Army descend? How petty they appear for refusing Ian Smith, with his war record, permission to lay a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington Cemetery. What a way to treat a comrade. — E. W. Abraham, 1125 Faithful Street.

Not Inevitable

These last few days we have been "treated" to repetitious parrot-like sentences: "A postal strike is inevitable."

A strike is not inevitable when all parties place the country's interests before their own and show tolerance, good will, intelligent compromise to reach a settlement before parliament steps in and orders everybody back to work in dramatic fashion, leaving behind resentment and hostility not easily overcome.

In these days there are very few things that can be considered unavoidable, the proverbial ones being taxes and death. If postal workers arn't satisfied with what a government bound on a restraint course can offer, they can always leave their jobs and find other occupations providing them with the salaries, fringe benefits, promotion policies and pensions to which they feel they are entitled.

Nobody forces them to sort the mail. In a free country we have the right to chose the work that gives us the most satisfaction in terms of financial rewards and enjoyment. Nobody prevents these unhappy postal workers from going to colleges and universities and becoming lawyers, engineers, doctors, if that is what they want. Nobody stands on their way if they wish to run for municipal, provincial or federal offices.

Judging by the long line up that occurs at Christmas time when extra staff is needed for temporary work, the government will have no problems in filling up positions left vacant — the unemployed honestly longing for a job would jump at this opportunity and consider themselves lucky to take home a nice pay cheque and relinquish unemployment benefits they reluctantly and sadly have to rely upon.

A dependable postal service is essential in a contemporary society, it should be provided and maintained at all costs. — E.J. Lattes, 200 Dallas Road.

Keep Our Power

Robert Bonner, head of B.C. Hydro, has proposed that British Columbia borrow money for hydro development for power export to the U.S.

Citizens of the province should take a close look at B.C.'s record of power export as well as the driving forces of B.C. Hydro before they consider support for such a proposal. Hydro has for years been trying to sell the public on more dams based on inflated energy consumption figures for B.C. Recent falling energy demand increases has finally destroyed the credibility of this argument.

B.C. Hydro's major hydroelectric export venture to date (as a result of the Columbia River treaty) has resulted in the loss of millions of dollars and has had an appalling environmental cost.

Before we saddle ourselves and our children with another crippling debt, remember that B.C. Hydro is one of the largest bureaucracies in Canada. Such bureaucracies seem to take on an almost animal-like cunning for self-preservation. B.C. Hydro has thousands of employees who are involved in nothing but building dams, hydro generators and power lines. These people don't know how to do anything else and once Revelstoke dam is completed will be unemployed unless its parasitic employer can con the people of the province into building more dams.

If government corporations want to get into the export business I'm sure there are more profitable areas than Hydro electric power. Why not lumber or oil? We all know there are big profits in those industries. — B. Pendergast, 350 Benjamin Road.

The Catastrophe Theory of Life

By NIGEL HAWKES
London Observer

Few things excite the curious onlooker more than a first-rate academic argument. Such an argument is currently rattling the shutters of mathematics departments all over the world, and it seems a pity not to share it with a wider public.

The argument is over a theory devised by the French mathematician Rene Thom of the Institut des Hautes Etudes Scientifiques, and developed by his closest follower, professor Christopher Zeeman of the University of Warwick in England.

It is a theory of boundless ambition and some obscurity. It explains (or does not explain, according to who you support) a wide range of very unmathematical things: why dogs bite mailmen or discontented prisoners riot, why stock markets crash and why teen-age girls mysteriously lose interest in food.

It is clearly too brazen a theory to remain hidden for long in the thickets of mathematical literature. It also has a very arresting name: Catastrophe Theory. This does not mean that it is concerned with earthquakes, floods, and sudden death, since Thom uses the term catastrophe rather loosely — a characteristic, his critics would say, which informs the whole theory. But since catastrophes make news, Thom's theory has had more press coverage than mathematics can usually count on.

What Thom and Zeeman mean by a catastrophe is an abrupt change in a system. Suppose you apply a strain to a metal bar. It will stretch elastically, its extension proportional to the strain applied, until it suddenly breaks. The break, a discontinuity in the behavior of the bar, is in Thom's terms a catastrophe.

Systems with discontinuous behavior are extremely common in nature, but difficult to model mathematically. Zeeman believes that the greatest potential lies in biology and the social sciences, where catastrophe theory could provide a mathematical language able to describe the "inexact" sciences.

Catastrophe theory is a branch of topology, the mathematics of surfaces. What it does is to describe how a system behaves in terms of a "behavior surface", a three-dimensional shape in space which is plotted, like a graph, by examining all the possible conditions of the system.

The concrete example chosen by Zeeman to describe how the theory works is the model of how an aggressive dog behaves. Taking his cue from Konrad Lorenz, he assumes the aggressive behavior is determined by two opposing forces: fear and anger. An angry dog which is not afraid will attack. At the other extreme, a fearful dog which is not angry will not attack. But if the dog feels anger and fear both at once, its behavior is much harder to predict.

This is the area where abrupt changes, or discontinuities of behavior can be expected — a cringing dog which suddenly turns from fear to violent anger, or a violent dog which equally suddenly calms down and creeps away with its tail between its legs.

To model these abrupt changes, Zeeman plots a graph in three dimensions. Fear is plotted along one horizontal axis, anger along the other, and behavior is plotted along the vertical axis. The result — necessarily rather sketchy since the state of a dog's psyche is not amenable to exact measurement — is a curving sheet with a fold, or pleat, in it.

This behavior surface can now be used to predict how the dog will behave. Each combination of anger and fear is represented by a different point on the behavior surface, and as either anger or fear increases or diminishes one moves to and fro across the surface.

For most of the time, the changes are smooth and continuous. But when one reaches the edge of the pleat there is nothing to do but fall over the edge and drop down to the lower part of the behavior surface — an abrupt or discontinuous change which Zeeman calls a cusp catastrophe. Thus the model predicts, says Zeeman, that an angry dog which is progressively made more and more fearful will eventually, and suddenly, shift to a meeker attitude.

Why dogs Bite mailmen And other Oddities

According to Thom, there are just seven types of catastrophe needed to describe all discontinuous processes possible in our world. (A world with more than four dimensions, which is a little hard to comprehend, could have more than seven types of catastrophe, but this need scarcely concern us.)

Catastrophe theory, says Zeeman, has a huge range of possible applications. In one of his papers, he and four colleagues applied it to the behavior of prisoners; in others, he has applied it to the human heartbeat, to the development of embryos, to anorexia nervosa, and to the behavior of stock markets. In a recent lecture at the Royal Society he described applicatons to thyroid diseases and to the way embryos grow. Other workers have applied the theory in physics, sociology, politics, economics, linguistics and psychology.

It is an attractive theory and it would be delightful if indeed it turned out to be, as one of Zeeman's colleagues has put it, "a unique weapon against ignorance and a profound insight into the universe." (Catastrophists are not noted for the modesty of their language.) But is it? A powerful, indeed venomous counter-attack has been launched by some doubters who say that catastrophe theory is all talk and no substance.

Leading for the opposition are two American mathematicians, Hector Sussman and Raphael Zahler of Rutgers University in New Jersey. "The great achievements of catastrophe theory are no more than delusions," they claim. "Proponents of the applications (of the theory) systematically make fundamental mathematical errors, reach conclusions that are either false, or vague, or meaningless, or trivial, and often misrepresent empirical evidence."

Other American mathematicians have also made unflattering remarks. Marc Kac of Rockefeller University, a very distinguished mathematician, was quoted in Science as saying that Zeeman's discussion of the applications of catastrophe theory "represent the height of scientific irresponsibility" and the applications to the social sciences he found "exaggerated and not wholly honest."

This is strong stuff, and although Zeeman himself has not responded in kind, some of his supporters have rallied round. In England, Dr. Maurice Dodson of the University of York calls Sussmann and Zahler's criticisms "excessive and misleading" and takes them to task in turn for their mathematical errors. Another mathematician, Michael Deakin from Monash University in Australia, foresees that catastrophe theory itself is in danger of suffering a cusp catastrphe unless the bickering stops.

Zeeman himself, in his recent Royal Society lecture, seemed to be backing away from some of the bolder claims which have been made for the theory in the past. The theory, he said, "is descriptive of what's happening, rather than telling you why or how something happens." In some cases it enables a mathematician to get to grips with a problem when only the most fragile information is available, in others it can suggest experiments which may help in understanding complex biological systems.

The best and most convincing applications of the theory, most mathematicians agree, lie in physics and engineering and not in the vaguer areas of biology and social science. Inevitably, however, it is the social science applications which sound the most interesting and have had the most publicity, perhaps creating the impression that catastrophe theory can do more than it is really capable of.

UIC Cuts Discriminate Against Women

By LEONARD SHIFRIN

OTTAWA — Should unemployment insurance discriminate against married women?

Those who want to see jobless benefits take family income into account don't seem to realize it, but that is what they are proposing.

The idea first surfaced last winter, when an Economic Council of Canada staff study found that payments to second earners — primarily wives — resulted in net unemployment insurance benefits for upper-income families that were as great as those for middle and lower-middle-income households. (The lowest-income group, which includes most senior citizens and others outside the workforce, claimed the smallest proportion of benefits.)

In the wake of Employment Minister Bud Cullen's proposed cutbacks in eligibility — which would strike particularly hard at people such as seasonal workers — the search for alternatives has led to a renaissance of the family income limits notion.

I have seen the idea surface at a number of meetings recently, and the scenario is always the same. Invariably, it is a male who offers the suggestion — and invariably the reaction of the females in the room take him completely by surprise.

My reaction to the idea has also surprised a lot of people. As an advocate of such things as benefit levels that take into account whether or not a recipient has dependents to support, it is assumed that I would approve of a family income test.

The reason I don't — and the reason women react to the suggestion as they do — is that it would effectively remove unemployment insurance protection from a large proportion of married women, denying them the right to participate in the world of work on the same terms and conditions as everyone else. How large a proportion would be affected would depend on what the family income limits were.

The only part of the Cullen package that struck me as making sense was the idea of an accelerated tax recovery of unemployment insurance benefits from individuals with incomes over $22,000. The details haven't been announced yet, but the maximum that would be taxed back is authoritatively rumored to be 70 per cent.

Since the income of the average working Canadian this year will be about $15,000, I am not sure why $22,000 was picked as the threshold for initiating the gradual reduction of benefits. Clearly the figure could have been lower.

But there is a big difference between reducing someone's benefits on the basis of that person's income and reducing them on the basis of someone else's earnings.

. . . reneging

Unemployment rates for women are currently running 25 per cent higher than those for men, while their earnings average only 60 per cent of men's. Why should a woman who loses her $10,000-a-year job also lose her unemployment insurance benefits — or even 70 per cent of them — because her well-paid husband hasn't lost anything?

The prime proponents of family income limits for unemployment insurance are apparently Liberal MPs from the Atlantic provinces — who risk becoming an endangered species if the Cullen proposals become law in their present form.

This is the second time in as many years that the Atlantic Liberals have found themselves grasping at straws, trying to sell the Employment Minister an alternative to proposals that were anathema in the high-unemployment eastern provinces. What they managed to come up with last year established that, as negotiators, they rank with the Indians who held out for one more blanket before they agreed to cede Manhattan Island.

At that time Cullen was calling for the eligibility requirement for unemployment insurance to be raised from eight to 12 weeks of prior employment. The "compromise" the Atlantic Liberals won was that, for the next three years, the requirement would vary from 10 to 14 weeks, depending on regional unemployment rates. At the end of the three years it would become 14 weeks (not just the originally threatened 12) everywhere.

Not only wasn't that much of a deal, but Cullen is now reneging on it with his new proposals. For those who have previously received unemployment insurance, he now wants the eligibility requirement for further benefits to be not less than the number of weeks of their previous benefits.

A Maritime logger or other seasonal worker who collected benefits for 20 weeks would thus need not just 10 or even 14 weeks of work before he could collect again, but 20.

The determination of Liberal MPs from Atlantic Canada to block the move is commendable. But their offering of the working wives of urban Canada as an alternate sacrifice isn't.

BERLIN — About a third of the characters assembled at the Aspen institute in Berlin to discuss "The Dilemma of Women: Homemaking versus Career?" were men — a reasonable quota. And just about every aspect of the thorny-corny subject was thrashed out by the participants from eight different countries; but I can't honestly lay my hand on my heart and say we solved it.

We certainly learned a lot about each others' countries. Kathryn Clarenbach from Wisconsin told us that only 14 per cent of American families conform to the soap-ad stereotype of working Dad, Mum at home and two kids. Deniz Kandyoti told us what it might mean for 80 per cent of Turkish women to work all day at home — a big step up from working all day in the fields as well, that was what it would mean.

Raphaella Bilitz of Israel described a new insidious form of discrimination: for the less privileged Sephardi women in Israel conscription into the army is the one chance they have of setting their sights on anything higher than the kitchen sink; but under Begin's rabbi-dominated government any girl can evade the draft simply by signing a religious-objection paper. And, of course, it's the most down-trodden girls who are simply told to sign it.

On equality outside the home, in jobs, we didn't have much dispute: even Gene Kofke of the vast U.S. telephone firm AT & T had "with considerable philosophical torment" decided that quotas were necessary — helped, he had to admit, by lawsuits insisting AT & T launch "affirmative action" programs — ones which propel women into top jobs in greater numbers than sheer seniority would suggest.

And he told us about the case brought against AT & T by the labor unions, which AT & T won; they were alleging reverse discrimination, and the fact that they lost will have more implications for private industry, he thinks, even than the Bakke case (about discrimination in favor of blacks).

We had equally little difficulty deciding against wages for housework — we might have ended up paying a husband a dollar to do the dishes. And nobody was in the least opposed to abolishing sexual stereotypes. But somehow by the end of the four days that began to seem the easy part of the problem.

How by the end of the world could you really reconcile Frau Lange Stuemfig, a large lady representing the German Homemakers Association, with any women's libber wanting more creches, more day-care, no interruption of the working life?

How, when all's said and done, can Hartmut Welzel, a lively and delightful guy working for Ford-Werke AG and concerned with changing people's attitudes by forcing changes in their behavior, tie in all that with the fact that his own wife doesn't work, doesn't want to, and loves the fact that German children go on coming home at lunch-time and staying home, practically up to the moment they grow beards and marry?

There's a fundamental split between those who really want more recognition for what's done at home, want women to be less penalized — in tax, pensions, jobs later on — because they stay home and mind baby; and those who want the effects of child-bearing to be absolutely minimized, so that women can live a life as like men's as possible.

I don't think the split can be healed; meanwhile, what Florence Morgan called "the blackmail of women" continues: "You don't get questions about childcare at a conference about men at work." And when we suggested that women have a 20 per cent quota on all future Aspen seminars, we were greeted with appreciative laughter.

Tories Fuel Up for Elections

RICHMOND (CP) — Party leaders used the three-day British Columbia Progressive Conservative convention which ended Sunday to generate enthusiasm among members for the next federal and provincial elections.

Election-style speeches by federal leader Joe Clark and provincial leader Vic Stephens were complemented by workshops on election expenses, geographical riding organization and procedures at party headquarters.

In his luncheon speech, Clark told an appreciative audience of about 400 that Prime Minister Trudeau "should stop acting like the Richard Nixon of the North."

Clark said that Trudeau's latest statement about the MacDonald royal commission into allegations of RCMP wrongdoing is the Canadian equivalent of executive privilege.

RCMP members have testified they broke laws, "but now, when it is the ministers' turn, the government wants to change the rules," Clark said.

"What have Liberal ministers been saying in secret about the RCMP?" Clark asked. "What secret orders were given to the RCMP?

"If he (Trudeau) continues to try to hide, to try to muzzle royal commissions, to muzzle democracy in this country, we will use this in the fight to get rid of this most dangerous, dangerous government."

Stephens said he thinks Proposition 13 was an unreasonable solution to the problem of local taxes in California.

After passage of the proposition, which reduced property taxes, Stephens called for a tax revolt in B.C. and suggested that people burn their property tax notices. He later backed down from that suggestion.

Stephens told his audience he finds it ironic that Premier Bill Bennett campaigned on a promise to cut government spending, "but he has increased government spending 33 per cent . . . double the inflation rate."

Both Clark and Stephens said they expect to form the next governments at the federal and provincial levels.

On Sunday, Joan Gillanders of Richmond was elected president of the provincial party by acclamation. She was a constituency secretary for former Conservative MP John Reynolds in the Burnaby-Richmond-Delta riding, and is campaign manager for Tom Siddon, the Conservative candidate in today's byelection in the riding.

Monetary Collapse 10 Years Away?

RICHMOND (CP) — Economist Lindsay Semple said Sunday Canada's monetary system will collapse in 10 years if current inflationary trends continue.

"If the (federal) government continues as it is, within 10 years, (Canada's) currency as it is will be declared not legal tender," Semple told the closing session of the B.C. Progressive Conservatice party convention.

The country is in an economic depression and the vicious spiral only can be halted by dramatic action, said Semple.

He said that the federal government in Canada has become a parasite.

The dilemma for governments is whether to continue current spending trends which accelerate inflation, or "to cut back dramatically and take the consequences."

Semple said the consequences of dramatic cuts in spending, such as slashing the number of civil sevants "are nasty, but are nothing compared with allowing inflation to accelerate."

DISTRICT OF NORTH SAANICH
Notice of Annual Election

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given to the Electors of the Municipality of the District of North Saanich that I require the presence of said Electors at the Municipal Office, 1620 Mills Road, North Saanich, B.C., on Monday, the thirtieth (30th) day of October, 1978, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of electing persons to represent them as:

3 Aldermen	(one-year term)
1 School Trustee	(two-year term)

The mode of nomination of candidates shall be as follows:

Candidates shall be nominated in writing by two duly-qualified Electors of the Municipality. The nomination paper shall be delivered to the Returning Officer at any time between the date of this notice and noon of the day of nomination. The nomination paper may be in the form prescribed in the "Municipal Act" and shall state the name, residence and occupation of the person nominated in such manner as to sufficiently identify such candidate. The nomination paper shall be subscribed to by the candidate.

Each candidate shall make and file a written disclosure in accordance with the Public Officials and Employees Discicsure Act" with the Municipal Clerk when filing his or her nomination papers.

In the event of a poll being necessary, such poll will be opened at the Municipal Office, 1620 Mills Road, North Saanich, B.C., on Saturday, the eighteenth (18th) day of November, 1978, between the hours of eight o'clock a.m. and eight o'clock p.m.

An Advance Poll shall be open at the Municipal Office on Thursday, the sixteenth (16th) and Friday, the seventeenth (17th) days of November, 1978, between the hours of nine o'clock a.m. and four o'clock p.m.

Of which every person is hereby required to take notice and govern himself accordingly.

Given under my hand at North Saanich, B.C., this sixteenth (16th) day of October, 1978.

Guest Artists Icing On Symphony Cake

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

From the strange but intriguing Stabile by Canadian-born Sydney Hodkinson to the exotic, alluring Dances of Galanta by Kodaly, and from the splendid brilliance of the Sibelius Violin Concerto to the familiar Symphony No. 8 (Unfinished) of Schubert, the current pair of Victoria Symphony concerts provides a versatile, mostly enjoyable, sometimes memorable experience.

Second and possibly final pair to be presented in the superior environment of the University Centre concert hall, they also have the additional advantage of two quite exceptional guest artists.

Conductor Jose Serebrier, a "maestro" in the true and full sense of the word, and violin soloist in the Sibelius, the exceptional young Daniel Heifetz, provide the occasion with much of its lustre.

Even before he raises his baton, Serebrier conveys a sense of occasion.

He comes on stage swiftly, not like someone arriving to do a job, but like a man hurrying to a meeting with a beloved friend. There is a nimble leap onto the podium, a moment of poise followed by the first downbeat and all that compact energy is translated into music.

The opening number is Stabile, which according to the composer is inspired by an abstract sculpture. But like most contemporary compositions of an impressionist nature, one's imagination can be free to form its own responses.

I found it quite a remarkable and haunting exploration of orchestra sounds that projected images of enormous ruins through which moonlight and wind played dramatically.

Serebrier conducted the work with great clarity, insight and sympathy, drawing from the orchestra an effective, well-disciplined performance.

So concise and authoritative yet moody and dramatic was this difficult music on Sunday — for most of the audience — that Serebrier's presentation of the Schubert was all the more eagerly awaited. The rich beauty and mood changes of the first movement were well realized in all parts of the orchestra and finely shaped and moulded by the conductor. The second movement, however, was less satisfying, its serenity and more delicate and luminous qualities being missed to some extent.

There were also rhythmic disturbances in the Sibelius concerto and a rather muddled entry on the second movement by the winds, although passages of solo clarinet, flute, oboe and horn were particularly well handled throughout the program.

Heifetz is a remarkable virtuoso talent. He performs the concerto with its horrendous technical difficulties — its incredible leaps, harmonic episodes, prestissimo passage work and double-stopping — with an ease and a flourish that would have been impressive in a far more mature artist. He produces a lambent tone in the more singing, rhapsodic phrases, bowing always with grace and fluency and musical assurance.

As a conclusion to the program, the Kodaly dances are a fine colorful finale, conducted with a controlled but nevertheless stirring excitement and strong, vital feeling for the color and heady rhythms of these gypsy-inspired dances. It was here that much of the work of the woodwinds was especially outstanding.

SATELLITE EXPERIMENT TO AID INUIT

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A $1.9-million communications satellite experiment to preserve Inuit culture and language has been approved by Ottawa.

Hugh Faulkner, northern affairs minister, says in a statement the three-year project, which includes training of Inuit as television producers and film-makers, will be conducted by the Inuit Tapirisat in conjunction with the department of communications.

Satellite Anik-B is to be launched in December.

A satellite-supported television link will allow general Inuit-language broadcasting and educational instruction.

Bilingual Grant Ceiling Slammed by Parents

CALGARY (CP) — Proposed federal cuts in grants to the provinces for bilingual school programs have been criticized at the convention of the 5,000-member Canadian Parents for French.

In August, the federal government said a $140 million ceiling has been placed on formula payments to the provinces for assistance in the bilingual programs.

The secretary of state's department had initially pleged $184 million.

The payments, a percentage of the average annual per student cost, are based on the number of students enrolled in a minority language program and the time they spend studying it.

Under the freeze, funds will provide for maintenance of existing programs but money for their expansion may be limited, Georges Tsai, director of general languages, program branch of the secretary of state department, told the weekend convention.

The delegates requested Ottawa lift its freeze and said a telegram would be sent to Prime Minister Trudeau.

The delegates also re-affirmed a resolution from last year's convention seeking income tax deductions for accountable costs incurred by parents or their children in learning the second official language.

Ottawa earlier rejected the proposal, saying higher income parents would have the most to gain because lower income parents would not be able to take advantage of the provisions, said national chairman Pat Webster of Toronto.

Another resolution called for establishment of a national French second-language resource centre.

The Fare Facts.

We can always give you a fair fare. Often we can give you a cheap fare. And sometimes, we can give you the cheapest fare. Here are the facts on the most popular ones.

Our regular economy fare.
It's not called economy for nothing. And it gives you the most flexibility. You can purchase your ticket weeks in advance, or minutes before flight time. And, of course, you have our whole schedule of flights to choose from, to anywhere we fly.

Our Charter Class Fare.
Most often, it's the cheapest way to get to any Air Canada destination in Canada or the United States that's over 400 miles away, and to our major European cities. However, you still enjoy the advantages of flying on regularly-scheduled flights. You can plan on saving up to 58% of our regular economy fare. Seats are limited and there are conditions of travel such as advance purchase and length of stay requirements, however at these prices it's well worth it.

If you're visiting the States, you'll enjoy maximum savings if you plan to travel mid-week, as there is a small additional premium for flights departing on Fridays and Saturdays.

Whatever fare you choose, Air Canada offers extras like our car rental and hotel reservation services.

Ask your travel agent to book you on an Air Canada flight. Or call us direct at 382-9242.

Look at these examples, they're hard to beat.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued their across-the-board tumble in active mid-afternoon trading on the Toronto stock market.

Livingston Industries Ltd. climbed 2½ to a new high of $34½ on 300 shares after resuming about 1 p.m. following news that Allpak Products Ltd., which holds 62.5-per-cent interest, will bid $36 a share for all remaining shares.

Canada Packers Ltd. Class C shares rose ¾ to $24 on 1,300 shares after a brief halt for dissemination of a dividend statement. Quarterly dividends will rise 1¼ cents to 25 cents payable Jan 2 to shareholders of record Dec. 8, the company said and a special payment of $1.25 will be paid Dec. 1 to record Nov. 17 shareholders.

National Trust gained 2 to $22¼ on 605 shares, Allarco Developments 1½ to $32½, S. B. McLaughlin Associates ½ to $9¼, Halifax Development 20 cents to $2.75 and CHUM Ltd. B ⅛ to $13¼.

McIntyre Mines was down 1¼ to $28½, Pine Point 1 to $26¾ and Craigmont Mines ⅝ to $5⅜. Roman Corp. rose ½ to $29¾ and Yukon Consolidated Gold five cents to $2.80.

Canadian Superior Oil dropped 2½ to $63½, Numac Oil and Gas 1¾ to $28 and Amalgamated Bonanza Petroleum 1⅛ to $33⅜. United Western Oil and Gas advanced 13 cents to $1.74 and Calvert Gas and Oil one cent to 64 cents.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a steep drop Monday in selling blamed on gloom over the interest-rate outlook.

Big-name stocks losing ground included IBM, off 3 to $283; Eastman Kodak, down 1¼ to $62¾, and Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, 1½ lower to $60⅜.

Volume was 16.15 million shares as of mid-afternoon.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .69 to 58.24.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices continued falling in afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange, with the 85-stock composite index down 3.86 at 221.47.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 410,480 shares traded, up from 385,448 shares traded up to the same time Friday.

Abitibi was down ⅛ at $18⅛, Alcan ⅞ at $40¾, Inco A ½ at $21 and CP Ltd. ¾ at $24¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Fears of pay settlements breaching government guidelines and concern over higher interest rates sent the London stock market lower at the close of light trading.

The Financial Times Index of 30 industrials closed at 494.6, off 1.6.

Leading industrials recorded widespread falls, while mining issues eased with lower bullion prices.

Canadian stocks declined.

Soviet Industry Sluggish

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Soviet Union's economy, sluggish in 1976 and 1977, may be experiencing more difficulty this year, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency reports.

The agency's National Foreign Assessment Centre said that in the 1976-77 period the Russian gross national product, the total of all goods and services producd, increased at an annual rate of 3.8 per cent, about the same as the proceeding five-year average.

By comparison, the U.S. GNP increased by 6.0 per cent in 1976 and 4.9 per cent in 1977, Germany had an increase of 5.7 per cent in 1976 and 2.4 per cent in 1977 and Japan had an increase of 6.0 per cent in 1976 and 5.1 per cent in 1977.

The report cited a number of problems that the Russians must overcome if they are to achieve even the modest goals set for their economy this year.

The CIA said that industrial production, the traditional mainstay of Russian GNP growth, slowed to 3.9 per cent in 1976-77 from an average annual growth rate of 6.0 per cent in 1971-75.

A failure to produce key industrial commodities, especially steel, were the principle causes of the slowdown.

BUSY BEES

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's bees buzzed busily this year producing 65.9 million pounds of honey, an increase of 4.1 million pounds over the 1977 crop, says Statistics Canada in a preliminary report.

A final survey will be conducted later this month, but Alberta has the greatest production and Manitoba the most productive bees.

CATTLE

CALGARY (CP) — Receipts at the Calgary public stockyards to 11 a.m. consisted of mostly slaughter cows of mixed quality and condition and a light supply of replacement cattle and calves.

Trade was moderate to active with an advancement of one dollar on all grades of slaughter cows. A few good butcher bulls sold to steady prices. There were no slaughter steers or heifers on offer to quote.

Cows D1-2 46-48.50, D3 44.50-45.50, D5 41-44.50. Good bulls 50-56.50. A light run of good feeder steers over 800 pounds sold to steady prices. Good stock steer calves of 500-600 pounds also traded steady to a good local demand. A small package of stock cows brought active bidding and settled at $55. Good feeder steers over 800 pounds 70-75, good stock steer calves 500-600 pounds 85-92.

Takeover Cleared

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Directors of NCR Canada Ltd. have approved the takeover of Quantor Corp. pending approval of Quantor shareholders. NCR said holders of common shares will receive $3 a share under the proposed acquisition bid, while holders of preferred A stocks will receive the liquidation value plus accrued dividends which would total about $1.55 million.

HAIDA BRAVE, a $14 million self-propelled log barge, was christened Friday at Yarrows shipyard. The 398-foot barge, built for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., is slightly smaller than the company's first such vessel, the Haida Monarch, and her carrying capacity — 28 million board feet — is about two thirds that of the older ship.

Sailboat Conquers Northwest Passage

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 9.5-metre steel-hulled yacht sailed by five Quebec men arrived here Sunday after braving Arctic storms and ice to become the first Canadian sailboat to navigate the Northwest Passage.

The J. E. Bernier II, which left Montreal July 1, 1976, was escorted into the harbor by boats of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club and was welcomed by B.C. Provincial Secretary Grave McCarthy.

Skipper Real Bouvier, 32, said Canada Steamships, sponsor of the 16,500-kilometre trip, was considering sailing it through the Panama canal to return to Quebec, making it the first Canadian sailboat to circumnavigate North America.

The trip was conducted in three legs, first Montreal to Greenland, then to Tuktoyaktuk and finally to Vancouver through the Bering Strait and down the coast of British Columbia.

"The Bering was where we had our worst weather," said Bouvier, a Montreal photojournalist.

"We had ice, of course, in the North. We even got stuck in the ice off Greenland. But in the Bering we had winds of 70 knots. And the sea was so shallow that massive waves came up."

But Bouvier said he would like to make the trip again.

"Once you have been up North you never forget it. I would like to go back there. It's beautiful."

Nine crew members worked on the cutter-rigged yacht on various stages of the trip.

Bouvier decided to make the trip after talking to Jim Diplock of St. Catharines, Ont., a survivor of the second voyage through the passage of the RCMP patrol boat St. Roche, the first ship to make the voyage.

He said it was then a matter of getting sponsors for the trip, estimated to cost $170,000.

Uranium Alert Rung

SASKATOON (CP) — Uranium mining should be discontinued until the nuclear fuel waste product cycle can be controlled, says Dr. Robert Woollard, chairman of the British Columbia Medical Association's environmental health committee.

"You cannot isolate the mining from the final waste disposal, and you cannot say that just because the uranium does go beyond the boundaries of Saskatchewan that you're not responsible for it," Woollard told the annual convention of the Saskatchewan-based Healthy Horizons Association.

He said research into the nuclear development waste management cycle is, "terribly under-funded and poorly-regulated."

Woollard told the convention he first became concerned about uranium development when an open pit mine was proposed for Birch Islands, B.C., in December. He said public protest led to the establishment of a provincial inquiry, "but we're afraid it's going to be more of a pollution control hearing."

Woollard said major uranium development is imminent in Birch Islands and the Kelowna area and that exploration is under way in the Kootenay District in south-eastern B.C.

Woollard said studies suggest the "linear hypothesis" — which assumes that the effects of low-level radiation are proportionate to those of high-level radiation exposure — is "not conservative and may underestimate the danger."

Michael Culbert, a California author and ex-journalist, told the convention that alternate medicine is a political question.

Culbert, author of Freedom from Cancer: The Amazing Story of Laetrile, said the main issue of alternate medicine is one of freedom of choice between physician and patient:

"Up to now, the government has absolutely smashed anything developed outside the 'club' (the medical establishment) but because laetrile became political . . . it brought the natural health revolution with it."

BRITS FLYING WEST?

EDMONTON (CP) — Britain's secretary for trade says his government is interested in the possibility of British Airways getting routes to Western Canada.

Edmond Dell, in Alberta for talks with provincial government officials and to visit the Athabasca oil sands project, said the Alberta government was responsive to the idea.

"We were arguing the case for British Airways' presence in Western Canada and Alberta particularly in view of our common activity in the oil field."

Dell said federal government reaction had been "cautious" but he said "I don't take that as implying a negative view."

Dell described his tour of the Syncrude Canada Ltd. oil sands extraction and processing facilities near Fort McMurray as "fantastic."

"I'm delighted to know that with those reserves the world is not going to run out of oil in my time."

In discussions with Dell, Alberta officials expressed concern with continued restrictions on access of Canadian agricultural products to markets in the European Economic Community.

Dell said Britain also was seeking some changes, hoping to crack the influence of farmers in West Germany and France on their governments' stance on trade in agricultural products.

Strike Vote Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of Local 115, The Newspaper Guild, voted Sunday to instruct the union executive to apply for a strike vote.

Guild president Phil Needham said no progress has been made in contract talks between the union and Pacific Press which prints the Sun and Province newspapers. The current contract expires Oct. 31.

Needham said the company wants several employees in the editorial departments of both papersno longer to be represented by the guild.

A strike vote could be taken by the end of the week, with the time and date to be set by the provincial labor ministry, Needham said.

VIETNAM AID URGED

TORONTO (CP) — The British Columbia government should immediately implement its 1973 medical aid commitment to the children of Vietnam, the Toronto-based Voice of Women organization urged Sunday.

In a telegram to Premier Bill Bennett, the organization pointed to the province's commitment, approved by all parties, to send medical aid totalling $2.25 million.

Inferno Collision Takes Life

BURNABY (CP) — A sports car driver died in a fiery weekend collision with a fuel tanker truck outside an oil refinery.

The accident occurred as the truck, carrying 7,000 gallons of gas, left a Gulf Oil depot. It was thought at one time that two persons were trapped in the wreckage of the car but RCMP said later that one person was killed. The victim's identity would not be known for several days.

The sports car was jammed beneath the truck, trapping the occupant. Police were unable to get near the blazing vehicles for more than an hour after the crash.

The truck driver escaped injury.

All traffic along the Barnet Highway was blocked off following the accident, which occured in dense fog.

W.A.C. Bust Unveiled

NANAIMO (CP) — A bronze bust of former British Columbia premier W. A. C. Bennett has been unveiled by a long-time political foe, who described Bennett as a "great man."

Dave Stupich (left with bust) told a capacity crowd of 150 people at the Croatian Miners hall in this Vancouver Island community that while he disagreed with Bennett's application of government, they both agreed on the democratic principle.

Bennett, honored by the Croatian group as the builder of B.C. during his term of office from 1952 to 1972, was too sick to attend the affair, a family spokesman said.

Attending on his behalf were his wife, Mae, his son R. J. Bennett and daughter, Mrs. Anita Tozer, who had worked with local Croatians on the bust project.

Stupich said he felt honored to unveil the bust.

"After all he was Mr. B.C. for 20 years," he said. "While we disagreed on the application of some principles we agreed on the democratic form of government and once you've done that the area of disagreement is relatively small."

"He was a great man. A man who could lead B.C. of all places, had to be something special."

FOOTBRIDGE FUNDS FLOW

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy has approved construction of a footbridge across the Coquitlam River at the spot where a 13-year-old boy drowned while crossing the river last year.

Funds for the bridge will come from Provincial and Western lottery revenues.

Kidnap-Try Better Than Flick?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four persons charged with the kidnapping of a bank manager's wife were likened by Justice George Murray to the inept villains of a cops and robbers farce.

"This is probably one of the dumbest gangs of kidnappers ever," Justice Murray said. "They should have seen the movie, The Gang that Couldn't Shoot Straight."

Leslie Roger McKinney and Leah Ann Slemmer, both of Snohomish, Wash., and Emil Joseph Mantha and Dino Franco Pitton, both of Vancouver, were charged after Heather Haley was abducted from her home in nearby Delta in a steamer trunk, held for four hours and released unharmed.

Justice Murray reserved decision until Oct. 27.

During the nine-day, nonjury trial, Justice Murray heard evidence of how kidnappers phoned the woman's husband and gave him "vague and silly" instructions on where to drop the ransom money.

The evidence indicated the kidnappers went looking in the wrong location for the package of money, and police quickly rounded up the suspects.

During their closing arguments Friday, each of the four defence lawyers contended that the only hard evidence against the accused was contained in the testimony of Robert James Welch, the Crown's chief witness.

The court was told that Welch originally was charged as an accessory after the fact but was granted a stay of proceedings when he agreed to make a statement.

Justice Murray agreed Friday that Welch was an accomplice and said he will approach his testimony with caution and will examine independent evidence to see if it corroborates what Welch said.

Lawyer Rodger Jakto said in his argument for Mantha that Welch "was dressing up his evidence to suit the authorities" and to ease his own precarious position as an accomplice.

In his final argument, prosecutor Roy Jacques said the Crown's theory is that all four accused formed a common design to kidnap Mrs. Haley.

He said McKinney and Slemmer were persuaded by Mantha to come to Vancouver to participate in the kidnap. He said Pitton obtained the kidnap van and the trunk and provided the house to which Mrs. Haley was taken.

High-Pressure Plot To Keep Dief Chief

TORONTO (CP) — A doctoral thesis to be released next month by the special assistant to Ontario Health Minister Dennis Timbrell says there was high-pressure plotting by John Diefenbaker loyalists to keep him as leader of the Progressive Conservative party in 1967.

David Surplis, former assistant to Dalton Camp, who served as national president of the Progressive Conservative Association during the Diefenbaker years, wrote his thesis as a study of Tory leadership problems from 1963 to 1967.

Among the events Surplis alleges are:

—A plot by Diefenbaker loyalists to bring the Liberal government to a monetary crisis and force the Conservative party to keep Diefenbaker on as leader in the face of a possible general election.

—Camp's desire to replace Diefenbaker as leader and his obsession with organization that included taping transistor radios to the walls of his campaign office to frustrate possible eavesdroppping.

Surplis, who left Camp to become a political science professor at University of Guelph, later became director of research for the Ontario Tories before joining Timbrell.

In his study, Surplis portrays Camp as a man who "apparently saw himself as among the most learned, respected and popular men in the party."

When Camp finally gave up his plans to run for leader, he announced his decision to back Robert Stanfield.

The decision was urged upon Camp by Flora MacDonald, now Conservative MP for Kingston and The Islands, who said Peter Newman, then editor of Toronto Star and now of Maclean's magazine, also was opposed to Camp, Surplis says.

"She related, however, that Newman was prepared to write in The Star that Camp's resignation, should it come about, was an act of selflessness."

Camp then began his campaign for re-election as association president and the overthrow of Diefenbaker.

Missing Airplane Sought

A search was to begin today for a light aircraft with a Port Coquitlam man aboard which went missing Sunday in the lower Fraser Valley.

A Rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman here said a rescue helicopter was deployed to Abbotsford to take part in the search.

The single-engine aircraft went missing while on a flight with several other light aircraft from Delta to Pitt Lake and back again.

The name of the pilot was not released.

TOO CLOSED FOR COMFORT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Whale trainer Klaus Michaelis had a narrow escape when Skana, the Vancouver Public Aquarium's 3,600-kilogram killer whale, apparently closed its jaws on his head.

The incident occured during a part of the whale show in which Michaelis places his head inside the whale's open mouth.

Gil Hewlett, aquarium curator, said Skana "closed her mouth on his head and held her teeth together for a few seconds."

"When she opened her mouth again Klaus had a couple of scrapes on either side of his forehead."

Michaelis said Skana may have come out of the water too fast or did not open her mouth in time.

Hewlett said that Skana had been doing the same act four or five times a day for years without any problems, but now that part of the whale show probably will be scrapped.

Michaelis was treated in hospital and discharged.

"What I have now is a few stitches and a terrific headache," Michaelis said.

Skana is about 16 years old and was acquired by the aquarium in 1967.

Doubled Oil Price Sought

KUWAIT (AP) — Iraqi Oil Minister Tayeh Abdul Karim warned Sunday of a possible breakup of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) if the oil cartel fails to adopt a "just and logical" price increase when it meets in December.

Karim said in an interview with the Kuwait daily Al-Seyassah newspaper that Iraq "will reject any proposal for freezing oil prices or even for a symbolic hike at the Abu Dhabi meeting and will insist on a just and logical increase in oil prices."

A renewal of this year's oil-price freeze, pushed through OPEC by Saudi Arabia and Iran, would be "tantamount to betrayal," Karim said.

He said if OPEC fails to protect Iraq's interests, his government will ask itself "what is the justification for OPEC's existence and then will seek an alternative organization."

He said the current $12.70 (U.S.) price for a barrel of crude oil is equivalent to only $4 in real terms because of inflation and the declining value of the dollar.

"To compensate for the loss in real terms oil prices should be doubled," he said. "But we certainly will take into consideration the circumstances of industrialized and Third World nations so as to avoid perplexing the world economy."

Asked about the possibility of reviving the Arab oil weapon at the Baghdad summit, the minister said: "The conference is one of confrontation and all weapons, including another oil embargo, should be used if the need arose to foil the Camp David agreements" between Egypt and Israel.

Arab Summit Seeks Beirut Pact

Times News Services

With sporadic sniping and shelling still punctuating an eight-day ceasefire, Arab foreign ministers discuss formal proposals today for restoring peace to Beirut, the war-torn capital of Lebanon.

The emergency conference in the Lebanese city of Beiteddin groups ministers from the six countries which provide a 30,000-strong Arab League Deterrent Force (ADF), designed to help the Lebanese government maintain security.

More than 400 persons were estimated killed this month before an uneasy truce ended a battle in east Beirut between Christian militias and Syrian troops who make up the bulk of the deterrent force.

Lebanese President Elias Sarkis opened the peace talks Sunday with an emotional appeal for greater assistance to resolve the crisis, which he said threatened other countries in the region.

Sarkis referred to the casualties suffered by the civilian population and the exodus of hundreds of thousands of persons from districts damaged by fighting.

Sarkis said the deteriorating situation was closely connected to failure to implement an agreement which ended the Lebanese Civil War in November 1976 and established the ADF.

Principal provisions of the accord included collection of weapons from non-government forces and restrictions on military activity.

The task at hand is to come up with urgent security measures to avert the threat of renewed fighting.

Arab diplomatic sources said Sarkis was keen to have the Syrians replaced by other ADF units or Lebanese Army soldiers in the main battle zones. But Syria has so far refused to lift its siege of the main Christian district of Ashrafiyeh.

Meanwhile, in Naqoura, Lebanon, more than 300 armed Christian militiamen barged past surprised United Nations soldiers and held an anti-Syrian protest rally today in the headquarters compound of the UN truce force in southern Lebanon.

The militiamen demanded that Syrian troops leave Lebanon and that UN forces take over peacekeeping duties in Beirut.

both for the department officers who worked on the case and for members of the Cedar Hill community who telephoned police with information linked to the crime.

Stewart said the early arrest in the murder came because of tips provided by private citizens and because of the "fine and diligent work done by members of the detective identity and patrol division."

He said that following an appeal to the public for assistance Saturday night police received numerous phone calls that helped break the case.

"People reported several articles that were found in that area that all tied in with the murder of Susan," said the inspector.

The victim lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Calve, at 1478 Finlayson Place, only a few blocks from where her body was found by four boys playing in the area.

Rhodes lives in the same neighborhood.

Victoria police began looking for Susan Friday after the missing persons department received a call from her parents early that morning. She had failed to return home after school Thursday.

An alarm in the case was sounded shortly after 4 p.m. Friday when a pair of jeans and a bulky knit sweater, partly bloodstained, were found in the Bowker Creek culvert at North Dairy and Wetherby by a Saanich municipal worker.

The clothes were identified as Susan's by her father.

The yield on the 1978 bonds now stands at 8.5 per cent in the first year, rising to nine per cent in each of the remaining six years for an average 8.9 per cent if held to maturity in 1985.

Meanwhile, monetary experts were predicting the status of the U.S. dollar on international money markets might improve following Sunday's upward revaluation of the West German mark against lesser West European currencies.

The West German government increased the value of its currency two per cent against the Belgian and Luxembourg franc and the Dutch guilder and four per cent against the Danish and Norwegian crowns.

The six currencies are linked together in a joint currency float.

Monetary specialists believe part of the dollar's rapid fall in recent months has been due to speculators selling dollars and buying marks

REBELS STALKED

UMTALI, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesian troops fanned through the wooded hills outside Umtali today stalking the guerrillas who launched the heaviest mortar barrage on the city in six years of war.

Witnesses said the infantry soldiers, ferried onto the rugged terrain by French-built Alouette helicopters, were backed by spotter planes flying through cloudy skies.

A military spokesman said five people — four whites and one black — were seriously injured in the Sunday night attack on Rhodesia's third largest city by Robert Mugabe's wing of the Patriotic Front guerrilla organization.

He said four suburban homes took direct hits and a mortar bomb crashed into the swimming pool of a fifth. A wing of Umtali hospital was damaged but no one was hurt, he said.

Residents said the assault, lasting about 30 minutes, was the most intensive against Umtali since the guerrilla war to topple the regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith began in December 1972.

B.C. Art Dusted Off For Its Debut

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

It has been derided and denigrated.

Pompous politicians have panned it.

Most people have forgotten it even exists.

But the fact is, the B.C. Art Collection, — a 630-work art package — is in good hands and about ready to be redistributed to some 60 ministries and government offices waiting in line to exhibit part of the collection.

Although much of the work has been put down ("Garbage art," once sneered Mines Minister Jim Chabot), hundreds of fine examples of contemporary B.C. art are currently gracing the walls of government offices.

For the past 2½ years, about one-third of the collection has been gathering dust in a fur storage locker in a warehouse near the Mayfair shopping mall waiting for the Socred government to make up its mind what to do about the $500,000 collection.

Now a co-ordinator for the visual arts program has been hired.

Don Lindsay, a former interior decorator with the public works department, will catalogue and photograph the art works and get them circulating once again as was originally intended when the NDP began buying the art in 1974.

Under then-public works minister Bill Hartley, a special committee armed with a budget of nearly $1 million began scouring the province for the best contemporary B.C. art and ended up with a collection that is 95 per cent either by native B.C. artists or artists living in the province.

Some works were commissioned for specific buildings and another part of the program saw a small percentage of the cost of each new government building go to art for that building.

The main thrust of the program, however, was the idea of a rotating collection to go into ministers' and other government offices.

By the time the NDP were booted out of power some $250,000 had been spent on some 630 works of art — mostly paintings — although some sculptures and other art forms were also gathered.

About two-thirds of the collection was distributed and the remaining 200 or so were in storage awaiting cataloguing or framing when the Socreds came to power.

The new government immediatly put a halt to the purchase program and the cultural services branch was cut back to the point where it could no longer staff the vault.

About five months ago, Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf approved the hiring of Lindsay and the collection is once again about to become a circulating art bank.

Across from Lindsay's cluttered office, one locker has been converted into an art vault. The room is clean and bright, paintings line one wall and fill specially designed sliding viewing racks.

One corner has been decorated with carpets and comfortable chairs to resemble any one of hundreds of government offices.

It is in this atmosphere that Lindsay will invite representatives from various government departments to come and discuss the art works to be selected for their offices.

One of his first tasks was to trace the part of the collection that had been distributed under the NDP.

After some fine detective work, Lindsay has surprisingly been able to account for all but two or three of the works.

Today he has more than two-thirds of the collection in the vault and is getting ready for redistribution once again.

He will make visits to the various offices and then use his interior decorator's expertise to select what he feels would be the most suitable works.

Another task facing Lindsay and others in cultural services is trying to convince the government, which once was so critical of the program, to expand it.

If the collection remains static, it is in danger of becoming an historical collection of the early 1970s instead of a constantly evolving contemporary collection, Lindsay said.

Once redistribution starts again Lindsay wants to see no more than 20 per cent of the collection in the vault at any one time.

One of the aims of the new distribution will be to get as much of the art as possible located in areas where the public has the best opportunity to see it.

And parts of the collection will regularly go on tours of the province.

This winter 59 works from the collection are being sent on a three-city European tour — B.C. House in London, Paris and Brussels, giving the rest of the world an opportunity to see the cultural depth that does exist way out here in the British Colmbia boondocks.

CAMOSUN PLANS CHANGES

A number of administrative changes will take place at Camosun College in the next few months.

Camosun college council has decided to create a new division, health and human services, and a hire a director to run it.

Health and human services will include practical nursing, geriatric nursing, medical laboratory technician, dental assistant, early childhood education, social service assistant, special care aid and recreation instruction.

The recommendation to establish the new division was made in a report to council by Camosun principal Grant Fisher and principal-elect Lloyd Morin.

Programs in this field have been growing in different directions and bringing them together under one division will improve their quality, the brief said.

The brief also suggested the college develop its own diploma program for registered nurses, similar to programs taught at Royal Jubilee and Victoria General hospitals.

Council approved a second administrative change that will alter the division of instructional development and institutional research, now directed by Morin.

The division will become the institutional research and supporting services division and gather internal information on the college's complex network of campuses.

Escaper Still Loose

Police are still searching today for an 18-year-old Regina youth who escaped custody while awaiting transportation back to Wilkinson Road jail after making a court appearance.

Richard Monette, facing charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen property, escaped by kicking out an unbarred window in the sheriff's locup facility in the Law Courts building.

The escape occurred last Thursday, shortly after Monette and Bernard John Strating, 18, of 2872 Glenwood, had appeared before Judge William Ostler.

The pair were arrested in connection with three break-ins in View Royal Aug. 5 and 6.

RESCUE RECORD IN SIGHT

Indications are that 1978 will be a record year for the number of marine and air rescue incidents handled by the Pacific Rescue Centre at CFB Esquimalt.

Up to 5 p.m. Thursday, 3,608 incidents had been recorded, compared with 3,984 between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 1977.

But by last week the previous marine rescue record had already been broken. A centre spokesman noted that 2,952 missions had been handled so far this year, compared with 2,830 in the whole of 1977.

There have been 391 air missions, 208 humanitarian (mostly air evacuations of people needing medical assistance) and 61 civilian calls, most of which were RCMP calls for assistance.

Yorke Seeks Second Term As Trustee

Peter Yorke is the second Greater Victoria school trustee to announce he is running for another term.

Yorke, 42, said in a letter to the Times he will seek re-election. He joins trustee Bud Smith, who at a recent school board meeting declared his intention run again.

After two years on the board, Yorke said he has gathered enough knowlege to be able to further the educational goals of the district.

His priorities are development of a vocational school, improving education for students with learning disabilities and making the entire system more stimulating for all students.

"We must continue to set the budget so that it not only allows for the proper and sufficient education of our children in this district, but must also be acceptable to the taxpayers as well," Yorke's letter of candidacy said.

Yorke has two daughters and is president of O.K. Tire Stores in Victoria.

Campaign To Avoid Blood Crisis

There was a "frightening" midsummer shortage of blood in the provincial blood bank and the Canadian Red Cross Society wants to ensure the crisis does not recur.

In launching an appeal for donors, the society says the summer shortage was due to a slump in attendance at donor clinics between May and September.

Last month Greater Victoria donors brought the 1978 total past the 10,000 mark but another 5,000 donors are required by year's end to meet the estimated goal for 1978.

Clinics for the remainder of October:

Tuesday, Oct. 17, Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, 2.30—8 p.m.

Wednesday, Oct. 18, Royal Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Residence, 11 a.m.—5 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 19, Hillside Mall, 2—8 p.m.

Friday, Oct. 20, 3rd Battalion PPCLI, 10.30 a.m.—3.30 p.m.

Monday, Oct. 23, Royal Roads Military College, 3.30—5.30 p.m., 6.30—8.30 p.m.

Tuesday, Oct. 24, to Thursday, Oct. 26, University of Victoria Student Union Building, 10 a.m.—4 p.m.

Minnie Court Fight Fund Drive Starts

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Residents of the Cadboro Bay—Ten Mile Point area are being asked to donate $25 per household to launch a proposed court battle against the recent Saanich council decision which approved the Minnie Mountain development scheme by Broadmead Farms Ltd.

The Cadboro Bay Residents Association sent out letters Sunday to about 1,100 area residents, informing them that the association believes it has grounds to challenge the decision on a possible technical conflict of interest involving Ald. David Paterson.

Association president Richard Boss said today the gist of the letter is: "If you want us to pursue this, send us some money because it's going to cost several thousands of dollars to take the thing to court."

He said the legal costs are likely to be between $5,000 and $10,000, and the letter suggests a per-household contribution of $25 toward the fighting fund.

Enclosed with the request was a copy of a letter from lawyer and North Saanich alderman Lawrence Fast, advising the CBRA that a potential conflict of interest could throw doubt on the validity of the Sept. [illegible] council decision.

The allegation centres on Paterson's position as an employee of a firm providing management services to the legal firm Pearlman and Lindholm, which has also acted for the Minnie Mountain developers.

Boss stressed that the argument in question raises only a "possible, technical" conflict of interest, and does not suggest that the alderman acted in any way improperly.

He also said that even if the necessary funds are forthcoming, it does not mean the association is committed to legal action.

The letter is basically an attempt by the group's executive to find out how strongly residents feel on the Minnie Mountain issue and how far they are prepared to carry the fight, he explained.

The response won't be known for several days, Boss added.

Meanwhile, Saanich council is awaiting an opinion from the Law Society of B.C. on several questions concerning both Paterson's position and that of Pearlman and Lindholm, the municipality's solicitors.

Council decided to consult the society as an independent legal source following conflict of interest charges raised by Ald. John Mika.

The Law Society has undertaken to provide the opinion by Nov. 6, and in the meantime council will stall fourth reading of the bylaw approving the land-use contract.

Gate-Crashing Guys Get Bounced by Gals

A women-only dance at the University of Victoria Friday night was disrupted by male students who tried to crash the party.

Members of UVic's Womens Action Group (WAG), who sponsored the dance, acted as bouncers and ejected 20 or 30 men during the evening, a group spokesman said.

The university patrol was called to the Student Union Building where the dance was held, said WAG member Trish Lakes, dance co-ordinator.

About 100 women attending the dance were harassed by passersby who stopped to stare and make obnoxious comments, Lakes said.

Children at the dance were also bothered by people in the halls, she said.

Women-only dances have been sponsored by WAG for the last three years without previous trouble, Lake said.

There are no restrictions and women dance by themselves or with other women.

"It's a good way to release energy," according to Lakes, who said the dance was a social, not political event and open to all women on campus.

A spokesman for the Alma Mater Society (AMS) said trouble started when men drinking at the Student Union Building pub next door tried enter the dance.

"Some gentlemen who were drunk tried to gain entry. There was a lot of screaming, yelling and shouting going on," the [illegible] spokesman said.

No one was hurt during the scuffle, Lakes said.

Future dances will probably be held off-campus, because the event received too much adverse publicity.

Male student's upset by the women-only concept complained last week to the student newspaper, The Martlet, AMS president Dave Connell and student ombudsman Patty Beatty-Guenter said.

Ask the Times

Q. I see that Justice Minister Otto Lang says he would favor a referendum on capital punishment. Can you tell me what the situation is in the United States and Britain? B.R.

A. Between the 5-4 U.S. Supreme Court decision against capital punishment in June, 1972, and April, 1975, 32 of the 50 Amecian states have voted to restore it. The death penalty for murder was formally abolished on Dec. 18, 1969, in Britain.

Discovered in Monterey: A Soul-Mate

THE SKIES ARE GREY here, and the wind blows chill. But in old Monterey, where Gomez plies his trade, all will be gold and blue. Blue of the boat-swarming harbor. Gold of the mellow California sunshine that floods down through the interlacing boughs of Monterey's pepper trees.

I discovered Gomez on the apprach to Fishermen's Wharf.

A jazz festival had taken over the town. Its music was all-pervasive. It followed us as we strolled out to the wharf, a busy place where party boats came and went with their pay-loads of sport fishermen, and their rigging bright with multi-colored flags.

A crowd at dock-head clotted the flow of foot traffic. I heard laughter. Then I glimpsed a small, dark face and a pair of extraordinarily bright eyes under what appeared to be a wiry, brown brush-cut. I halted so suddenly that the fellow behind almost bumped into me.

Through a gap in the swirling crowd of holiday-makers, I saw him entire . . . a small, neat, long-tailed monkey.

Gomez, whose name I learned later from his master, was dashingly [illegible] a combination garment which consisted of striped jacket, shorts and a deep-pocketed apron. The tails of the jacket were cut sharply away on either side to give play to Gomez's own expressive tail, which he carried proudly arched.

Around his neck was a narrow collar to which a lengthy leash was attached. The other end of the leash was held by the monk's owner who, with his free hand, ground wheezy music from a barrel-organ.

I hadn't known that a barrel-organ still existed in North America. Charmed, I lingered to listen, and to watch clever Gomez work the crowd.

With brisk politeness, he would reach a paw for each extended coin, pocket it in his apron, then offer his other paw to be shaken. Sometimes if the coin happened to be large, perhaps one of the 50-cent pieces now rare in Canada but still common [illegible]cy south of the border, Gomez would reward the donor with a sweeping, butt-in-air bow.

His thoroughgoing professionalism fascinated me. He was never still for a moment. Always, he was moving among the forest of legs, while his hand reached for coins and his sharp, sad eyes searched each face.

I took out a nickel, hunkered down and extended it to Gomez. He took it, inspected it, turned it over a couple of times, then dropped it in his apron. But he didn't make the grand bow, or even offer to shake hands.

Instead, he gave me a sorrowful gaze . . . one which plainly conveyed reproach. If the gift of speech had been his, no doubt he would have called me a cheapskate.

"Okay, okay," I mumbled appologetically, and again plunged a hand in my pocket.

This time I came up with a quarter. Gomez accepted it, popped it in his apron, and extended a paw to be shaken.

I was turning reluctantly to go, when Gomez reached a restraining paw. He took hold of my pants leg, cuddled close, and directed at me an upward glance of such appeal that my hand went automatically to my pocket.

I gave him a quarter, then another one. It seemed to me that Gomez put extra warmth into his paw-shake.

We went off for a lunch of grilled sand dabs in a pierside restaurant with windows that looked out to the harbor. A party boat slid into its berth. It disgorged a batch of fishermen, each with his bulging gunnysack of fish.

"That Gomez!" I said to my dear-one. "You ever see anything smarter?"

When we strolled back to Fishermen's Wharf, Gomez was still doing his business to the [illegible] organ.

I knelt at the edge of the crowd. Gomez spotted me and came straight to me. Without benefit of coin, he offered his hand.

In my pocket was a 50-cent piece. I produced it and Gomez's paw closed around it. Up went his butt with a proud tail-flourish. Down went his chin. He was giving me the grand bow!

He was a mercenary-minded monk, and I'm sure, in his off-duty hours, he would be a temperamental little heller. But I like to think that something passed between us other than money . . . a sense of recognition, perhaps . . . and I remember Gomez fondly.

NEW YORK LEADS SERIES 3-2

O'MALLEY ROBBED IN HOTEL

Dodgers Mugged by Damn Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers, having been mugged in The Bronx while their team president was robbed in Manhattan, headed back to Dodger Stadium on Sunday like tourists who know there is no place like home.

New York Yankees, forced to win must games all year to get into baseball's 75th World Series, now have to win just one of the next two games to repeat as champions.

The magic number dropped to one because rookie Jim Beattie, an unlikely hero, pitched his first complete game in 24 major-league appearances and the Yankees ripped off 18 hits, including a record 16 singles, in beating the Dodgers 12-2 Sunday.

Thurman Munson knocked in five runs and joined Mickey Rivers, Brian Doyle and Bucky Dent with three-hit games in pacing the Yankees, who fought back from a 2-0 deficit by winning all three games at Yankee Stadium.

On Saturday, it was a two-out, 10th-inning single by Lou Piniella which scored Roy White from second with the winning run in a 4-3 Yankees come-from-behind victory.

With ace Ron Guidry waiting in the wings for a possible seventh game, Beattie's nine-hit performance was pivotal. The Yankees can lose Tuesday night, when Catfish Hunter is scheduled to oppose the Dodgers' Don Sutton, and still have their ace in the hole for the final game.

Sutton, who lost to Guidry on Friday night, felt the Yankees added insult to injury with their hitting rampage in Sunday's fifth game.

"There is a difference between an overriding desire to win and a mean streak," the Dodgers' right-hander said. "I think they try to kick your brains out.

No longer the Bronx Bombers, they were more like embalmers, nailing the Dodgers' coffin with one single after another until they had more one-base hits than any team in Series history.

It was the captain—Munson—and the catalyst—Rivers—who made it happen. Unlike the Dodgers' right-handed hitters who have been destroyed by the unique Yankee Stadium dimensions, Munson utilized the park's spaciousness in the alleys and to centre field.

"Maybe singles are the right way for right-handed hitters," said Munson.

"For a right-handed hitter to do well here, he has to swing down, hit line drives and use the whole ball park," said Piniella.

Steve Garvey, the Dodgers' right-handed clean-up hitter, struck out twice against Beattie and left seven runners on base. He has yet to knock in a run in this Series.

While Garvey and other Dodgers complained about their accomodations at Yankee Stadium, their president, Peter O'Malley, had a legitimate gripe about the Dodgers' downtown hotel.

O'Malley's room was broken into earlier in the week and police have arrested a suspect who is alleged to have tried to sell 30 Series tickets taken from the room. Police said some jewelry and cash also were taken.

A great portion of the Dodgers' problems were self-made. They committed three errors, had two passed balls and a wild pitch and didn't come up with any big defensive plays when they needed them.

"I'm only human," said shortstop Bill Russell, who made one error and couldn't handle several other balls that went for hits. "I'm not a golden glover by any means. We're going home where the weather is nicer and the playing conditions are better.

"We had all the confidence in the world when we came here. They just tore everything down."

In Saturday's fourth game, the Dodgers grabbed a 3-0 lead in the fifth on Reggie Smith's three-run homer, but the Yankees got two back in the sixth on a bizarre play. With one out, White singled to centre and Munson walked on a 3-2 pitch. Reggie Jackson followed with a single to right, scoring White with the first run.

Piniella then lined a shot near second base which shortstop Bill Russell gloved for a moment, then dropped. He recovered, stepped on second to force Jackson and it seemed he still might complete the double play. But his throw to first struck Jackson in the right thigh, bounced away into foul territory and allowed Munson to score.

The Dodgers unsuccessfully argued that Jackson had intervered with the throw, but the protest fell on deaf ears. Munson then doubled home New York's tying run in the eighth.

Hot Knickle Burns Cats

It's not enough that Brandon Wheat Kings have the Western Major Junior Hockey League's two highest scorers of last season among their holdovers. Rick Knickle also is back to make things miserable for Brandon's rivals.

Brandon's almost-awesome scoring punch, spearheaded by Ray Allison and Brian Propp, has overshadowed Knickle's value and competence.

But the Wheat Kings' goaltender got a chance to do his thing Sunday when Victoria Cougars became the first team to out-play and outshoot Brandon this season.

Because of Knickle, the Cougars couldn't out-score the undefeated Eastern Division leaders. Brandon, thanks to Knickle's brilliance, hung a 7-3 defeat on Victoria.

The Cougars, stung by Allison's three first-period goals, unleashed a whopping 72 shots at Knickle before 2,764 fans but rookie Brad Palmer, Mike Shields and George Fritz were the only ones to beat the Brandon goalie.

Cougars fired 31 shots at Knickle in each of the last two periods.

In contrast, veteran Steve Amiss made 35 saves in three periods.

Propp, who topped the league in scoring with 70 goals and 182 points last season, scored twice for the Wheat Kings and Kelly McCrimmon and Dave Chartier added singles.

Referee Glen Agar of Brandon assessed the Wheat Kings 18 of 28 minor penalties, one of two majors, and a game misconduct.

Penalties played an important role with Brandon connecting on three power-play chances to race away to a 4-0, first-period lead.

Cougars scored two of their three goals from power-play situations but had their problems with Brandon's penalty-killers, and Knickle, eight other occasions, including three while enjoying two-man advantages.

It was Victoria's fourth straight loss on an eight-game Prairie tour that continues Tuesday in Saskatoon.

Elsewhere Sunday, New Westminster Bruins ended a four-game Portland win streak by defeating the Winter Hawks 5-1. Centre Scott MacLeod sparked Bruins' attack with two goals and an assist.

Lethbridge, rebounding from a 5-4 Saturday loss, defeated Medicine Hat Tigers 8-4, Seattle Breakers belted Regina Pats 9-4, and Calgary Wranglers picked up their victory of the season by edging Calgary 3-2 in other games.

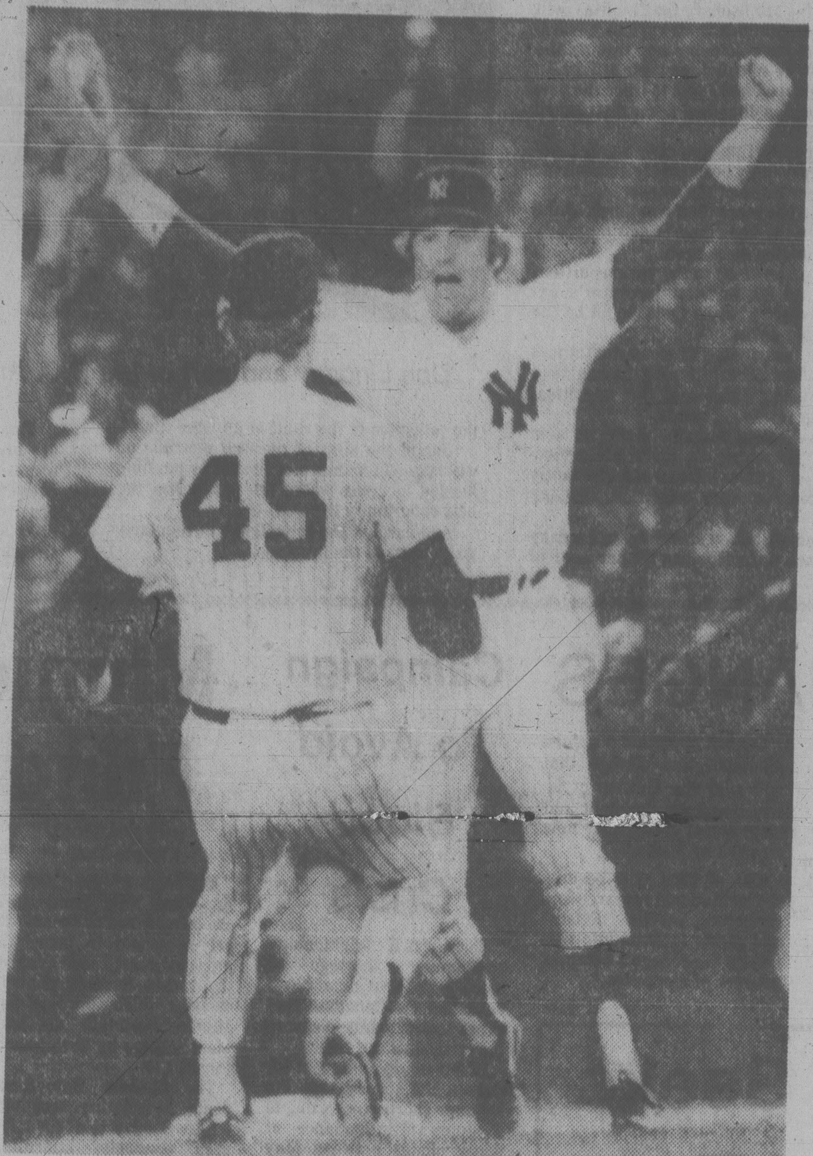
Fowler Out Next Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Fowler, New York Yankees pitching coach, will not return to the American League baseball champions next season. Clyde King was brought in at midseason as a higher-ranking coach and reduced Fowler's duties.

Fowler, 56, is a long-time friend of former manager Billy Martin, who resigned in midseason.



ROOKIE PITCHER Jim Beattie (45) of New York Yankees is about to be hugged by first baseman Jim Spencer after Beattie pitched his first complete major league game, leading the Yanks to a 12-2 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers in fifth game of World Series in New York, Sunday. Ump Stands By Call

NEW YORK (AP) — National League umpire Frank Pulli, who ruled Saturday that New York Yankees' Reggie Jackson had not interfered with a throw by Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop Bill Russell, stood by his ruling Sunday after viewing videotape replays of the controversial play.

"After viewing the replay, I'd have to say that Jackson did not intentionally interfere with the ball," said Pulli before Sunday's fifth game of the 1978 World Series.

The Dodgers, however, saw it otherwise.

"He (Jackson) gave an Academy Award performance," said Russell.

"I thought Reggie moved his stride into the path of the ball," said Los Angeles first baseman Steve Garvey.

Jackson, meanwhile, seemed to hedge on the issue.

"I was just lucky to get in the way of the ball," he said. "Looking at the replay, it doesn't really look like I intentionally got in the way."

Esks Bop Bombers, Win West

By The Canadian Press

Edmonton slotback Tom Scott returned to Winnipeg to haunt his former employer as he scored three touchdowns in leading the Eskimos to a 38-10 victory over the Blue Bombers and a first-place finish in the Western Football Conference on Sunday.

Scott was on the receiving end of three Tom Wilkinson scoring passes of 23, 24 and 28 yards as Edmonton snapped the Bombers winning streak at six games.

"I just came in with the rest of the guys with the intention of just winning this game," said Scott, who was voted Edmonton's player of the game. " It just seemed that the more we played the more they were going to throw to me and I was very fortunate to have caught the three touchdown passes."

"Wilkie threw a lot of passes to me which enabled me to score three touchdowns," he said. "If you don't get the ball thrown to you, you aren't going to do anything."

In all Scott was Wilkinson's favorite target, catching five passes for 118 yards.

The win was Edmonton's third in as many games against the Bombers and was the most decisive. The earlier scores were 29-28 and 14-8 in the Eskimos' favor.

In other Canadian Football League action on Sunday, Calgary Stampeders moved within one point of Winnipeg in the battle for second-place in the west with a 32-13 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders while virtually eliminating the B.C. Lions from playoff contention.

Meanwhile, the Rough Riders of Ottawa clinched first place in the Eastern Division with a bruising 13-10 victory over Montreal Alouettes.

In the lone CFL game on Saturday, Toronto Argonauts proved that miracles still exist as they surprised Hamilton Tiger-Cats, themselves, and an announed hometown crowd of 41,250 in winning 21-7.

Hugh Campbell, Edmonton's head coach, was surprised by the ease with which his team handled Winnipeg, especially in the third quarter when they exploded for 20 points.

"It was almost too easy," Campbell said. "Well, the first half was the way I though it was going to be, and then we just seemed to get things going."

Scott scored the games opening touchdown in the second quarter and scored twice in the third quarter when Edmonton iced the victory. Running back Jim Germany scored the Esks' other touchdown, an eight-yard jaunt in the fourth quarter. Dave Cutler booted their other points on four converts, three field goals and a single.

Ron Lancaster, quarterback of Saskatchewan Roughriders, celebrated his 40th birthday on Saturday. On Sunday he played like he was 60.

With the score 14-10 in Calgary's favor, Lancaster hit Terry Irvin with a perfect strike on the Stamps' 28-yard line. Unfortunately for Lancaster and the Roughriders, Irvin plays for Calgary. Irvin returned the ball 72 yards for a touchdown and Calgary cruised the rest of the way.

Lancaster had a miserable day completing just eight of 23 attempts and was intercepted three times. He was replaced by Larry Dick in the fourth quarter.

"As far as any long-range plans go, I don't know," Lancaster said when asked about a possible retirement at the end of the season. (Football statistics are on page 16).

MARTIN GETS EQUALIZER; VACHON SPARKS RED WINGS

Canucks Get Comeback Tie

By The Canadian Press

Vancouver Canucks are still undefeated while Detroit Red Wings are breathing a sigh of relief as goaltender Rogatien Vachon regained his form in National Hockey League action on the weekend.

The Canucks rallied late to tie Chicago Black Hawks 3-3 while the Red Wings scored a big 3-2 victory over Bufalo Sabres Sunday.

Pit Martin flipped the puck into an open net with 90 seconds left in the game to lift Vancouver into a 3-3 tie. Vancouver won its first two games at home.

Martin, a former Black Hawk, had scored one of two second-period goals for the Canucks as Vancouver grabbed a 2-0 advantage. Veteran Chris Oddleifsson had also scored in the second period.

But the Hawks scored three goals in a two-minute flurry midway through the final period for a 3-2 advantage.

John Marks scored his second goal of the year after taking a pass from J. P. Bordeleau. A short time later, Darcy Rota beat Vancouver goaltender Gary Bromley. Just 14 seconds later, Marks fed Bordeleau, who scored from point-blank range.

In Detroit's opening game of the regular season Vachon had a difficult time stopping any shots as St. Louis Blues upset the Wings 5-4.

"This is the best I've played this year," Vachon said. "I had a rough training camp and a bad first game, but I had two good early saves and I got my confidence up."

In other games Sunday, New York Rangers dumped Colorado Rockies 4-1, Montreal Canadiens edged Philadelphia Flyers 3-2 and Boston Bruins stopped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2.

In Saturday's NHL action, Toronto defeated New York Islanders 10-7, Philadelphia dropped Detroit 3-1, Atlanta Flames stopped Washington Capitals 6-3, Montreal downed Colorado 5-2, Los Angeles Kings pounded Pittsburgh Penguins 6-2, Buffalo defeated Minnesota North Stars 5-2 and Boston and Pittsburgh tied 4-4.

Buffalo defenceman Jim Schoenfeld was taken to hospital after suffering an undetermined injury in the second period.

Pierre Mondou scored what proved to be the winner for Montreal midway through through the second period as he beat Bernie Parent with a 35-foot slapshot.

Rick MacLeish brough the Flyers to within one goal, 3-2, on a power play at 8:52 of the third period. But that was all they could get behind Canadiens' goalie Ken Dryden.

Mario Tremblay gave Montreal a 1-0 lead in the first period, scoring on a backhander on a two-on-one pass from Doug Risebrough.

Jim Watson tied the game 1-1 just over a minute later.

Yvan Cournoyer put Montreal back in the lead, this time to stay, at 7:43 of the second period when he finshed off a pretty three-way passing play from Mondou and Rejean Houle.

Bruins built a four-goal lead midway through the second period and then went into a shell in front of goalie Gilles Gilbert.

The Bruins took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Peter McNab's goal at 16:19.

Boston widened the advantage on goals by Rick Middleton, Don Marcotte and Wensink in the second period before the Maple Leafs came alive.

Toronto capitalized on a Boston penalty as Dave Williams whacked in a long shot by Ron Wilson on a power play at 11:08. Ron Ellis tipped in a shot by Dan Maloney for another goal four minutes later, but the Leafs were unable to break through Gilbert again.

The Zebras Strike in Cincinnati

By The Associated Press

The zebras came out of the woods again Sunday.

The men in the black-and-white striped shirts, the officials of the National Football League, under fire early in the season for several controversial calls but inconspicuous recently, returned to the unaccustomed (and unwelcome) spotlight in Cincinnati.

The Bengals, winless heading into their seventh game of the season, were battling New England down to the wire. And when Patriots quarterback Steve Grogan lost the ball deep in Bengals territory and Cincinnati safety Dick Jauron pounced on it, overtime appeared imminent.

But rookie line judge Bob McLaughlin ruled no fumble, the Pats retained possession and, one play later, Sam Cunningham plowed in from the three-yard line for the touchdown with 6:56 to play that carried New England to a 10-3 victory.

In Sunday's other games, it was Philadelphia 17, Washington 10; Dallas 24, St. Louis 21 in overtime; Los Angeles 34, Minnesota 17; Green Bay 45, Seattle 28; New York Jets 33, Baltimore 10; Miami 28, San Diego 21; Oakland 28, Kansas City 6; New York Giants 17, Tampa Bay 14; Atlanta 14, Detroit 0; Houston 17, Buffalo 10, and New Orleans 14, San Francisco 7. Chicago visits Denver tonight.

It was up to referee Gene Barth, an eight-year official and the crew chief, to explain McLaughlin's whistle. "Our line judge felt the ball-carrier was down," he said of the call when Grogan was hit by Cincinnati linebacker Reggie Williams and stopped at the Bengals' seven-yard line. "It's a judgment he has to make." Asked if he thought it was a tough call to make, Barth replied: "Not from his vantage point."

Williams, obviously disagreed—so vehemently, in fact, that he was penalized for unsportsmanlike conduct, giving New England a first down at the three.

"I knew it was a fumble from the time that Grogan hit the ground and the ball hit the ground," Williams said. "I was stunned by the call. I couldn't believe it and grabbed his (the official's) shirt for just a second out of total frustration."

Grogan, however, insisted: "I didn't feel I lost it until I hit the ground."

It was a dismal end to Homer Rice's second game as the Bengals' head coach since replacing Bill Johnson. "For the first time this season when we came into the locker room at halftime, we felt we were going to win," he said.

Philadelphia's Wilbert Montgomery rambled through Washington's defence for 125 yards, 12 on a tie-breaking touchdown run 2½ minutes into the fourth quarter, handing the Redskins their first defeat of the season.

Washington managed to get within three yards of a tying TD with about five minutes to play, but running back Tony Green fumbled, rookie linebacker Reggie Wilkes recovered and the upset was secure.

The winles Cardinals battled Dallas' defending Super Bowl champions into overtime, only to lose on Rafael Septien's 47-yard field goal. The Cards had blocked Septien's potential game-winning field goal attempt from the St. Louis 39 as time ran out in the fourth quarter.

Roger Staubach launched touchdown passes of 37 and six yards to Tony Hill and six yards to Robert Newhouse for the Cowboys, while Jim Otis plunged two yards and one yard and Jim Hart flipped a one-yard pass to Wayne Morris for the Cards' scores.

Bouchard Retires Of Broken Heart

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Pierre Bouchard, who was claimed by Washington Capitals in the National Hockey League's Oct. 9 intra-league draft and later had a trade back to Montreal Canadiens declared null and void by NHL president John Ziegler, announced his retirement Sunday.

The announcement was made by Bouchard and Alan Eagleson, his lawyer and executive-director of the NHL Players' Association, in a telephone interview from New York.

"I spent the day in New York with my lawyer, Alan Eagleson, and after several hours of discussion I have decided to retire as a professional hockey player," Bouchard told The Canadian Press.

Bouchard, one of the most popular players on the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens, was left unprotected by Montreal and was claimed by the Capitals.

Washington then traded Bouchard back to the Canadiens for forward Rod Schutt within 24 hours but that deal was nixed by Ziegler, who said the trade violated an NHL bylaw which statedthat a player claimed in the draft couldn't be transferred, unless he first cleared waivers.

Eagleson applauded Bouchard's decision to call it quits.

"Pierre has been a credit to hockey and to the Montreal Canadiens," Eagleson said. "I'm not surprised at his decision. I know that the Montreal Canadiens broke his heart.

"He gave everything to Montreal and treated them better than they have treated him in the last 10 days. I hope the owners will learn something from his retirement and will treat players better in the future."

Bouchard said he would elaborate on his position at a news conference in Montreal later this week.

Buckaroos Edge Blades

DUNCAN — Western Homes Buckaroos managed to hold off some tremendous pressure in the third period to defeat Duncan Silver Park Blades 5-4 in a South Island Big Six Intermediate Hockey League game Sunday at the new Duncan Arena.

Stan Alstad scored twice to lead Buckaroos, who improved their first-place record to 3-0-1, while singles were added by Dave Pettinger, Bob Nicholson and Garth Cunningham.

Steve Ludvigson (2), George Ross and Tim Hollett replied for Blades, who led 1-0 after the first period but trailed 4-3 going into the final frame.

Dan Porteous blocked 33 shots on the Buckaroo net and Bruce Morrow made 32 saves for Duncan.

Guidry Honored By Baseball Mag

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ron Guidry, New York Yankees' left-hander who topped major league baseball pitchers with a 25-3 record this season, has been named 1978 major league player of the year by the Sporting News.

Guidry led the American League with a 1.74 earned run average, and shutouts with nine. The slender southpaw becomes the first pitcher to win the award since Denny McLain of Detroit Tigers in 1968.

Trios, Flyers Romp

Oak Bay Trios and Fuller Lake Flyers came up with one-sided victories in South Island Junior "B" Hockey League play Saturday.

Trios bounced Lake Cowichan Baird's Trucking 17-2 at Lake Cowichan Arena while Flyers mauled Kerry Park Islanders 17-1 at Mill Bay.

Brad Pettinger led Trios with three goals, Rick Schievink added two and singles were chipped in by John Brown, Joe Miller, Don Turcotte, Mike Smith, Bruce Collins, Ken Wilson, Cary Carruthers, Ian McLean, Colin Kinnee, Dave Brown, Ron Pearce and Ken Buna. Ron Hughes and Tony Hajdu countered for Truckers.

Greg Hollett connected with five goals to lead Flyers while four-goal efforts came from Don Bodger and Keith Mazerenko. Ken Bell (2), Brett Malli and Brian Branting completed the Fuller Lake scoring and Mark Dayton averted a shutout for Kerry Park.

Amateurs Make Pros Take Note

Vancouver Island's amateurs have squared accounts with the professionals in their annual Island Cup series for the Francis Winspear Trophy.

The amateurs, pulling off a 5½-4½ victory in Sunday's singles, scored a narrow 8-7 triumph in the sixth annual tournament played at Glen Meadows Golf and Country Club at the weekend.

Teams, each composed of 10 players selected on the basis of points accumulated for performances in Island tournaments during the summer, battled to a 2½-2½ draw in Saturday's foursomes. The amateurs came up with the telling difference in Sunday's singles.

As in four of the five previous battles, the issue wasn't settled until the final result. Sunday, it was a sawoff between Cowichan's Alex Forward and Victoria's Doug Mahovlic that decided it.

The amateurs got victories from Grant Milliken, Robin Steffanick, Sandy Harper, Mike Gray and Don Norbury, but victory wasn't assured until Forward, matching Mahovlic's approximate one-under-par 71 round, managed the half with the Oak Bay assistant in the final match of the day.

Results:

Andretti in Close Win

Times News Services

Mario Andretti, after painstakingly fighting his way up from the seventh starting position, took the lead when Gordon Johncock spun off the course four laps from the finish and the 1978 world champion held on for victory in Sunday's International Race of Champions event at Riverside, Calif.

Andretti crossed the finish line 50 feet in front of Cale Yarborough, who was closely followed by Bobby Allison, Alan Jones, Emerson Fittipaldi and Johncock.

Johncock was cruising to an easy victory, leading all the way, until a caution flag was thrown to clean up oil left on the course by Al Unser's blown engine.

That erased Johncock's four-second lead and backed up the field for a five-lap sprint to the finish.

Johncock held off Andretti's pressure on the restart, and moved out to a five-car length lead on the first lap. But on the next time around, Johncock got into turn seven, a hillcrest right-hander, too hard and spun off.

Before he could get back into the hunt, he had dropped to sixth.

Also at Riverside, Australian Alan Jones led wire to wire to win the final Can-Am Challenge Cup event of the season and clinch the U.S. championship.

Jones, who started on the pole position with a qualifying speed of 124.165 miles an hour, averaged 115.968 m.p.h. around the 2.55-mile Riverside International Raceway road course. The average was just under the course record.

In Ottawa, Taisto Heinonen and Tom Burgess, both of Vancouver, won the 320 kilometre Molson Forest rally championship of Canada.

Pumas Draw With England

LONDON (Reuter) — Argentina Pumas drew 13-13 with an England XV in their first Rugby Union international at Twickenham on Saturday.

England led 7-4 at the half.

England came close to winning in injury time when fullback Billy Bushell took a 40-yard penalty from in front of the posts but his kick curled past the right upright.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF CENTRAL SAANICH

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Public Notice is hereby given to the electors of the Municipality of Central Saanich that I require the presence of the said electors at the Municipal Hall, 1903 Mt. Newton X Rd., on the 30th day of September, 1978 at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of electing persons to represent them as

Mayor one to be elected for the years 1979 and 1980

Alderman three to be elected for the years 1979 and 1980

School Trustee one to be elected for the years 1979 and 1980

The mode of nomination of candidates shall be as follows:

Candidates shall be nominated in writing by two duly qualified electors of the Municipality. The nomination-paper shall be delivered to the Returning Officer at any time between the date of this notice and noon of the day of nomination. The nomination-paper shall be subscribed to by the candidate.

In the event of a poll being necessary such poll will be opened on the eighteenth day of November, 1978 between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 8:00 P.M. at the following places:

Municipal Hall, 1903 Mt. Newton X Rd.
Brentwood Elementary School, 7085 Wallace Dr.
Keating Elementary School, 6843 Central Saanich Rd.

An advanced poll will be open at the Municipal Hall only between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. on each of the two days immediately preceding the day of election (November 16th and 17th) of which very person is hereby required to take notice and govern himself accordingly.

The only persons permitted to vote at the advanced poll are those who, being duly qualified electors sign a statement that they expect to be absent from the Municipality on polling day, or they are, for reasons of conscience, prevented from voting on polling day, or through circumstances beyond their control, they will not be able to attend the poll on polling day.

Given under my hand at Central Saanich this 12th day of October, 1978.

F. B. DURRAND,
Returning officer

Nanaimo Edges Farmers

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Headhunters edged Oak Bay Farmer Construction 17-14 in a Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League game here Sunday.

Dwayne Maslen and Andy Godley scored the Nanaimo touchdowns while Randy Barr kicked both converts and a field goal.

Paul Docherty led Oak Bay with a touchdown, a single and a convert while Mark Edgington scored the other major.

Nanaimo held a 14-6 lead at half time and entered the fourth quarter with a 17-7 advantage.

Vikes Grab Soccer Lead

University of Victoria Vikings, with a little help from Graham Fishburne and the Alberta Golden Bears, took over first place in the Canada West University Athletic Association men's soccer league after posting a 3-0 win over Calgary Dinosaurs in a match Saturday at Royal Athletic Park.

Fishburne took care of all the scoring as Bears topped Saskatchewan Huskies 4-0 at Saskatoon the same day.

Vikings, who suffered their only loss of the season to Dinosaurs in Calgary, led 1-0 at half time.

Peter Zachary connected at the 38-minute mark.

Dan Lomas moved into a tie for the club lead with John Leier at four goals apiece by scoring at 76 minutes on a cross from Jim Palm and Stu Holroyd finished off with 10 minutes remaining by bashing the ball in off a Calgary defender.

It was the second loss in as many days for Dinosaurs, who dropped a 2-1 decision to University of British Columbia Thunderbirds on Friday.

Vikings now have a 3-1-2 record with two matches remaining. They face Thunderbirds at UBC on Wednesday and conclude the schedule at home to Alberta Oct. 28.

U.S. Team Tops

STANS, Switzerland (AP) — United States won the final event of a four-nation gymnastics tournament Saturday night to defeat Switzerland, Norway and Britain.

Vampires Hornets Prevail

Saanich Vampires and Saanich Hornets collected victories in Vancouver Island Bantam Football League play Sunday at Cedar Hill Park.

Vampires trampled Oak Bay 84-11 and Hornets tripped Juan de Fuca Tigers, 16-6.

In a game at Nanaimo, Cowichan downed the host club, 31-6.

Scoring:

HORNETS (16) — Mitchell Holmes, touchdown; Chris Spargo, touchdown; Andy Moody, two two-point conversions. TIGERS (6) — Brian Flack, touchdown.

VAMPIRES (84) — Scott Tuttle, four touchdowns; Joe Frenette, two touchdowns; Terry Jones, two touchdowns; Keith Smith, touchdown; Paul Sitorio, touchdown; Dave Morrison, 10 conversions; plus two safety touches. OAK BAY (11) — Mike Humphreys, touchdown; Brad Stevenson, field goal amnd conversion.

Women Win For Canada

SYDNEY (CP-Reuter) — Canada won the women's international eight Saturday but Britain dominated the men's event by winning five gold medals at the Centenary international regatta of the New South Wales Rowing Association on the Nepean River.

In the women's blue ribbon event, Canada put on a strong performance to win by a length over the United States with Australia a close third.

Members of the Canadian crew were Joy Fera, Chris Neuland, Kim Gordon and Tricia Smith, all from Burnaby, Kelly Jacklin of Victoria, Monika Draeger of St. Catharines, Ont., Deloras Young and Gail Cort of St. Catharines, Ont., and cox Trudy Flynn of Woodstock, Ont.

The loudest cheers were for single sculler Ted Hale, who won his event for Australia with an outstanding effort. Britain's Tim Crooks led for three-quarters of the race before slipping back, either to cramps or exhaustion, and Hale and American Greg Stone were both able to pass him.

Mariners in Lead

Mariners moved into first place in the first division of the Vancouver Island Women's Field Hockey Association on Saturday, thanks partly to the University of Victoria team.

Mariners displayed their own talents to defeat Cowichan 4-2 while UVic were taking care of Oak Bay, 2-0.

Those two results combined to snap a tie between Mariners and Oak Bay for the league lead.

Sharon Neeves, Vivian Davies, Joan Peggs and Mairi Ann Longmore scored for the Mariners. National team members Jan Crook scored one UVic goal and Cynthia McAlpine the other.

Scores follow:

FIRST DIVISION

MARINERS (4) — Sharon Neeves, Vivian Davies, Joan Peggs, Mairi Ann Longmore. COWICHAN (2) — Jean McCreary, Marg Luff.

UVIC (2) — Jan Crook, Cynthia McAlpine; OAK BAY (0).

SANDPIPERS (5) — Gill Hawkins 3, Sarah Angus, Sue Taylor; REBELS (0).

SECOND DIVISION

SAILORS (7) — Jill McKay 3, Linda Shiplack, Wendy Page, Lesley Walker, Mary Ann Wiggins; REBELS RED (1) — Stephanie Mudie.

EVERGREENS (1) — Janet Ruest; Hobbits (0).

REBELS GOLD over CASTAWAYS by default.

A Double Victory

University of Victoria Vikings won both ends of a Canada West University Athletic Association men's volleyball exhibition doubleheader Sunday against the visiting University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

Vikings collected a 16-14, 15-13, 15-12 decision in the opening tussle and chalked up a 15-12, 15-9, 15-5 victory in the second game.

Vikings face Canadian club champion B.C. Olympics of Vancouver in another exhibition doubleheader at 1 and 3:30 p.m. this coming Sunday in the McKinnon Building.

SANDOWN

SANDOWN WINNERS

After a five year lay-off racing returned to Sandown in 1975. The top horse that year was the five-year-old Coulea Sage owned by C. B. Scott. A stakes winner in his earlier years, the brown gelding won the Colonist handicap by two lengths, then repeated in the championship winning the major race of the Sandown meet.

In 1976 there were two great three year olds racing at the local oval. Jack Guest's Willies Revenge won the opening feature by five lengths carrying top weight of 129 lbs. He was assigned a staggering 133 lbs. for the Vancouver Island derby and was able to defeat Major Hike by one length. The latter horse, owned by the then vice-president of the Capital City Turf Club, was much the best of the fillies and mares. After a very successful Exhibition Park campaign the bay filly won the Times Handicap and was a most convincing winner in the Vancouver Island Championship. Jack Short the track announcer called his final race of his career that year when Prince Richard in a large upset won the closing day marathon.

The top horse in 1977 was the Russ Bennet-owned chestnut colt Rusty Scupper. Carrying 125 lbs. he easily won the speed handicap and the Championship. The consistant five-year-old gelding Pickle Pie owned by Derek Green of the C.C.T.C. upset Rusty Scupper and Major Hike in the Colonist Handicap winning by two lengths.

Victoria Owners Dominate B.C. Racing Scene

Victoria and Island owners, breeders and trainers have had a big year in 1978 in thoroughbred circles.

The Jawl brothers have led the assault with their aces, Smiley's Dream and Five Star General, and the handy Silent Code.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross saw their B.C. bred Two Bowls of Rice win or come in nearly a dozen handicaps, and what they or the Jawls did not win, was gathered in by Neil De Macedos' classy and speedy First Purchase. Herb Doman's Right Chilly proved the best or close to it in the three-year-old distaff ranks.

But the locals did more than just dominate the handicaps. Newcomers Don Emery, Bob and Mike O'Connor, and John Hunter have parlayed the success of Earl of Bon to a barn which now includes Appenglow and Local Boy. The Lindsay brothers will aim their speedy Hustling Annie and Magic Tartan at the Sandown purses. Pickle Pie has continued his winning ways for Derek Green who also has a useful three-year-old in Antonio Sanchez. George Harknett has had his wins, though fewer than usual from Devil Darren and Devilry, and Pam Bowman and Nonie Harknett have had some success with Ole Par.

Bill and Cindy Olson and Gus Frigstad are expected to be prominent at Sandown with That's the Key, Anthony G and Gold Girl and Ray Turcott and Karl Sager and the girls with Orlies Jet, Nicola, Captain, Ticket Count and Rosie de Rivetter. Bob Steele has had more than the usual season with his improving Parkland Prince and Dave Ross has done well with Polatouche and Mister Northwoods.

Another local with a successful season is Pete Gregory with Nib Bill, Weeflar and, particularly, The Lady is a Tramp. Bert and Bett Saniger will be looking forward to Sandown with Nobhill Lady, and particularly, the much improved Devil Darren. Roy Jewell will have Sandown favourites Uncle and the game old grey Chief Tomao, and with partner Ernie McMinn, the speedy Gun Music.

Owner-trainer Tony Pankhurst is back in business with Purging and Count the Pearls.

Henry Lee, at the time of this writing, is still a bridesmaid with Prince Richard, Lee Craig Seven and Contreau's Prince. What A Rock still remains a maiden for Dave Bowman, although he has been close several times and the same applies to Ray Bryant's Just a Streakin. Ann and Walt Norbury have had good success with JaiALiai.

Fraser McColl has bought four horses this year, 2-year-olds Kapakaki and Mon Petitie Chaux and older horses Commonchero and Vitrolino. The latter horse will run at Sandown.

While the number of owners from the Island has continued to grow, so has the interest in the breeding industry. The Jawls' new plantation, off Hunt Road in Saanich, supports some well bred weanlings and yearlings and with the new B.C. Breeders' bonus about to be unleashed, and the usual Jawl input, their farm is destined to be a showplace and a breeding ranch of high rank.

Other new ranches have come into existence in 1978, with Derek Green's Green Acres, the Harknett's Georgwyn Farm overlooking Elk Lake, complete with pool and all amenities, and Ed Popham's Small Oaks Farm on Old West. These are additions to the breeding farms already in full swing, operated by Hershell Smith, Gerry Milburn, Jane Buie and a host of other ranches.

With the price of yearlings skyrocketing at the fashionable sales held at E. P. Taylor's Winfield Farm and those at Saratoga, Keenland and California, the only real hope of the local industry is to breed and create their own stars. It is also believed that an abundance of thoroughbreds is the real key to earlier racing dates for Sandown so that both Exhibition Park and the local track could operate at the same time and both with an abundant horse supply.

It is apparent the local and Island thoroughbred people are not only enjoying the excitement of participation but also are keeping an eye on the future of this growing sport fascination.

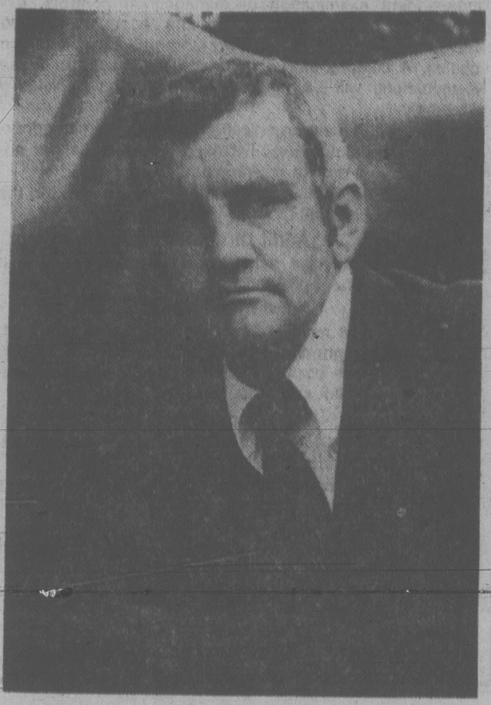
17 EXCITING DAYS OF THOROUGHBRED RACING



The President's Message

It is with pleasure that the directors of the Capital City Turf club and myself welcome you to our Fourth Thoroughbred Meeting at Sandown Park.

We will endeavour to provide you with the best of thoroughbred horse racing for your racing pleasure. Hopefully the weatherman will co-operate.

Considerable work has been done to the race track and I am of the opinion that our track this year will be better than ever.

I hope you enjoy our fall meeting as much as the Capital City Turf club enjoys providing you with this entertainment facility.

Have a good time, Good Luck.

Yours Sincerely,
G. W. Harknett
President

The man who shoulders the most responsibility at Sandown is the Director of racing, Aubrey Davies, who also doubles as Racing Secretary. No one could be more suited for the job as Davies has 25 years of first-hand knowledge of almost every aspect of a race track. In his time he has worked in the starting gate loading horses, cleaned up the grandstand with another person at a salary of $25.00 for the two of them, has worked as Track Superintendant, sold Mutuel tickets, been a Patrol Judge and for many years an assistant Racing Secretary. "I don't think there is anything I haven't done on a race track," said Davies.

"My job today consists of putting races together to create an entertaining program. I try to make the races as competitive as possible, keeping the horsemen, track operators and public happy. If they are all happy then my job is a happy one. If someone gets mad at me I'm right in the middle!"

Now It's On To Sandown

Times News Services

The Vancouver horse-racing season ended on a record note at Exhibition Park Saturday and the thoroughbred scene now switches to Sandown Park on Vancouver Island.

A 17-day meeting under the auspices of the Capital City Turf Club opens at Sandown on Wednesday.

Dewan And Only, headed briefly in the stretch by Skovinsky, came back steps before the wire at Ex-Park to win the $16,500-added Finale Handicap for three-year-olds and up on the final day of the 110-day season as attendance and mutuel records tumbled.

Saturday's attendance brought the total to 1,003,408 for the season—the first time it has topped a million;

The total mutuel handle was a record $96,301,132;

And the handle on the final race of the year, with its quinella, was a record $207,490.

The last day also produced a pari-mutuel handle of $1,393,357 which just missed the record of $1,434,326 set Sept. 4.

The Finale was restricted to horses which had not won a purse worth more than $6,000 this season and a condition that effectively eliminated earlier stakes winners.

Dewan And Only, ridden by Mike Clark, prompted the pace of Moonbird for the early going and then took over down the backstretch, opening up a two-length lead before shading Skovinsky at the wire.

Racing at Sandown will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays with the parade to the post at 1 p.m. on weekdays and 12.30 p.m. on Saturdays and holidays.

Esquimalt Impressive

SURREY — Esquimalt volleyballers captured a first and a fourth in the annual Queen Elizabeth High School invitational volleyball tournament here Saturday.

The Esquimalt boys' team defeated defending provincial champion Mission, 7-15, 15-8, 15-6, in the final, while the Esquimalt girls bowed to Queen Elizabeth, 15-3, 15-12, in the fight for third-place.

Issaquah, Wash., finished third; Queen Elizabeth, fourth; Sequeam of Delta, fifth; and Princess Margaret, sixth, in the boys division.

Mission took top honors in the girls' section, defeating Georges Vanier of Courtenay, 15-5, 15-11 in the final. Princess Margaret was fifth and Bellingham sixth.

Andy Jarisz of Esquimalt was selected to the boys' all-star team and Monica Woods of Esquimalt and Karen Durrant of Vanier to the girls' team.

Scott, Smith Easy Winners

VANCOUVER — University of Victoria runners scored a double in the Pacific Northwest cross-country championships at Jericho Park, Saturday.

John Smith captured the men's open race over 5.25 miles in the time of 26:22. Greg Saxon of UBC was second in 26:57 and Randy Cox of UVic third in 26:59.

Debbie Scott took the women's open division over 3.5 miles with a time of 18:22.4. Jessie Smith of UBC was second in 19:36.

Overskate Takes Invitational 'Cap

TORONTO (CP) — Overskate, running as an entry with three other horses owned by Jack Stafford of King, Ont., defeated Knight's Turn by 2½ lengths Saturday to win the $75,000 Carlsberg Invitational at Woodbine race track.

Ridden by Robin Platts, the little chestnut covered the 1½-mile distance on a good track in 2:29 2-5 and returned $2.60, $2.10 and $2.10.

Knight's Turn, ridden by Johnny Bell, returned $3.30 and $2.10 while Dianne's Lady placed third in the 10-horse field and paid $2.10.

Overskate, who won two legs of Ontario's Triple Crown this year, the Breeders Stakes and the Prince of Wales Stakes, although Regal Embrace took the Queen's Plate, carried 127 pounds in earning $45,000 as the 1-to-5 favorite.

Regal and Royal Wins by a Neck

NEW YORK (AP) — Regal and Royal opened a two-length lead in the upper stretch and held on for a neck victory over longshot Squire Ambler in the $54,100 Jamaica Handicap at Belmont Park on Sunday.

The three-year-old Alsco Stable colt, ridden by Hamilton, Ont. native Jeff Fell, carried 116 pounds over the mile in 1:35 for his fifth consecutive victory of the year, but first in a stakes.

Alleged Retired

LONDON (Reuter) — Alleged, a four-year-old, Kentucky-bred colt which won the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe at Longchamp, France, for the second consecutive year on Oct. 1, is being retired to stud

SEATTLE SLEW BEATEN IN GREAT STRETCH DRIVE

Exceller Wins by Nose

NEW YORK (AP) — Exceller collared front-running Seattle Slew after straightening for home and then won a furious stretch duel over the 1977 horse of the year in the $321,800 Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park on Saturday.

Affirmed, this year's Triple Crown winner, finished fifth behind Great Contractor and One Cut Above and more than 18 lengths back of the winner.

Exceller, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, came from far off a sizzling pace on a muddy track in growing darkness to take the lead with about three-sixteenths of a mile left. He then opened up a half-length lead but Seattle Slew, ridden by Angel Cordero, battled back but he was a nose short at the wire.

Seattle Slew, Affirmed and Life's Hope ran as a team for the first half-mile in 45 1-5. Seattle Slew got to the end of the three quarters in 1:09 3-5 and completed the mile in 1:35 2-5. But at this point Shoemaker had Exceller in a drive and it turned out to be a victory drive. The final time for the 1½-mile distance was a stakes record 2:27 1-5.

Exceller, a five-year-old horse owned by Nelson Bunker Hunt, paid $9.60, $3 and $2.80 as he threw the battle for horse of the year wide open. Tayhill Stable's Seattle Slew, victor in the Marlboro Cup and the Woodward Stakes in his last two outings, returned $2.40 and $2.20 in suffering his second loss of the year.

Howard P. Wilson's Great Contractor, the winner of this race in 1976, paid $3.20 after finishing 14½ lengths behind Seattle Slew and a 4¾ lengths ahead of One Cut Above.

Louis Wolfson's Affirmed, ridden by Steve Cauthen, was a neck behind One Cut Above and two ahead of last-place Life's Hope.

Seattle Slew gave a crowd of 25,108 a thrill when he bolted through the gate before the start.

When the gate officially opened, Seattle Slew came out on top closely followed by Affirmed and Life's Hope. They ran that way two heads apart for the first half-mile when Slew put some daylight between himself and Affirmed as Life's Hope began to fade. At the end of the first mile, Seattle Slew was 2½ lengths ahead of Affirmed.

But on the turn Exceller began to fly and as they hit the quarter pole Shoemaker had him just a head behind Exceller. At this point Affirmed, who had won his first eight starts of the year and now has lost three straight, was through for the day.

When they straightened for home it was a two-horse race between Seattle Slew and Exceller and the crowd roared with every step of the muddy battle.

It was the sixth stakes' win this year for Exceller and the Kentucky-bred never has had a bigger one in any year.

The first-place money of $193,080 raised Exceller's earnings for the year to $789,790 and his career bankroll to $1,479,003, sending him into fifth place behind the retired Dahlia on the all-time money list. He is the richest horse in training.

Vic West Takes Lead As Cosmos Stop A's

Victoria West — thanks partly to Cosmopolitan Royals — took over top spot in the first division of the Vancouver Island Soccer League on Sunday.

Wests defeated Nanaimo United 4-2 at the Hub City while Royals downed formerly-unbeaten Victoria Athletics 2-1 at Topaz Park.

In other matches, Powell River Villas tripped Oak Bay 2-1 and Nanaimo City edged Duncan Selects 3-2 in Duncan.

Dan Henry gave Wests a 1-0 lead at half time with a goal at the 13-minute mark and then completed a hat trick by scoring after the break at 51 and 65 minutes. Rob Williams fired the final Vic West goal at 72 minutes before Rick Sage (87 minutes) and Brian Barraclough (89) replied for United.

Ray Telford, playing-coach of United, was taken to hospital and later released after getting knocked unconscious while going up for a header against West goalkeeper Jim de Goede.

Rudi Kuebler, who has scored all six Cosmo Royals' goals this season, set the winning pace with tallies at the six and 65-minute marks. Ian Bridge replied for Athletics at 25 minutes.

Brian Hollingsworth scored both Powell River goals at 25 and 60 minutes while John Nash countered for Oak Bay at 52 minutes.

Nanaimo City came from behind to top Selects. Doug Pearson of Nanaimo and Carey Cleaver of Duncan traded goals in the first half. Graham Gow gave the Selects a temporary lead at 53 minutes but Paul Butler scored the tying goal for Nanaimo four minutes later and Bob Pywell fired the winning goal at the 81-minute mark.

IT WAS BARRY'S TURN TO SMILE

It was awards night for the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association at the Empress Hotel Saturday and one of the unsung employees got the top honor.

Track photographer Barry Goodwin was named "Member of the Year".

Goodwin has been around, as the saying goes. He first became associated with Western Speedway in 1953. In the intervening time he has been a crew member, jalopy driver and, since 1957, the official track photographer.

John Oxley was named sportsman of the year and Ross Rocket, promoter of the year. Rocket was deeply involved with the 25th anniversary celebrations at the Langford track this year.

Superstock points champion Jim Caudwell was honored as the most popular driver in balloting by racing fans while Larry Pollard took the driver-of-the-year award. Pollard ended a two-year retirement to finish second in the superstock class.

Jim Giles was selected as rookie-of-the-year in the superstock division and Mike French rookie-of-the-year in stocks.

Best-looking stock car award went to Gord Stone while Ron Fleet took the same honor in superstocks and the best-looking crew came from Duncan and belonged to Ken Alexander.

Bob Carlson, crew chief for stocker Al Miller, was named the top mechanic.

"Isn't today Sunday?"

"No, but you're almost right. Guess again."

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

When today's deal was played in the Fifth World Pair Olympiad held in New Orleans this past June, Paul Soloway and Bobby Goldman of the United States came up with a good sacrifice against North-South's makable four-heart game contract. But North-South refused to sell out, and bid five hearts. Soloway and Goldman found the way to make their "push" pay dividends.

Neither side vulnerable.
West deals.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♡
Pass	2 ♠	3 ♣	3 ♠
4 ♣	4 ♡	5 ♣	5 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

At the five-club contract, East would probably have gone down one trick, doubled, for a loss of 100 points. Even if he had gone down two tricks, the loss of 300 points would have been less than the 420 points North-South would have scored had they been permitted to play the four-heart contract.

The defense against five hearts was perfect. Soloway opened the ace of spades, and at trick two he promptly led the nine of clubs! When Goldman won the trick with his jack, it didn't take him long to figure out that the only reason West had underled the A-K of clubs was because he wanted to ruff a spade lead. So, at trick three, East played a spade, which West ruffed for the setting trick.

It will be noted that if West had cashed the ace of clubs at trick two, declarer would have fulfilled his contract, for there would now be no way that West could get to trump a spade. So declarer's only losers would have been a spade and a club.

This deal was played 77 times, with Soloway and Goldman scoring 69 match points (their score was better than that of 69 of the pairs who played the deal). Had Soloway not underled the ace of clubs, thereby permitting the contract to be fulfilled, Soloway and Goldman would have scored only 20 match points out of a possible 77 (having a better score than 20) of the 77 pairs who played the deal). So "defense" paid a handsome profit.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Tuesday, October 17.
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Get financial house in order. Lunar position accents personal possessions, budget, income potential. Capricorn, Cancer persons figure prominently. Accept challenge of more responsibility. The finances will be added to the pot.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You're rid of burden. Green light flashes. Study Aries message. Your ways are winning and you could strike pay dirt. Be available for personal appearances. Efforts receive wider attention. Move ahead — now!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What was regarded as a detriment could become an asset. Leo, Aquarius persons figure prominently. You receive invitation to participate in "media project". You could be a spokesperson for club, organization.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You get what you want by following through on hunch. Give full rein to intuitive intellect. One who "pulls strings" will see things your way. Desire is fulfilled. You regain sense of direction. You'll overcome objections of older family member.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take charge, set pace, diversify, enlarge horizons. Promotion, added recognition could be a part of scenario. Gemini, Sagittarius persons are in picture. You'll have opportunity to demonstrate theories, beliefs. Stick to your convictions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Find ways to advertise, publish and distribute — get message across, product before people. You learn some spiritual-philosophical truths. Aquarius, Scorpio, Taurus individuals are part of scenario. You learn how to deal with rules, restrictions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Participate — take cold plunge, get into the process. Accent on mystery, hidden matters, financial transactions, money connected with special agreement, contract or alliance. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure in picture — and so does the number 5.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Home ties, marital status are spotlighted. Budget, purchases of luxury items command attention. Taurus, Libra individuals figure prominently. Do plenty of listening — detect hints, subtle nuances. Hold off on direct confrontations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Define terms, perfect techniques, give attention to basic services. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently. You gain insights — new ones — to those who depend on you. A pet may require special attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Study Libra message — you're in the game now and should try to win it. If single, you may find that a relationship has come to a point of "crucial" decision. Business associates, personal contacts are all intensified — and this applies whether married or single.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Find out about "funding". Means there is a way out of dilemma with helping hand. It's available. Make inquiries. Ask the right questions. Accent on solid structure, security, building, land, long-range view, a correction of past error.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Relative has bright idea, appears domineering, but you'll survive it. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. The message — or short trip — will achieve purpose. Stress creativity, originality, confidence and self-esteem.

IF OCTOBER 17TH IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are capable of organizing, creating, imprinting style, taking charge, being tender but tough. You are a professional where the arts and business are concerned. You are reasonable, but tend to detest amateurism. You respect amateurs, but hold in disdain those who claim to be professionals but fall into ability-category of amateurs. You meet exciting, creative people in December. You are finishing with a gloom cycle — and entering a time of productivity, fulfillment. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life.

"I see you've still got those two dogs," said Joe. "They must be pretty old."

Mike smiled. "Sure, but we all love them," he replied.

"Prince is twice as old as Spot was when Prince was three years older than Spot is. And Spot is two years older than half as old as Prince is."

How old were the dogs?

Aoki, Owen In Golf Final

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Who has heard of Isao Aoki outside his native Japan? And how many people know Simon Owen outside of New Zealand?

Yet while neither is a household name in North America, Aoki is match-play golfing champion of Japan and Owen is New Zealand's Professional Golfers' Association champion.

Just to prove the significance of those titles, the two men were to meet today in the final of the world match play golf championship—the richest head-to-head tournament in the world and worth nearly $60,000 to the winner and about $36,000 to the runner-up.

Both Aoki and Owen appeared at one time to be making runaways of their semi-final matches over the 6,969-yard, par-73 Wentworth course Sunday. Aoki was up by five lead on Ray Floyd of the United States, then had to fight hard to hang on for a 3-and-2 victory. Owen was up by three strokes against Australia's Graham Marsh, the defending champion, but also had to battle hard before winning 2 and 1.

Aoki, who speaks no English, carefully avoided any comment about the strain of the tournament. All he would say was that he was happy about having found a Japanese restaurant in London, 50 kilometres from here, to provide his favorite food.

Owen admitted the strain was something he hadn't experienced previously, especially after his semi-final match with Marsh, in which the Australian was pressing him on every shot coming home.

Aoki, with a string of 12 birdies Sunday, played impeccable golf against Floyd, but the American chipped away at the lead in the closing stages with four birdies—three in a row—in seven holes. But the comeback wasn't good enough to overcome two bad spots earlier in the day—first when Floyd had to concede two holes in succession, then when his putting faltered.

"I was beaten in the morning," Floyd said. "If it hadn't been for that early run of bad holes, I might have brought it off. This afternoon I was playing perfectly."

On his way to the final, Aoki beat American Lee Elder, 5 and 3, in the first round and South Africa's Gary Player, 2 and 1, in the quarter-finals. Owen beat Andy North, the U.S. Open champion, 5 and 4, in the first round and Severiano Ballesteros of Spain, 3 and 2, in the quarter-finals.

NELFORD CAPTURES UNDER-25 TITLE

NIMES, France (AP) — Jim Nelford of Vancouver won the world under-25 golf championship Sunday.

Nelford, 23, finished the competition with a final-round 69 for an eight-under-par 280 total.

Pat McGowan of the United States finished second at 283 with a fourth-round 71 and fellow American Bob Byman was third at 288. Mark McNulty of South Africa was fourth with 294.

Bertolaccini Wins by Two

DALLAS (AP) — Steady Silvia Bertolaccini nailed a five-foot birdie putt on the last hole Sunday to take a two-shot victory over Kathy Whitworth in the $75,000 Dallas Civitan Open at the Trophy Club golf course.

Bertolaccini, a Dallas resident by way of Argentina, finished at three-under-par 213 over the long, tree-lined course..

Whitworth bogied the final hole, but still picked up $7,500 for second place, pushing her career earnings over $800,000.

Bertolaccini earned $11,250 for her first LPGA victory.

Whitworth, director of golf at the par 72, 6,315-yard Trophy Club, said, "She made the shots and I made too many mistakes."

Sandra Palmer and Pat Meyers tied for third at 217.

Bolt a Winner

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Tommy Bolt, the 60-year-old American, shot a one-over-par 73 in the rain Sunday for a 219 total to win the Australian Seniors golf tournament.

Bolt finished one stroke ahead of another American, Joe Jiminez, who who shot a 71 Sunday to become the only player to break par in the final round.

Edmondson Wins

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Unseeded Mark Edmondson won the $50,000 South Pacific tennis tournament on Brisbane's grass courts today when he beat fellow Australian and No.2 seed John Alexander 6-4, 7-6 in a delayed final.

The final was to have been played Sunday, but was washed out by rain.

Evert Rallies To Win Title

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Chris Evert rebounded from a first-set defeat Saturday to take a 6-7, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Virginia Wade and win the $100,000 United States women's indoor tennis tournament.

Evert, in winning the 70th annual event for the first time, picked up $20,000 in first-place money and increased her 1978 earnings to $160,907.

Wade, relying on her strong serve and matching Evert with a superb backhand, took a 3-1 lead in the first set and won the tie-breaker 7-4. But Evert's long crossing shots took their toll on Wade, who appeared to tire in the final two sets.

Evert, 23, took command of the second set when Wade missed an easy slam shot to go ahead 3-2. Then the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native took 16 of the next 17 points, including 14 in a row, to win the set decisively.

Evert, the all-time women's leading money winner with nearly $1.8 million in career earnings, never trailed in the final set and went to match point in the final game before winning.

She holds a 28-6 lifetime advantage over the hard-hitting player from Britain.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (CP) — Canada's Davis Cup team lost a pair of singles matches and a doubles contest Saturday at an international Challenge Cup tennis tournament.

John Picken of Vancouver won the first set of his match against Humphrey Hose 6-4, but then dropped the next two, 6-2, 6-3, to his Venezuelan opponent. Greg Halder of Toronto lost a hard-fought 7-6, 7-6 meeting with Randy Crawford of the University of Texas.

Crawford and Texas teammate Mark Turpin also combined to defeat Halder and Richard Legendre of Quebec City, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, in a doubles match.

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) —.Hungary's Balazs Taroczy captured the men's singles title Sunday at the $175,000 Count of Godo tennis tournament by defeating Romania's Ilie Nastase in five sets.

Taroczy won 1-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 in a 3½-hour match before a crowd of 5,000 at the Royal Tennis Club.

Czechoslovakia's Hana Mandlikova won the women's singles by beating Italy's Sabina Simmonds 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

The tournament is part of the Grand Prix circuit.

These pieces begin as I reach that official great divide — 65 years — when you are supposed to sit on the sidelines and rock your way to oblivion.

Well, not this young fellow — and I hope you'll join me in ignoring traditional retirement routines.

Unless a person is sick unto death, I cannot for the life of me understand why they worry about what they are going to do when they retire — or now thay are retired.

"I have to retire," you'll hear them say. Why in the world do they put it that way? As soon as my employer ruled that I could hang up my running shoes without a pension penalty, I was out like a shot, eager to move on to new, more interesting, more stimulating activities of my own choosing.

HOLBROOK . . . eager at 65

So, join this senior in the pursuit of happiness — well, not just slap-happy happiness, but rather the kind of healthy contentment that comes from day after day of doing satisfying things.

Satisfaction. That's the key word. I don't care who you are or how you feel; unless you are completely incapacitated, there are any number of activities — both physical and mental — to bring you joy each new day.

If I had the time, I could spend the rest of my days trying to play the piano well. I'll bet that at some point in your life you've had some similar ambition. Well, kindle the flame again.

That "kindling the flame" bit brings me round to sex after sixty. That's one of the subjects we're going to cover. There is much to be recorded about the changing attitudes and the results of recent research on sex for seniors. Comments here will be backed by medical and other expertise.

I have canvassed experts in many areas of special interest to you, e.g. finances (income, investments, annuities, etc.), health, housing, legal matters, recreation, travel and lots more.

So, if what you hoped would be the golden years are turning into a period of little more than survival — as purchasing power of your dollar shrinks, prices skyrocket, and a noisy, careless, younger crowd tries to push you aside — don't be pushed.

Stay with this column every week and join me in promoting the well-being of those who are retired — or nearing retirement. There are lots of us.

I have a big, fat file about women and men over 65 — and 75 — and some over 85 — who are achieving great things — or lesser things in a big way.

Let's join the group.

Let's look on 65 as just a number — not a sentence. Don't let the rest of your life dribble down the drain. Don't stumble into retirement.

I call this column "The Fourth Quarter" because the first quarter of life is 1 to 20, the second 20 to 40, the third 40 to 60 and the fourth 60 to 80. If you make it past 80 — as many more now do — then you're into overtime.

And overtime can be the best part of the game.

Etiquette Counts on Picket Line

By JUDITH MARTIN
Washington Post

Miss Manners

Although Miss Manners is a great believer in fresh air and acting out one's beliefs, she cannot say that she is happy to see so many people out picketing these days. The weekly sums that unions are able to allow to members who engage in this activity do not seem to Miss Manners to be commensurate with the strenuousness of the job and the working conditions on most sidewalks.

It is for this reason that Miss Manners would especially urge consideration to picketers on the part of the public. This is not to suggest that the moral decision of whether to cross picket lines is a matter of etiquette. It is not, and therefore Miss Manners will remain silent on that subject. What she wishes to discuss is not respecting picket lines, but respecting picketers.

Miss Manners also expects picketers to treat the public with courtesy. So does the law, for that matter.

The conventions of picketing allow the striking workers to make known their views through ritualistic marching in an orderly oval pattern, the carrying of signs, and distributing of leaflets. Miss Manners expects them to observe the amenities by not making their signs obscene or forcing leaflets on those who do not wish to take them.

Proper dress for picketers is either outdoor apparel appropriate to the weather, or the working clothes of the profession that is striking. Miss Manners was glad to see Washington striking musicians wearing white tie, and was even willing to waive for the occasion the general rule about not wearing evening dress during the day.

In return, Miss Manners expects the public to remember the dignity of labor and not engage in undignified behavior toward its representatives. This means no shouting at them, no throwing of fruit or other objects, and no deliberate jostling. It also means that while one can decline to accept a leaflet, one may not take it and then visibly treat it with contempt, such as tearing it up or throwing it on the sidewalk.

Ideological differences are no excuse for rudeness.

Q: I have a wall in my dining room where I have each of my sons' graduation pictures. Under each picture I have that son's wedding picture, and under each of those, a picture of their children. Everyone thinks it is such a novel idea and how nice they look. Here is my problem. My oldest son was divorced. He has now remarried a woman with one boy. What do I do about them? I can't take down his first wife's picture since she is the mother of my grandchildren. She also still comes over here to visit with me, as do my grandchildren. His second wife and her boy also come over. How can I arrange something so as not to hurt her feelings, either? They are all 8-by-10 pictures.

A: Congratulations that your family collection has now moved into the now fashionable style known as eclectic. Miss Manners, who is very orderly, sympathizes with what has happened to your careful symmetry, but is afraid that people take precedence over wall decorations and one must face the fact that a great many families these days are eclectic.

Q. Please, sometime, offer some putdown for people who seek instant information from complete strangers who are going about their business and not bothering anyone. I seem to be the born victim of such people, who stop me on the street wanting to know the time (because I am wearing a highly unreliable watch) or where the Door Store is or when the shops open or, in the case of tourists (with cameras for identification as such), where one can get a good breakfast. This always seems a particularly stupid question to fire at an obvious resident (without a camera) who has to get up and make it herself for her family. Then there are the people who want to know why the plane is so late in arriving or departing, what they should do about their tickets (when you've obviously just arrived at the airport), then why the service is so slow, whether we're to get a meal before we get to Oshkosh, and so on. What's the best way to squash such people? They usually ask for directions when your arms are full of bundles so a blunt instrument isn't too practical.

A: Miss Manners is not in the business of disseminating "put-downs" for the purpose of humiliating problem-ridden strangers. It seems to Miss Manners that even with a bad watch and full arms, the quickest way to dispense with the problem is to say "Sorry — I don't know." May you never be lost in a strange city where everyone else is busy minding his own business.

The Good Life — Cheaply

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN
Washington Post

TOKYO — For Teiko Watanabe and many other young Japanese women like her, a modest salary and the good things in life are not incompatible.

A $575-a-month clerk in a Tokyo food shop, she loves to travel and buy new clothes. At least once a month, she manages a two- or three-day trip somewhere in Japan. Last summer she spent about a million yen — more than $5,000 — on a 15-day trip to Europe, travelling, eating and shopping her way through France, Italy and Britain.

Her shopping expenses are moderate, compared to other working women in her age group, but Watanabe estimates she still spends about $130 a month on clothes and accessories in Tokyo's department stores and shops.

She is typical of the young Japanese women who work in shops and offices and who are known, collectively, as "the office ladies." Their jobs usually are humdrum and their salaries modest, but altogether they make up one of Japan's richest consumer markets.

Airlines and travel agencies model sales campaigns to reach their pocketbooks. Department stores deliberately locate near their offices and stores. Magazine ads are tuned to their tastes and styles. They buy $400 Hanae Mori party dresses or polyester models for $150 and are a growing market for expensive fur coats.

The key is their unusually high disposable income and their penchant for disposing of it. Young, unmarried, often living with their parents, they are able to disburse without pain a large share of the money they earn.

"What they think is, 'Now is the time to travel because after marriage it is too late,'" says Katsumi Takeuchi, manager of research at Dentsu, Japan's largest advertising agency.

As a group, they are a curious anomaly in Japan, where a lot of work and very little play has been the rule ever since the end of the Second World War.

Unlike men of a similar age, they are not bound to a career ladder and are mainly out for a good time until they marry.

dear abby

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with up-dated figures:

Last year, 10,074 Americans perished and 33,400 civilians, plus 106,100 firemen, were seriously injured in 3,513,000 fires. In Canada, 829 deaths were caused by 69,651 fires.

A large percentage of the dead were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes."

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking
2. Electrical wiring
3. Heating and cooking equipment
4. Children playing with matches
5. Open flames and sparks
6. Flammable liquids
7. Suspected arson
8. Chimneys and flues
9. Lightning
10. Spontaneous ignition

The total fire loss last year was $6,064,000,000 in the U.S. and $503,894,438 in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may be damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rags in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for drycleaning indoors.

Never smoke in bed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 per cent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prudent and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

Some excellent smoke and fire-detection systems are available to homeowners. Shop around, and buy the one that suits your needs.

NOW, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use a stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so

Kitchen Can Be Compact and Airy

By PAULINE GRAVES

When kitchen and family room occupy one area, both seem larger and more airy. Also, the homemaker is not isolated when preparing meals. From a practical standpoint, a small kitchen is easier to work with than one that is large, because of the proximity of work areas to each other. A step from refrigerator to sink to stove has obvious advantages over racing around a large room. But the efficiency of compactness can result in being cramped when four walls enclose space. The family room-kitchen concept offers the best of both worlds.

The kitchen shown here is both compact and open, having the storage facilities of four walls without being totally enclosed. Because the counter travels around a corner opposite the solid walls, it defines the kitchen area and contains it in a corner. This L-shape design carves out a narrow space from the family room end, ideal for an intimate, casual dining spot or game table area, and where it turns the corner, separates family room from kitchen. The long part of the "L", an eight-foot stretch, houses the sink and dishwasher and is a work counter, and the foot of the "L", 64 inches long, functions both for snacks and as a serving counter. The 12-inch overhang makes for comfortable seating, even though there is room for only two place settings. However, this is ample considering the closeness of the nearby table. The counter ends four feet short of the opposite wall, for access between family and kitchen.

Photos Permanent

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian photographer Freeman Patterson says making a photograph is the act of giving permanence to something transient. "It's making sure the wild flowers will never go away," said the 40-year-old author of Photography for the Joy of It.

If you buy a canvas tote bag that isn't washable, it's not going to stay clean for long. For less than $1.50, you can spray on half a can of soil retardent to soak the fabric and protect it from stains so you can use it for more than a season's toting. (The other half of the can can be used on new canvas shoes or unwashable decorator cushions.)

You get twice as much use from a typewriter ribbon if you buy an all black one for your home typewriter. When one part of the ribbon no longer makes dark letters, reverse the ribbon spools so that the unused part runs through the ribbon feeders.

A good coat of wax on your outdoor steel furniture will protect the finish from bad weather and rust. Clean vinyl cushions with only soap and water, rinse and dry. Don't use chemicals on vinyl; they can melt the plastic.

Not enough cloth napkins of one color or design for all your party guests? Mix the different colors you have. Alternate colors and prints around the table or in a stack on the buffet. Mixing candle colors and sizes adds to your color-mixed table — and uses up candles you might not have used.

Did you know that: Bacon shrinks even more than usual if you cook it while it's still frozen? Fresh onions can be peeled, quartered and frozen for later cooking — chopping frozen onions is easier than chopping fresh ones? You can freeze small pan fish whole by packing them in milk cartons, filling the cartons with water so the water seals out air and seals in flavor?

How to Keep the Moisture Out wheels

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: Moisture forms on the inside of my 1967 Chevy's windshield and rear window. In wintertime, this moisture freezes. How can I prevent the moisture from forming? — WET

Dear Wet: Yours is a common problem in cars that have to sleep on the street or in open carports. Sometimes the fog inside these cars' windows is simply condensed ambient humidity; sometimes it's water that's leaked in through rust holes or around rubber seals. Either way, an effective cure is to get the desicant used inside the shipping crates of Japanese motorcycles. Many motorcycle dealers save these cotton bags of calcium oxide and give them away free; others charge a nominal fee.

Dear Mike: Why does the temperature gauge in my 1976 Aspen wig-wag between hot and cold after I drive 20-30 miles? The needle will move slowly but visibly back and forth across the gauge. I'm now on my fourth thermostat. I've put in a new temperature sending unit, a new radiator cap and have flushed the cooling system several times. — RUNNING HOT & COLD

Dear Running: Check your wiring from the sending unit to the gauge. Also check the gauge itself. I suspect the problem is electrical and has nothing to do with the temperature of your engine.

Dear Mike: I own a 1976 Camaro, which I bought new. It has the 305-cid V-8. I ran unleaded regular in the car until I had the engine tuned at 16,000 miles. Since that time, I get a very bad ping on unleaded regular. When I complained to the dealer who did the tune-up, he blamed the low-octane rating of my gasoline — said I should switch to unleaded premium. I did, but there's still a ping on steep grades. Ignition timing has been checked by three different mechanics, and it's right on spec. I find it hard to believe that the so-called "tuneup" didn't cause my ping problem — PINGING

Dear Ping: Sometimes you just have to forget factory tuneup specs and retard the timing slightly. Try one-degree increments until the ping stops (on unleaded regular).

Dear Mike: Our Dodge Colt, now two years old, has a slight shudder whenever we apply the brakes. Dealer is no help, although he always sends a bill. Would like to get this fixed once and for all. You advice? — SHUDDERING

Dear Shuddering: A brake rotor or drum must be slightly out of true. Let a good brake shop check. Truing is usually simple, fast and not very expensive.

Largest Scrabble Game?

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Four teams of two students each lugged cardboard tiles around what was billed as the world's largest Scrabble game.

The game, played on a 2,025-square-foot foam rubber board at the University of Massachusetts, included words such as Ka, an Egyptian god, and vixen, a Scrabble goodie because an "x" is worth eight points.

James Houle, a representative of Selchow-Righter Co., makers of the Scrabble boards, said the playing area was the largest ever used.

The tiles, each with a letter painted on it like an ordinary Scrabble chip, were 2-foot by 3-foot rectangles.

The board, 45 feet long on a side, was built of pink and blue squares by university freshman Stuart Calle, 18, of Greenwich, Conn.

THE WRONG MAN FREED

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — He looked right, gave the right answers and signed the right name. But embarrassed deputies soon realized they had released the wrong prisoner.

Officials at the Multnomah County booking facility said Saturday the mix-up occurred after a corrections officer asked that prisoner Wendell Raiford come to the control centre for release.

Corrections department officer Leonard Gebbie said that a man about the same height and weight as Raiford reported to the centre, "answered the right questions, gave a property receipt with Raiford's name, and signed a signature that looks a lot like Raiford's."

With that, the entrance gates swung open and Fred Trainor, 24, of Eugene, strolled out.

Trainor and Raiford had been held for a time in the same cell.

"We realized what happened when the other person started yelling that he was supposed to be let out," said Gebbie.

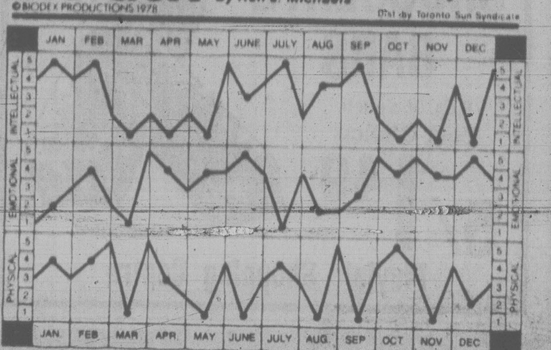
Bio-dex

for Oct. 17/78 By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

© BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:
Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Your scatterbrain thoughts could spell trouble if you don't change them now.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Don't load your problems on a friend unless you're sure of your facts.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	A boss or teacher will think better of your abilities in the very near future.

We often hurt ouselves by not speaking out when something is bothering us. Loved ones, be they parents, friends or lovers can often help make things much better if they know what is bugging you. Communication is what it's all about, and Bio-dex can help. Next time your levels are low, share yous feelings with others.

HE'S DEAD BUT DON'T PASS HIM

SHOREVIEW, Minn. (UPI) — They have a new variety of woodchuck in this suburb of Minneapolis-St. Paul. It's squashed flat, it has a yellow stripe painted on its back and it's dead.

A woman recently brought the dead woodchuck to city hall, muttering "Boy, is this city stupid. Boy, is this city dumb."

The animal apparently had been run over by a car and squashed flat. And a road crew never bothered to move it while they were painting a yellow line down the middle of the road.

nature down

nature's covering

now at special prices . . .

When you settle comfortably in for the night under your Nature Down Quilt, tiny pockets of air, trapped in the fibrils of down expand from the natural warmth of your body, keeping cold air out and warm air in. Conventional bedding allows warmth to escape and often shift right off you, right onto the floor. The natural Nature Down Quilt settles gently over you, stays in place, and gives you the most restful, refreshing sleep of your life! The down-filled quilt has been the universal bedcovering in Scandinavie and Europe for centuries. Now, this same quality quilt is being manufactured right here in Canada for Accent Shoppes. We insist on only the best of natural materials and the finest craftsmanship. Nature Down Quilts contain only new, selected and sanitized duck downs. The enclosure is 100% English cotton cambric, one of the most finely woven fabrics in the world. Twin, double, queen and king size quilts available in two combinations of down and feathers, or pure down, are waiting for you at the Accent Shoppes.

10 YR. GUARANTEE

especially for you!

our guarantee to you . . .

A down quilt is an investment and we treat it that way. We guarantee your Nature Down to be free from defect in craftsmanship or content for a period of 10 years. You can rest assured we stand behind this fine quality quilt.

Seven Reach Everest's Top

KATMANDU — Three West Germans, three Frenchmen and an Austrian have reached the summit of Mount Everest, the Nepalese tourism ministry announced Sunday.

The three West Germans — Hubert Hillmaier, 34, Josef Mack, 28, and 34-years-old Hans Engl — reached the 8,708-metre-high summit Saturday. The base camp said Engl made the climb without oxygen.

On Sunday, Pierre Mazeaud, 49, Jean Afanssief, 25, and Nicholas Jaeger, 32, became the first Frenchmen to conquer the peak. They were accompanied by photographer Kurt Diemberger, 46, of Salzburg, Austria.

Mazeaud is said to be the oldest person to complete the climb.

TUCSON, Ariz. — W. Eugene Smith, one of North America's top photojournalists, died Sunday of head injuries suffered in a fall at a grocery store.

Smith, 60, who worked for both Life and Newsweek magazines during a career that spanned 40 years, had been recovering from a stroke he suffered several months ago. He fell Saturday and died Sunday in a Tucson hospital.

He is widely remembered for an essay on Minamata disease, a crippler that struck residents of a Japanese fishing village downstream from a chemical plant. He was beaten by local thugs while working on that story.

NEW YORK — Newspaper heiress Patty Hearst says she will marry Bernard Shaw, a former San Francisco policeman who was her bodyguard, on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14.

In an interview in Sunday's New York Post, Miss Hearst, 24, said her fiance is "tall, fair-haired and handsome. He lifts weights, has a black belt in karate and he's fun to be with. My family really likes him."

RICHMOND, Va. — Actress Elizabeth Taylor is reported resting satisfactorily in Richmond Memorial Hospital while husband, Virginia U.S. Senate candidate John Warner, is back on the election campaign trail.

Miss Taylor choked on a chicken bone Thursday night and doctors put her in the hospital for treatment and observation. They are trying to determine whether the bone caused serious damage to her esophagus.

DURHAM, N.C. — The second of the infant Siamese twin girls who were separated by doctors at Duke Medical Centre last week died Sunday of heart failure, officials said.

Dr. Howard Filston said Tonya Bain died at 9:10 a.m., less than 24 hours after her sister Sonya died.

STOCKHOLM — The 1978 Nobel prize for economics was awarded today to professor Herbert A. Simon of Carnegie-Mellon University in the United States.

Simon, 62, was cited by the Swedish Academy of Sciences "for his pioneering research into the decision-making process within economic organizations."

Simon is the seventh U.S. citizen to win the economics prize in the 10 years it has been awarded.

COUNTRY music stars Bobbie Gentry and Jim Stafford were married Sunday in a private ceremony at their 120-acre estate.

Stafford, a singer and actor, is currently starring in his first movie.

Sid Vicious Says He Slept

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Punk rock star Sid Vicious, charged with the stabbing murder of his girl-friend, claims he slept through the entire incident, says a friend who visited him in jail Sunday.

The friend, British music reporter Joseph Stevens, said in a telephone interview the former member of the British group the Sex Pistols was "quite angry and convinced he's being railroaded."

Stevens, a writer for the London trade paper New Musical Express, said the 21-year-old bass guitarist believed his girl-friend, Nancy Spungen, 20, "either killed herself or was killed by an assailant."

Police say she died of a stomach wound.

Vicious, said Stevens, insisted he was sleeping when the stabbing took place in the couple's hotel room. Lawyers for Vicious have already said he will plead not guilty to the charge.

Police have said Vicious, whose real name is John Simon Richie, was under the influence of one or more drugs when arrested.

Stevens said Vicious "has access to newspapers and is quite angry at the reports that he confessed. He never confessed."

Prison officials said no special arrangements had been made for the musician, although one prisoners' aid worker said of the men in Rikers Island jail: "They are rough there and don't like punk rockers."

Vicious was arrested after Miss Spungen was found sprawled in a pool of blood in the bathroom of a room they shared at Manhattan's once-fashionable Chelsea Hotel.

Vicious rose to notoriety over the last three years on a wave of punk rock mania. The Sex Pistols treated their audiences to assaults of spitting and vomiting during wild stage performances.

READING AD PROFITABLE

UNION LAKE, Mich. (AP) — Shelia Flones is $180 richer simply because she took a bank advertisement at its word.

The ad offered $5 cash to anyone who brought in an attached coupon and opened a savings account.

But the ad was missing a statement limiting the number of accounts each person could open.

Ms. Flones, armed with all the coupons she could clip, opened 36 new accounts — each with a $1 deposit.

Moral Fitness Vital Too: Prince Philip

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, stressed the importance of both fitness and freedom in a speech near the end of a brief but busy visit to Winnipeg Sunday.

Speaking at a dinner that raised more than $100,000 for the St. Boniface General Hospital Research Foundation, the prince said he's come to recognize that mental, moral and community fitness are just as important as physical fitness in any true definition of health.

He defined mental fitness as the ability to think clearly, rationally and objectively and "to be capable of standing up to the clouds of rubbish which pollute the intellectual atmosphere."

Philip said moral fitness implies the ability to distinguish right from wrong as a personal conviction, rather than as the result of social convention or government legislation.

Finally, he said people are just starting to realize that communities can be healthy or sick in much the same way as individuals.

"We are beginning to understand that when mistakes are made in large-scale planning and macro-economics, the consequences show up as community sickness.'

Pilip said fitness by itself, without the opportunity to live in a free society, is somewhat akin to being ready to play ice hockey in the middle of the Sahara Desert.

And he complained about the apparent trend of government officials toward imposing their own standards on the rest of society.

"I don't believe that anyone could show conclusively that politicians, for example, have a significantly higher integrity rating than their constituents," he said to applause from the audience of about 3,000.

Philip was honored by the foundation for his support of exellence in a variety of activities, including his longterm interest in physical fitness.

The award carries a $20,000 honorarium, which is to be donated to the Duke of Edinburgh's Award in Canada.

CITY WATCHDOG REPORT 79A CONGRATULATIONS to the James Bay Residents who told council the Daon Development was too dense for their community and council rejected the proposal. Your City's Watchdog is puzzled as to why a radio technicain at $2005.00 is needed to service city-police radios when Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt appear to be saving their taxpayers thousands of dollars by contracting out the servicing of their radio equipment. Aldermen Robin Blencoe and Bill McElroy were responsible for a twenty minute question period before each city council meeting, but now Alderman McElroy is starting to think the question period is being abused. Your City's Watchdog notes that over the past 2 or 3 question periods on the average only 7 or 8 minutes have been used and cannot see how this is abusing the question period. Regarding the Aldermen who live in Oak Bay that voted on another Imperial Self-Service station at Hillside and Douglas, it appears to Your Watchdog that there is not one self-service station in Oak Bay. Then why add another in nsVictoria. Please continue to phone Your City's Watchdog C. Joe Richards, 383-6259. Postcript: It was a pleasure to meet the Ross girls, Missy, Kristin and Lindsay at the Empress Hotel, Good Times 79 presentation.

ACTIVE MID-ISLAND MAN late forties non-smoker, light drinker loves hiking, camping, hunting, all outdoor activities. Also enjoys travel, dining, dancing the good things in life. Steady income, own home, no ties, wishes to meet attractive, intelligent, somewhat adventuresome woman to participate in meaningful and lasting relationship. Victora Press Box 334.

"FAIRBRIDGE" A Village In the Country

An unbelievably peaceful and beautiful subdivision of 76 acres which includes 22 acres of fields and parkland for private enjoyment. This unique and one of a kind subdivision consists of 39 strata lots, no lot being less than ½ acre. Now available are 6 single family, 2 and 4 bedroom homes from $49,000 to $69,000. Also, 20 lots ranging in price from $22,500 to $25,500. The subdivision is served by a paved private road, overhead street lighting with water and sewer services laid on to each lot. The private fields particularly would be of great interest to lovers of horses. The subdivision is surrounded by rich farmland and is located 2½ miles south of Duncan at 4741 Koksilah Rd. Driving time to Victoria is approx. 40 minutes. Simply to visit Fairbridge can be a deeply satisfying experience.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

JOHN MCGREGOR AND HIS family, wish to express a sincere thank you to the relatives and friends who sent cards and flowers in memory of his beloved wife and their mother Edith.

309 IN MEMORIAM

THORNETT-In loving memory of our beloved father and mother, Phil and Kate Thornett, who passed away, Oct 14, '53, Oct 20th, '77.
They had a nature you could not help loving,
Hearts purer than gold, and to those who new them and loved them,
Their memory will never grow old.
Always loved and remembered by daughters, Kay, Flo, Elsie and families.

TAPPING — In loving memory of my dear father Charles Tapping, who passed away October 16, 1967.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Daughter, Winnie.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUTE, SANDS

Ferns Not Fazed By Northern Light

GARDENING
hilda beastall

Ferns, as houseplants are a useful group to consider when the plant lover is limited to a north, northeast or northwest window. This situation is common today in Victoria with increasing use of apartments and condominiums.

Fortunately, perhaps, for us North Americans, European cities have coped with this situation for more than a century. Many of the people were, and still are, as keen about plants in the home as we are today.

We note in old paintings, drawings and faded photos, the "parlor-palm" or Aspidistra, a palm or two or perhaps a fern. These were introduced into Europe around 1870 by seeds brought on ships sailing to Australia and the adjacent islands by a doctor-botanist, often part of the crew on larger vessels at that time.

Nurserymen soon found that these could be grown into new decorative plants for homes of the rich and near-rich who craved such amenities.

Ferns are the much older type of plant, low on the evolution scale, since they rate not far above the lowly lichens and mosses. As plants for indoors, they rank high, for they adapt to varying conditions if given half a chance.

Leaf form may be lacy, or, as we say, "fern-like", but it may also be bold and solid. Sizes vary from those unfit for window gardens, but perfect in large entrance halls, to those miniatures adaptable for tiny terrariums or miniature greenhouses in a window nook.

Ferns will grow in the low window light of a northern exposure (or near-north) since many of the available and suitable forms are native to shady locations.

At the same time, nearly every fern requires a moist or humid atmosphere. The common practice of keeping ferns in soaking wet soil is not the answer.

Soil can become almost dust dry, yet the plant will thrive if the air around it has a humidity level of 50 per cent or more. Notice the outdoor ferns in our local parks or in our own gardens.

In the normally dry, rainless summers, the native fern fronds disappear; without artificial application of water, there is no sign of them until a late summer or early fall shower activated the growth tips of the rhizomes, which are normally at ground level.

It is not the amount of rain that does this trick, but the fact that shower conditions raise the air humidity level.

Linked to these general growing conditions is the fact that ferns in pots do not rely on applications of fertilizer for health, but on a constant level of moisture in the surrounding air.

In a window garden of ferns, it is possible to create a suitable environment by placing the pots in a moisture-proof tray or dish.

Today there are plenty of plastic containers for this purpose, but remember, these become coated with a film of moisture on the outside at room temperature, making it necessary to prevent direct contact with the sill or table surface, unless it is known to be moisture-resistant, as much furniture is today.

The usual layer of small pebbles in the tray keeps the bottom of the plant pots from reaching the constant water level among the pebbles. This must be checked frequently, for evaporation is rapid in the dry air of the winter home.

Add to the air humidity around the plants by placing a layer of green woods moss, or purchased sphagnum moss from the florist, on top of the pebbles. This will give a greater surface of moisture for evaporation. Stand the pots with their bases worked slightly into the moss.

This sort of treatment for ferns is pleasant to look at, good for the ferns and good for the indoor gardener, for we know that dry winter heating in the home is not really suited to northern latitude life.

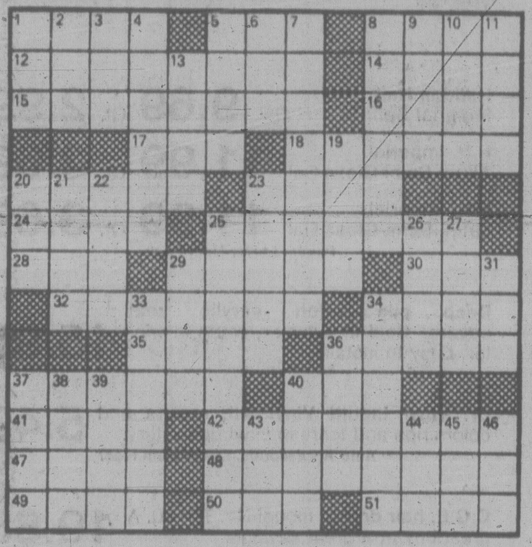
Answer to Friday's puzzle.



EGG-DONOR CLINIC IN CHICAGO SLATED

BOSTON (AP) — A Chicago doctor says he will artificially implant in a sterile woman an egg fertilized with her husband's sperm in the womb of another woman.

Dr. Randolph Seed, a professor at Northwestern University Medical School, said he plans to open a fertility clinic, where the first human pregnancy by the new technique would be accomplished within six months.

Seed outlined the procedure in a speech before the U.S. Ethics Advisory Board, which held a hearing in Boston on test tube babies.

His technique provides for a woman anonymously to donate her egg, fertilized by artificial insemination, to a childless couple.

The method, called artificial embryonation, requires no surgery, and Seed said the egg donor and the mother-to-be never meet.

He said it has been made possible by the development of a flushing technique which allows the non-surgical removal of a fertilized egg from a newly pregnant woman.

Put a TRS-80 to work for you

TRS-80 Microcomputer LEVEL I BASIC

The TRS-80 microcomputer is small enough to sit on the corner of your desk...efficient enough to manage your personal finances, keep a running inventory of your groceries, teach math and music theory, help your children with schoolwork, computerize financial accounting systems, do payroll, inventory control and tax records. All this and much, much more. You can even use it to play games like backgammon and blackjack.

And the beauty of our TRS-80 is that it's affordable to people who have never dreamed of owning a computer before ... no shipping or installation charges either; just pick it up at your nearby Radio Shack Store, take it out of the box, plug it in and it's ready to go.

The TRS-80 plays games...but it is not a toy. It has the memory capacity and performance functions of a computer that a few years ago sold for many, many thousands of dollars.

It's brain is a Z-80 microprocessor chip...one of the most technically advanced and most powerful on the market. You talk to it in a language called BASIC (Beginner's All-Purpose Symbolic Instruction Code)...easy to learn and easy to use. Our manual is frequently referred to as one of the most understandable and easy-to-follow computer manuals ever written. Even grade school children can program our TRS-80 at their own level. As a matter of fact, most youngsters love to use this microcomputer.

With Level-1 you may create your own programs through the keyboard by using our simple, step-by-step 232 page manual. You can pre-programme cassettes through the recorder/player or you may hire a computer programmer to tailor-make programs to your needs.

Level-1 is powerful enough to accomodate many uses in home, school, lab or business.

LEVEL I SYSTEM

Includes: computer with power supply and built-in keyboard.

Level-II BASIC

Level-II is an enhaneed, more powerful version of BASIC. The additional storage allows Level-II to include many more beneficial functions which are needed in engineering, clinical laboratories, businesses, etc. Even the home computer hobbyist may find the more versatile Level-II a desirable alternative to the Level-I system.

Find out more about Level-II from your Radio Shack Store manager.

Level-II with 4K RAM	$1098.00
Level-II with 16K RAM	$1547.00

12 good reasons for stepping up to Level-II

1 EDITING FEATURE. If you make an error, you don't have to retype the whole line. This feature allows you to delete, change or insert characters.

2 16-DIGIT ACCURACY. Scientists, accountants and statisticians will appreciate this. Sixteen significant digits, either side of the decimal place.

3 FORMATTED PRINT. You can easily program our Level-II TRS-80 to print on the screen (or one of our line printers) exactly what you want: dollars and cents, rounded numbers, floating dollar sign, even perfect columnar alignment.

4 ERROR TRAPPING. This feature doesn't just provide an error message; it enables you to make your programs 'user-proof'.

5 DE-BUGGING SIMPLIFIED. Our Level-II BASIC has a 'TRACE' function which will print on the screen every line number as it is being executed. Enables a programmer to check out his program logic.

6 FASTER RATE TRANSFER. Doubles the Level-I rate, at 500 bauds (bits per second).

7 NAMED PROGRAM CASSETTE FILES. You can easily store and locate several programs on the same cassette by use of special program commands.

8 CASSETTE VERIFICATION. A special command compares the program in memory with the actual recording...bit for bit. Extra insurance against a defective tape.

9 CASSETTE OBJECT FILES. The 'SYSTEM' command loads programs in object form from cassette tape. User-specified entry points.

10 MULTI STRING FUNCTIONS. Shift left, shift right, or pluck the middle out of any sequence of characters. Alphanumeric strings up to 255 characters. Multi-dimensional string arrays.

11 KEYBOARD ROLL-OVER. Type as fast as you like without losing a single character.

12 INTEGER ARITHMETIC. You can declare certain numbers (any number up to plus or minus 32,767) as integers. Takes up half the space and executes twice as fast.

*ROM – (Read Only Memory) contains the constant, unalterable instruction set.
*RAM – is Random Access Memory, which you may use again and again by programming and withdrawing data whenever you choose.
* K – represents thousands: 4K bytes represent over 4 thousand eight-bit bytes (4096 to be more accurate).

95th YEAR, No. 107 ★ ★ ★

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, MONDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1978 ★★★

15 CENTS DAILY, 30 CENTS SATURDAY

WE'RE STILL OUT OF PUFF

Hey! We made it through the weekend! That means we haven't had a cigarette since midnight last Tuesday!

We — the Times newsroom employees who declared publicly they're quitting smoking in conjunction with Dave Cotter's excellent series on how to kick the nicotine habit — are beginning to believe we really can make it all the way.

None of us has so far sneaked even a puff and we really hope that all you folk out there who've joined the quit campaign are remaining steadfast too.

The fact we've managed to tough it out over a weekend at home, with no work or peer pressure to keep us honest, shows it can be done.

Meanwhile, more and more people are writing in to say they're joining our quit campaign.

Janny Patterson, of 3287 Quadra, told us she quit cigarettes in April for four months and started up again in August. She later quit for another two weeks and again weakened.

"This time I quit, damn it !" Janny wrote.

Mrs. Kay Longbottom wrote in to offer her husband Arthur as a quit candidate.

"I'd like you to print my husband's name — not to put him on the spot — but to let him know how pleased and proud his family is of him (for quitting)," she wrote.

The latest quitters:

Fernie Guilbault, 1097 Maple Road, Sidney.

Mrs. R.G. Lemieux, 7874 West Coast Road, Sooke.

Sandra Luckhurst, 836 Blakeney Place, Victoria.

Arlee and Audrey Malkewich, of 937 Mesher Place, Victoria.

Laura Shannon, ("I waited so long before sending it because it's such as final commitment,") of 746 Selkirk Avenue.

Jayne Russell and Janice Wilson, of 3107 Harriet Road, Victoria.

Fred and Cindy, of 3084 Metchosin Road, also quit and announced "not only will we be healthier, we have an extra $4 a day !!!"

Then there was the little note from Ellen and Terry Romance, of 975 Fairfield.

"You're right regarding the poor concentration as a symptom of withdrawal from smoking. It took 10 minutes to write this," said their quit note.

Fay Pelmore, of 3987 Gordon Head Road, dropped a line to say she was quitting and added: "Thanks for being so convincing."

Carol and Cliff King, who live at 176 Virago, said they too are quitting and J.E. Warren, of 1111 Darcy Lane, somewhat ruefully joined the quit campaign with the words "poor old J.E. finally quits."

Pangs Ease On Day Six

"If all boys could be made to know that with every breath of cigarette smoke they inhale imbecility and exhale manhood . . . it ought to deter them some." — Hudson Maxim

This is your sixth day. You're better equipped to enjoy it because in a mere week you've noticed: Reduction or disappearance of your cough, awakening of your taste buds and your sense of smell, greater ease in breathing, improved circulation.

These should somewhat offset your withdrawal pangs. Remember to remember the real taste and smell and danger of what you've renounced.

This week you must beware of excessive cockiness. Having survived a hard week, you may wish to show your contempt for the habit by taking one small puff. You may just want to see what it tastes like or to prove you can do it. Don't. It's a trick. Table all discussion. Remember your key phrase and focus on your image. Review your list and add these facts to it:

> Research indicates that traffic accidents are four times as frequent for drivers who smoke.
> Cancer of the larnyx is six times as frequent and cancer of the esophagus four times as frequent in male cigarette smokers between 45 and 64 years old.
> Smokers are sick in bed nearly 88 million more days each year than non-smokers.

This week let's examine an interesting paradox and in doing so broaden our strategy.

Most how-to-stop books advise the quitter to use mouthwash frequently and to take extra care to be physically clean. Trips and new clothes are also advised.

The advice is sensible. It is important to cultivate right off a positive physical self-image. It is useful reinforcement.

Mouthwash and mints are useful for more than keeping the breath sweet. They leave a tingling sensation in the throat which helps stifle the urge to smoke. Try some.

What it is that sparks the hunger for trips and new clothes that most new quitters feel?

It works like this: The smoker is unaware of the extent his senses have been deadened. Suddenly he quits and the very act of breathing is like a blast of spring air after a week in a steambath.

I recall the pleasure I took in eating new foods and walking new streets and meeting new people.

Change was in the air and the world seemed new. I bought new clothes, got a new apartment, visited new places.

Soon enough, however, this led to high anxiety.

Why hadn't [illegible] sooner?

Consider a new city or a new job. But be cautious and take time for reflection.

The hunger for new things may simply be a healthy reaction to withdrawal. Or it may be rooted in a hunger for some more basic changes in your life.

Whichever, be thankful for the insight and don't regret the past. Even the wisest fall into ruts.

The difference is, they move on. Regard any hunger for change as an added bonus. If you hadn't quit you might never have known.

But remember: Give time time. Don't be pushed or depressed into trying to change too much at once. The tension will only make you want to you-know-what.

Think about change for the rest of this week. Next week you'll see how you can profit from the hunger and how you can tell whether change is needed.

And if the struggle gets to you this week, relax and endure it. Ask yourself this question: Would you like to go through this again? Give it one more Monday.

RAIDS SNIP HEROIN CONNECTION

CALGARY (CP) — RCMP said Sunday the arrest of seven persons and the seizure of 2½ pounds of heroin destroyed one of the largest heroin organizations operating in Western Canada in recent years.

Seizure of the heroin, with an estimated street value of $6.4 milllion, and the arrests were made when 60 RCMP officers conducted simultaneous raids in Edmonton, Calgary, Banff, Alta., and Vancouver.

Pole Chosen as New Pope

Times News Services

VATICAN CITY — Polish Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, 58, was elected the first non-Italian pope in 455 years today and took the name John Paul II.

He is one the youngest popes of modern times.

The last non-Italian pope was a Dutchman, Adrian VI, who died in 1523.

As soon as Vatican Radio announced a pope had been chosen, people began filling St. Peter's Square to await the new pontiff to make his traditional appearance at the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica to bless the crowd.

The new pontiff succeeds Pope John Paul I, who died Sept. 28.

Cardinal Wojtyla, archbishop of Krakow, is the 263rd successor to the throne of St. Peter.

White smoke, the traditional signal that a new pontiff is chosen, billowed into the night from the Sistine Chapel at 6:18 p.m. local time (10:18 a.m. PDT). "It is official, the Pope is elected," the Vatican radio said.

John Paul II

The 111 cardinal-electors made their decision on the second day of voting in their secret Sistine Chapel conclave. It came on what was apparently the seventh or eighth ballot.

Some time after the smoke appeared, the windows of the sealed-off conclave area burst open and dozens of prelates waving white handkerchiefs stepped out to the applause of about 50,000 persons in St. Peter's Square.

All eyes in the square remained glued to St. Peter's Basilica as crowds gathered for the announcement of the name of the new pontiff.

The new Pope, born in Wadowice, Poland, on May 18, 1920, was elevated to cardinal by Pope Paul VI eleven years ago and is a member of several Vatican congregations.

He was born the son of a chemical factory worker and has a good working relationship with the Communist government of Poland.

CUPW Playing A Waiting Game

Representatives of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers met again with Acting Labor Minister Andre Ouellet in Ottawa today prior to announcing a decision on a national strike.

While the talks continued inside postal workers at nine centres remained off the job.

CUPW president Jean-Claude Parrot said the 23,000-member union would wait until after the Ouellet meeting before deciding whether to have a country-wide walkout.

Parrot said members of the 23,000-member union voted 78.5 per cent in favor of strike action to back contract demands.

The national union executive board met during the weekend to decide whether to accept a new proposal for mediating the dispute or to call a national strike.

Postmaster-General Gilles LaMontagne on Friday threatened to introduce a bill ordering union members already on strike back to work and prohibiting other locals from going out.

In Toronto on Sunday, Parrot said the union will defy the legislation if it imposes terms undercutting existing contract conditions.

"I intend to come out publicly and ask you to disobey the law," Parrot told postal workers.

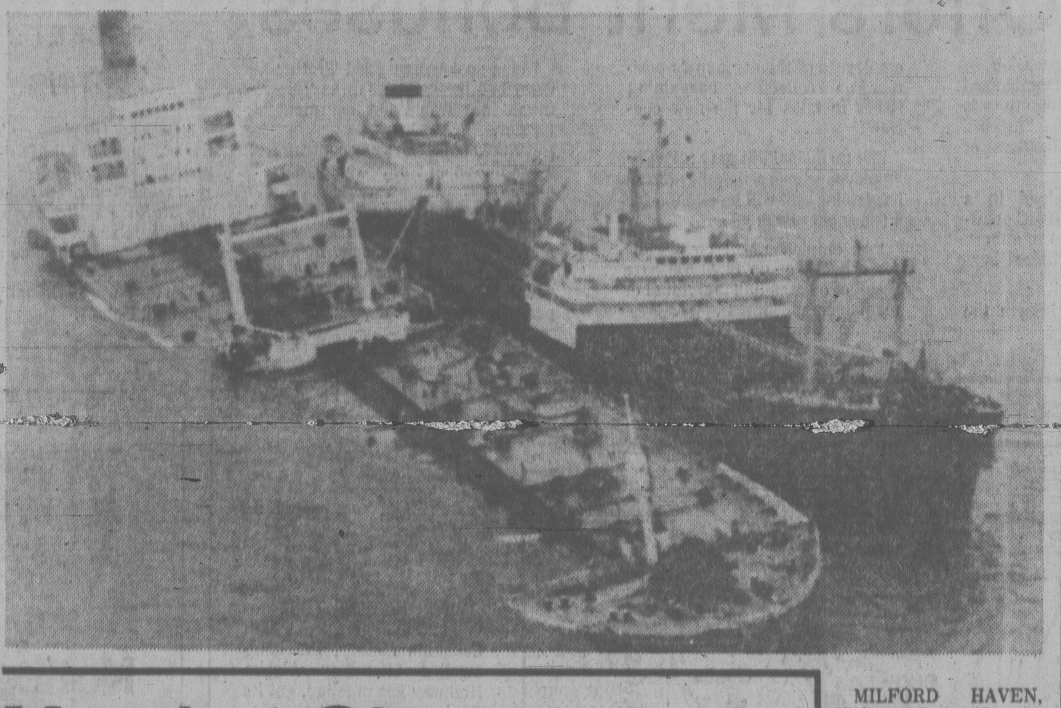
"It's not that I'd like to go to jail, but I can tell you now I would never recommend the membership to go back to work."

The government was to introduce the legislation in the House of Commons later today if the union decides to strike.

CUPW members in Montreal, Sherbrooke, Que., Halifax, Charlottetown, Summerside, P.E.I., the Ontario cities of Barrie, Sudbury, and Windsor and some members in Calgary are already out on strike.

Parrot said he cannot predict in advance how members will react to a back-to-work bill.

Despite Salvage Threat To Birds



MILFORD HAVEN, Wales (AP) — Despite clean-up operations, a million gallons of oil spilled from a Greek tanker off the Welsh coast is still a "major threat" to seabirds and to one of Europe's finest bird sanctuaries.

A flotilla of British ships sprayed detergents Sunday on a 16- by 9½-kilometre slick from the listing Greek tanker Christos Ritas.

High winds caused some patches of oil to break away.

The 58,829-ton tanker was gashed while on its way to Belfast from Rotterdam. The British trade department has begun an investigation into how the Piraeus-registered ship strayed so close to land and then waited many hours before sending out a distress calls.

Murder Charge Laid In Girl's Stabbing

A young Victoria man appeared in provincial court today charged with first degree murder in the stabbing death of 18-year-old Susan Marie Calve.

The girl's nude body was found Saturday evening behind the Cedar Hill Community Centre.

Sidney Blair Rhodes, 21, of 1629 Burton Ave., entered no plea and was remanded one week to set a date for a preliminary hearing.

Police are still searching for the murder weapon and today issued a plea to the public to help locate an open-bladed knife they believe was dropped in the area where Susan was killed.

Saanich police inspector Robin Stewart today praised the public for assistance given in the case and appealed for more help in finding the murder weapon.

Stewart said armed forces personnel carrying metal detectors have been combing the area where Susan was found but so far have come up with nothing.

"We feel someone may have picked that knife up," said Stewart.

He urged anyone who has found a knife in the area to immediately call Saanich detectives at 388-4321.

Stewart had high praise

THEY'RE ALL READY FOR THE BIG BANG

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — About 70 persons who believe the Soviet Union will launch a nuclear war this month have settled into a remote "doomsday city," complete with bunkers, to wait out the attack.

The fugitives paid $575 each for what they believe will be a chance at survival after a nuclear attack.

Their village and bunker complex, sustained by provisions intended to last for a year, was sponsored by 41-year-old Melbourne businessman John Strong, whose 1973 book, The Doomsday Globe, predicted an imminent nuclear attack.

Strong's calculations are founded on parts of the Bible and his own computations based on the size of the great pyramids in Egypt.

Crash Kills Three Men

Three Victoria-area men were killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding plunged off a gravel road bridge into a creek about one kilometre west of Youbou, a small community on the north shore of Cowichan Lake.

Dead are William John Webb, 31, of 3411 St. Matthew Road, Wayne Burnell Kirkham, 29, of 2450 Sooke Road and Peter William Isaacson, 32, of 841 Leslie Drive.

Lake Cowichan RCMP said all three were in the front seat of the 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo driven by Webb which crashed upside down, almost totally submerged in Cottonwood Creek, shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday.

A police spokesman said the car was apparently being driven too fast for the road conditions and went out of control while negotiating a sharp left-hand curve immediately before the bridge.

It struck the right bridge rail, bounced back and hurtled over the left bridge rail into the creek 16 feet below.

★ SPORTS ★

The New York Yankees mugged the Los Angeles Dodgers in Yankee Stadium, Los Angeles president Peter O'Malley was robbed in his downtown hotel and the Dodgers have gone home to more friendly Los Angeles for the sixth game of the baseball World Series. Yankees won Sunday 12-2 behind rookie pitcher Jim Beattie to take 3-2 series lead. Sixth game is Tuesday. Page 14.

Vancouver Canucks continue to be the early-season surprise of the National Hockey League. Canucks tied Chicago Black Hawks 3-3 on late goal by Pit Martin Sunday in Chicago and are unbeaten in three games. Page 14.

Edmonton Eskimos and Ottawa Rough Riders have sewn up first place in the Western and Eastern Conferences, respectively, of the Canadian Football League. The Eskimos downed Winnipeg and Ottawa edged Montreal while Calgary moved closer to Winnipeg with a win over Saskatchewan. Page 14.

In other sports, Vancouver's Jim Nelford has won the World under-25 golf championship. Page 23.

The thoroughbred horse racing season has ended in Vancouver on a record note of new attendance and mutuel totals with the horses now moving to Sandown Park, Sidney, beginning Wednesday. Page 20.

Banks' Rates To 11%

Times News Services

Canadian chartered banks today announced they were raising their prime lending rates to 11 per cent from 10¼ per cent.

The banks also increased the rate on non-chequing savings accounts to 8½ per cent, up three-quarters of one per cent, effective Nov. 1.

The move followed the increase Friday in the central bank rate to 10¼ from 9½.

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons today the increase in the bank rate aims at keeping capital in this country as well as attracting foreign money here.

Canadian interest rates are usually higher than those in the U.S. in order to attract foreign investment. But critics of the move said in the Commons the increase will also dampen domestic investment and hurt the economy.

The Canadian dollar gained against its American counterpart as currency markets opened today. In New York at noon, the dollar was up 7-50 at 84.66 cents U.S.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien announced today he will review the interest yield on this year's Canada Savings Bonds in light of the increase in interest rate.

Fishy Story of Indian Mafia Ties

RICHMOND (CP) — Native Indians who sell fish they net in the Fraser River are being taken advantage of by organized crime, says Bill Otway, executive director of the British Columbia Wildlife Federation.

Otway made the statement during a workshop at the B.C. Progressive Conservative party's annual convention.

Native Indians are allowed to fish the Fraser run for their own consumption, but it is illegal for them to sell what they catch.

Otway told about 25 persons at the workshop that organized crime is buying the salmon from the Indians at $4 a fish, and selling it at $4 a pound throughout B.C., the Prairie provinces, and Ontario.

He said fisheries officials estimated that one man who was caught selling fish bought from Indians had a potential profit of $375,000 for five weeks work.

Otway said that in the past five to seven years, the number of net permits for Indians on the Fraser between Mission and Kamloops has increased to about 1,500 from about 250, "and the Indian population hasn't increased like that.

"We do not quarrel with any Canadian who has need using these resources for basic sustenance," he said, "but we do quarrel with special privileges granted to any special interest group, particularly when those privileges usurp the management role assigned to our respective agencies."

Indian bands might do well at governing the fish resource, he said, "but they may do badly — and there is tremendous economic pressure on them to do badly" because the illegal fish trade is so profitable.

In addition, he said, if management is allocated to one segment of society, 'then commercial or sport fishermen have the right to demand control of the fishery, and "this is just as bad, this is chaos."

B.C. Art Dusted Off For Its Debut

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

It has been derided and denigrated.

Pompous politicians have panned it.

Most people have forgotten it even exists.

But the fact is, the B.C. Art Collection, — a 630-work art package — is in good hands and about ready to be redistributed to some 60 ministries and government offices waiting in line to exhibit part of the collection.

Although much of the work has been put down ("Garbage art," once sneered Mines Minister Jim Chabot), hundreds of fine examples of contemporary B.C. art are currently gracing the walls of government offices.

For the past 2½ years, about one-third of the collection has been gathering dust in a fur storage locker in a warehouse near the Mayfair shopping mall waiting for the Socred government to make up its mind what to do about the $500,000 collection.

Now a co-ordinator for the visual arts program has been hired.

Don Lindsay, a former interior decorator with the public works department, will catalogue and photograph the art works and get them circulating once again as was originally intended when the NDP began buying the art in 1974.

Under then-public works minister Bill Hartley, a special committee armed with a budget of nearly $1 million began scouring the province for the best contemporary B.C. art and ended up with a collection that is 95 per cent either by native B.C. artists or artists living in the province.

Some works were commissioned for specific buildings and another part of the program saw a small percentage of the cost of each new government building go to art for that building.

The main thrust of the program, however, was the idea of a rotating collection to go into ministers' and other government offices.

By the time the NDP were booted out of power some $250,000 had been spent on some 630 works of art — mostly paintings — although some sculptures and other art forms were also gathered.

About two-thirds of the collection was distributed and the remaining 200 or so were in storage awaiting cataloguing or framing when the Socreds came to power.

The new government immediatly put a halt to the purchase program and the cultural services branch was cut back to the point where it could no longer staff the vault.

About five months ago, Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf approved the hiring of Lindsay and the collection is once again about to become a circulating art bank.

Across from Lindsay's cluttered office, one locker has been converted into an art vault. The room is clean and bright, paintings line one wall and fill specially designed sliding viewing racks.

One corner has been decorated with carpets and comfortable chairs to resemble any one of hundreds of government offices.

It is in this atmosphere that Lindsay will invite representatives from various government departments to come and discuss the art works to be selected for their offices.

One of his first tasks was to trace the part of the collection that had been distributed under the NDP.

But after some fine detective work, Lindsay has surprisingly been able to account for all but two or three of the works.

Today he has more than two-thirds of the collection in the vault and is getting ready for redistribution once again.

He will make visits to the various offices and then use his interior decorator's expertise to select what he feels would be the most suitable works.

Another task facing Lindsay and others in cultural services is trying to convince the government, which once was so critical of the program, to expand it.

If the collection remains static, it is in danger of becoming an historical collection of the early 1970s instead of a constantly evolving contemporary collection, Lindsay said.

Once redistribution starts again Lindsay wants to see no more than 20 per cent of the collection in the vault at any one time.

One of the aims of the new distribution will be to get as much of the art as possible located in areas where the public has the best opportunity to see it.

And parts of the collection will regularly go on tours of the province.

This winter 59 works from the collection are being sent on a three-city European tour — B.C. House in London, Paris and Brussels, giving the rest of the world an opportunity to see the cultural depth that does exist way out here in the British Colmbia boondocks.

CAMOSUN PLANS CHANGES

Some administrative changes will take place at Camosun College in the next few months.

Camosun college council has decided to create a new division, health and human services, and a hire a director to run it.

Health and human services will include practical nursing, geriatric nursing, medical laboratory technician, dental assistant, early childhood education, social service assistant, special care aid and recreation instruction.

The recommendation to establish the new division was made in a report to council by Camosun principal Grant Fisher and principal-elect Lloyd Morin.

Programs in this field have been growing in different directions and bringing them together under one division will improve their quality, the brief said.

The brief also suggested the college develop its own diploma program for registered nurses, similar to programs taught at Royal Jubilee and Victoria General hospitals.

Council approved a second administrative change that will alter the division of instructional development and institutional research, now directed by Morin.

The division will become the institutional research and supporting services division and gather internal information on the college's complex network of campuses.

Escaper Still Loose

Police are still searching today for an 18-year-old Regina youth who escaped custody while awaiting transportation back to Wilkinson Road jail after making a court appearance.

Richard Monette, facing charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen property, escaped by kicking out an unbarred window in the sheriff's locup facility in the Law Courts building.

The escape occurred last Thursday, shortly after Monette and Bernard John Strating, 18, of 2872 Glenwood, had appeared before Judge William Ostler.

The pair were arrested in connection with three breakins in View Royal Aug. 5 and 6.

RESCUE RECORD IN SIGHT

Indications are that 1978 will be a record year for the number of marine and air rescue incidents handled by the Pacific Rescue Centre at CFB Esquimalt.

Up to 5 p.m. Thursday, 3,608 incidents had been recorded, compared with 3,984 between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 1977.

But by last week the previous marine rescue record had already been broken. A centre spokesman noted that 2,952 missions had been handled so far this year, compared with 2,830 in the whole of 1977.

There have been 391 air missions, 208 humanitarian (mostly air evacuations of people needing medical assistance) and 61 civilian calls, most of which were RCMP calls for assistance.

Yorke Seeks Second Term As Trustee

Peter Yorke is the second Greater Victoria school trustee to announce he is running for another term.

Yorke, 42, said in a letter to the Times he will seek reelection. He joins trustee Bud Smith, who at a recent school board meeting declared his intention run again.

After two years on the board, Yorke said he has gathered enough knowlege to be able to further the educational goals of the district.

His priorities are development of a vocational school, improving education for students with learning disabilities and making the entire system more stimulating for all students.

"We must continue to set the budget so that it not only allows for the proper and sufficient education of our children in this district, but must also be acceptable to the taxpayers as well," Yorke's letter of candidacy said.

Yorke has two daughters and is president of O.K. Tire Stores in Victoria.

Campaign To Avoid Blood Crisis

There was a "frightening" midsummer shortage of blood in the provincial blood bank and the Canadian Red Cross Society wants to ensure the crisis does not recur.

In launching an appeal for donors, the society says the summer shortage was due to a slump in attendance at donor clinics between May and September.

Last month Greater Victoria donors brought the 1978 total past the 10,000 mark but another 5,000 donors are required by year's end to meet the estimated goal for 1978.

Clinics for the remainder of October:

Tuesday, Oct. 17, Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, 2.30—8 p.m.

Wednesday, Oct. 18, Royal Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Residence, 11 a.m.—5 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 19, Hillside Mall, 2—8 p.m.

Friday, Oct. 20, 3rd Battalion PPCLI, 10.30 a.m.—3.30 p.m.

Monday, Oct. 23, Royal Roads Military College, 3.30—5.30 p.m., 6.30—8.30 p.m.

Tuesday, Oct. 24, to Thursday, Oct. 26, University of Victoria Student Union Building, 10 a.m.—4 p.m.

Minnie Court Fight Fund Drive Starts

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Residents of the Cadboro Bay—Ten Mile Point area are being asked to donate $25 per household to launch a proposed court battle against the recent Saanich council decision which approved the Minnie Mountain development scheme by Broadmead Farms Ltd.

The Cadboro Bay Residents Association sent out letters Sunday to about 1,100 area residents, informing them that the association believes it has grounds to challenge the decision on a possible technical conflict of interest involving Ald. David Paterson.

Association president Richard Boss said today the gist of the letter is: "If you want us to pursue this, send us some money because it's going to cost several thousands of dollars to take the thing to court."

He said the legal costs are likely to be between $5,000 and $10,000, and the letter suggests a per-household contribution of $25 toward the fighting fund.

Enclosed with the request was a copy of a letter from lawyer and North Saanich alderman Lawrence Fast, advising the CBRA that a potential conflict of interest could throw doubt on the validity of the Sept. 27 council decision.

The allegation centres on Paterson's position as an employee of a firm providing management services to the legal firm Pearlman and Lindholm, which has also acted for the Minnie Mountain developers.

Boss stressed that the argument in question raises only a "possible, technical" conflict of interest, and does not suggest that the alderman acted in any way improperly.

He also said that even if the necessary funds are forthcoming, it does not mean the association is committed to legal action.

The letter is basically an attempt by the group's executive to find out how strongly residents feel on the Minnie Mountain issue and how far they are prepared to carry the fight, he explained.

The response won't be known for several days, Boss added.

Meanwhile, Saanich council is awaiting an opinion from the Law Society of B.C. on several questions concerning both Paterson's position and that of Pearlman and Lindholm, the municipality's solicitors.

Council decided to consult the society as an independent legal source following conflict of interest charges raised by Ald. John Mika.

The Law Society has undertaken to provide the opinion by Nov. 6, and in the meantime council will stall fourth reading of the bylaw approving the land-use contract.

Gate-Crashing Guys Get Bounced By Gals

A women-only dance at the University of Victoria Friday night was disrupted by male students who tried to crash the party.

Members of UVic's Womens Action Group (WAG), who sponsored the dance, acted as bouncers and ejected 20 or 30 men during the evening, a group spokesman said.

The university patrol was called to the Student Union Building where the dance was held, said WAG member Trish Lakes, dance co-ordinator.

About a 100 women attending the dance were harassed by passersby who stopped to stare and make obnoxious comments, Lakes said.

Children at the dance were also bothered by people in the halls, she said.

Women-only dances have been sponsored by WAG for the last three years without previous trouble, Lake said.

There are no restrictions and women dance by themselves or with other women.

"It's a good way to release energy," according to Lakes, who said the dance was a social, not political event and open to all women on campus.

A spokesman for the Alma Mater Society (AMS) said trouble started when men drinking at the Student Union Building pub next door tried enter the dance.

"Some gentlemen who were drunk tried to gain entry. There was a lot of screaming, yelling and shouting going on," the AMS spokesman said.

No one was hurt during the scuffle, Lakes said.

Future dances will probably be held off-campus, because the event received too much adverse publicity.

Male student's upset by the women-only concept complained last week to the student newspaper, The Martlet, AMS president Dave Connell and student ombudsman Patty Beatty-Guenter said.

Ask the Times

Q. I see that Justice Minister Otto Lang says he would favor a referendum on capital punishment. Can you tell me what the situation is in the United States and Britain? B.R.

A. Between the 5-4 U.S. Supreme Court decision against capital punishment in June, 1972, and April 1975, 32 of the 50 American states have voted to restore it. The death penalty for murder was formally abolished on Dec. 18, 1969, in Britain.

Discovered in Monterey: A Soul-Mate

THE SKIES ARE GREY here, and the wind blows chill. But in old Monterey, where Gomez plies his trade, all will be gold and blue. Blue of the boat-swarming harbor. Gold of the mellow California sunshine that floods down through the interlacing boughs of Monterey's pepper trees.

I discovered Gomez on the apprach to Fishermen's Wharf.

A jazz festival had taken over the town. Its music was all-pervasive. It followed us as we strolled out to the wharf, a busy place where party boats came and went with their pay-loads of sport fishermen, and their rigging bright with multi-colored flags.

A crowd at dock-head clotted the flow of foot traffic. I heard laughter. Then I glimpsed a small, dark face and a pair of extraordinarily bright eyes under what appeared to be a wiry, brown brush-cut. I halted so suddenly that the fellow behind almost bumped into me.

Through a gap in the swirling crowd of holiday-makers, I saw him entire . . . a small, neat long-tailed monkey.

Gomez, whose name I learned later from his master, was dashingly dressed in a combination garment which consisted of striped jacket, shorts and a deep-pocketed apron. The tails of the jacket were cut sharply away on either side to give play to Gomez's own expressive tail, which he carried proudly arched.

Around his neck was a narrow collar to which a lengthy leash was attached. The other end of the leash was held by the monk's owner who, with his free hand, ground wheezy music from a barrel-organ.

I hadn't known that a barrel-organ still existed in North America. Charmed, I lingered to listen, and to watch clever Gomez work the crowd.

With brisk politeness, he would reach a paw for each extended coin, pocket it in his apron, then offer his other paw to be shaken. Sometimes if the coin happened to be large, perhaps one of the 50-cent pieces now rare in Canada but still common currency south of the border, Gomez would reward the donor with a sweeping, butt-in-air bow.

His thoroughgoing professionalism fascinated me. He was never still for a moment. Always, he was moving among the forest of legs, while his hand reached for coins and his sharp, sad eyes searched each face.

I took out a nickel, hunkered down and extended it to Gomez. He took it, inspected it, turned it over a couple of times, then dropped it in his apron. But he didn't make the grand bow, or even offer to shake hands.

Instead, he gave me a sorrowful gaze . . . one which plainly conveyed reproach. If the gift of speech had been his, no doubt he would have called me a cheapskate.

"Okay, okay," I mumbled appologetically, and again [illegible] a hand [illegible] pocket.

This time I came up with a quarter. Gomez accepted it, popped it in his apron, and extended a paw to be shaken.

I was turning reluctantly to go, when Gomez reached a restraining paw. He took hold of my pants leg, cuddled close, and directed at me an upward glance of such appeal that my hand went automatically to my pocket.

I gave him a quarter, then another one. It seemed to me that Gomez put extra warmth into his paw-shake.

We went off for a lunch of grilled sand dabs in a pierside restaurant with windows that looked out to the harbor. A party boat slid into its berth. It disgorged a batch of fishermen, each with his bulging gunnysack of fish.

"That Gomez!" I said to my dear one. "You ever see anything smarter?"

When we strolled back to Fishermen's Wharf, Gomez was still doing his business to the strains of the barrel-organ.

I knelt at the edge of the crowd. Gomez spotted me and came straight to me. Without benefit of coin, he offered his hand.

In my pocket was a 50-cent piece. I produced it and Gomez's paw closed around it. Up went his butt with a proud tail-flourish. Down went his chin. He was giving me the grand bow!

He was a mercenary-minded monk, and I'm sure, in his off-duty hours, he would be a temperamental little heller. But I like to think that something passed between us other than money . . . a sense of recognition, perhaps . . . and I remember Gomez fondly.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued their across-the-board tumble in active mid-afternoon trading on the Toronto stock market.

Livingston Industries Ltd. climbed 2½ to a new high of $34½ on 300 shares after resuming about 1 p.m. following news that Allpak Products Ltd., which holds 62.5-per-cent interest, will bid $36 a share for all remaining shares.

Canada Packers Ltd. Class C shares rose ¾ to $24 on 1,300 shares after a brief halt for dissemination of a dividend statement. Quarterly dividends will rise 1¼ cents to 25 cents payable Jan 2 to shareholders of record Dec. 8, the company said and a special payment of $1.25 will be paid Dec. 1 to record Nov. 17 shareholders.

National Trust gained 2 to $22¼ on 605 shares, Allarco Developments 1½ to $32½, S. B. McLaughlin Associates ½ to $9¼, Halifax Development 20 cents to $2.75 and CHUM Ltd. B ⅛ to $13¼.

McIntyre Mines was down 1¼ to $28½, Pine Point 1 to $26¾ and Craigmont Mines ⅜ to $5⅜. Roman Corp. rose ½ to $29¾ and Yukon Consolidated Gold five cents to $2.80.

Canadian Superior Oil dropped 2½ to $63½, Numac Oil and Gas 1¾ to $28 and Amalgamated Bonanza Petroleum 1⅛ to $33⅜. United Western Oil and Gas advanced 13 cents to $1.74 and Calvert Gas and Oil one cent to 64 cents.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a steep drop Monday in selling blamed on gloom over the interest-rate outlook.

Big-name stocks losing ground included IBM, off 3 to $283; Eastman Kodak, down 1¼ to $62¾, and Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, 1½ lower to $60⅜.

Volume was 16.15 million shares as of mid-afternoon.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .69 to 58.24.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices continued falling in afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange, with the 85-stock composite index down 3.86 at 221.47.

Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 410,480 shares traded, up from 385,448 shares traded up to the same time Friday.

Abitibi was down ⅛ at $18⅛, Alcan ⅞ at $40¾, Inco A ½ at $21 and CP Ltd. ¾ at $24¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Fears of pay settlements breaching government guidelines and concern over higher interest rates sent the London stock market lower at the close of light trading.

The Financial Times Index of 30 industrials closed at 494.6, off 1.6.

Leading industrials recorded widespread falls, while mining issues eased with lower bullion prices.

Soviet Industry Sluggish

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Soviet Union's economy, sluggish in 1976 and 1977, may be experiencing more difficulty this year, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency reports.

The agency's National Foreign Assessment Centre said that in the 1976-77 period the Russian gross national product, the total of all goods and services produced, increased at an annual rate of 3.8 per cent, about the same as the proceeding five-year average.

By comparison, the U.S. GNP increased by 6.0 per cent in 1976 and 4.9 per cent in 1977, Germany had an increase of 5.7 per cent in 1976 and 2.4 per cent in 1977 and Japan had an increase of 6.0 per cent in 1976 and 5.1 per cent in 1977.

The report cited a number of problems that the Russians must overcome if they are to achieve even the modest goals set for their economy this year.

The CIA said that industrial production, the traditional mainstay of Russian GNP growth, slowed to 3.9 per cent in 1976-77 from an average annual growth rate of 6.0 per cent in 1971-75.

A failure to produce key industrial commodities, especially steel, were the principle causes of the slowdown.

GOLD

LONDON (AP) — Closing gold prices Monday; in U.S. dollars an ounce:

London, 223.85; Paris, 225.62; Frankfurt, 224.13; Zurich, 223.875; Hong Kong, 220.38.

BUSY BEES

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's bees buzzed busily this year producing 65.9 million pounds of honey, an increase of 4.1 million pounds over the 1977 crop, says Statistics Canada in a preliminary report.

A final survey will be conducted later this month, but Alberta has the greatest production and Manitoba the most productive bees.

CATTLE

CALGARY (CP) — Receipts at the Calgary public stockyards to 11 a.m. consisted of mostly slaughter cows of mixed quality and condition and a light supply of replacement cattle and calves.

Trade was moderate to active with an advancement of one dollar on all grades of slaughter cows. A few good butcher bulls sold to steady prices. There were no slaughter steers or heifers on offer to quote.

Cows D1-2 46-48.50, D3 44.50-45.50, D5 41-44.50. Good bulls 50-56.50. A light run of good feeder steers over 800 pounds sold to steady prices. Good stock steer calves of 500-600 pounds also traded steady to a good local demand. A small package of stock cows brought active bidding and settled at $55. Good feeder steers over 800 pounds 70-75, good stock steer calves 500-600 pounds 85-92.

Takeover Cleared

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Directors of NCR Canada Ltd. have approved the takeover of Quantor Corp. pending approval of Quantor shareholders. NCR said holders of common shares will receive $3 a share under the proposed acquisition bid, while holders of preferred A stocks will receive the liquidation value plus accrued dividends which would total about $1.55 million.

HAIDA BRAVE, a $14 million self-propelled log barge, was christened Friday at Yarrows shipyard. The 398-foot barge, built for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., is slightly smaller than the company's first such vessel, the Haida Monarch, and her carrying capacity — 28 million board feet — is about two thirds that of the older ship.
